Nellie Fox Needs Only Three More Hits to Reach 2,500 Mark

By FRED DOWN UPI Sports Writer Nelson Fox, who already owns eight major league records, will soon achieve another statistical goal that will place him among the greatest second basemen in baseball history.

The combative little Chicago White Sox second baseman — who just might be the only fellow in the American league who hasn't conceded to the New York Yankees — needs only three more hits to reach 2,500 for his career. That's a total reached by only five second basemen — all hall of famers — Eddie Collins, Nap Lajoie, Frankie Frisch, Charlie Gehringer and Roger Hornsby.

Fox knocked in three runs with two singles and scored the White Sox' fourth run of the game Thursday in a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. The win enabled the second-place White Sox to move within eight games of the Yankees, whose six-game winning streak was ended by a 5-0 loss to the Los Angeles Angels.

Indians Over Twins The Cleveland Indians edged the Minnesota Twins, 3-2, the Kansas City Athletics defeated the Boston Red Sox, 2-0, and the Baltimore Orioles downed the Washington Senators, 4-2, in other American league games.

Fox, 35, singled home Mike Hershberger in the third inning and rode home on Dave Nicholson's triple. He also singled home two more runs in the seventh inning to boost the White Sox into a 4-0 lead and provide the necessary cushion for two relief pitchers to preserve Joe Horlen's fifth victory.

Major league records held by Fox include most consecutive games without striking out, most consecutive years leading in singles, most consecutive games played at second base, most years leading second baseman in chances, most season with 600 at bats and most years leading second baseman in putouts.

Twirls Three-Hitter Ken McBride pitched a three-hitter to win his 12th game for the Angels, who tagged fireballer Al Downing with his second loss. Downing paved the way for his own defeat with two walks in the first inning followed by a double by Felix Torres and a two-run single by Ken Hunt.

Willie Kirkland's three-run eighth inning homer brought the Indians from behind and provided relief pitcher Gary Bell with his fifth win. The Twins' runs came as a result of a homer by Johnny Goryl in the third inning and an error, a sacrifice, a walk and a single by Jimmie Hall in the seventh.

The Athletics completed a sweep of a four-game series with the Red Sox as Ed Bakow, Bill Fischer and John Wyatt collaborated in a six-hitter. Fischer, who pitched the middle six innings, won his ninth game while 13-game winner Bill Monbouquette suffered his seventh loss for the Red Sox.

Robin Roberts received credit for his eighth win of the season and the 252nd of his career by spacing eight hits over eight innings before turning over the late inning close-out relief to Stu Miller. Johnny Orsino's two-run single and Johnny Powell's homer were the big blows for the Orioles.

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

S. 793, a strong bill to protect the wildlife conservation values of the Tule Lake, Lower Klamath, Upper Klamath, and Clear Lake National Wildlife refuges, California and Oregon, has been reported favorably by the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

The purpose of this measure, the committee reported, "is to achieve an equitable settlement to a public land utilization problem that has been before the Department of the Interior for over 20 years. This bill would dedicate for the major purpose of waterfowl management, but with full consideration to optimum agricultural use that is consistent therewith, the land and water areas for four existing refuges established by Executive Order plus additional nearby public lands of some 6,891 acres for a total of some 133,000 acres so dedicated."

Because they were established by Executive Order, and not by congressional dedication, the refuges, particularly Tule Lake and Lower Klamath, have faced repeated efforts of homesteaders and irrigators to get control of large sections that presently are leased for agricultural purposes. The refuges are used by more than 80 per cent of the Pacific Flyway's waterfowl during spring and fall migrations. And many thousands of ducks, geese, and other species of marsh birds also nest and rear young there. The Department of the Interior and wildlife agencies and organizations have been urging Congress to stabilize the refuge boundaries and to formally dedicate areas to wildlife conservation for nearly two decades.

Hawkins Paces Open

Chicago-UPI-Golf pro Fred Hawkins was in a familiar spot today, he hoped the round would take a different turn to a new ending Sunday.

Hawkins, on the tour for 16 years with only one victory, was the first round pacer in the $50,000 Western Open with a four under par 67 on the thickly roughed, heavily wooded Beverly Country club course.

It was the same position he held at the same milepost of the same tournament on Medinah No. 3 course last year. But last year he sagged to a third place tie, earning only $3,075, when young Jacky Cupie, one stroke behind after 18 holes, came from behind for the $11,000 first prize after 72 holes.

Today Hawkins held a one stroke margin over three players heading into the second round, 48-year-old Skee Reigel, 27-year-old Joe Campbell, and 25-year-old Australian Bruce Devlin. The field was bunched tight behind them with eight players at 69, among them the Masters and PGA champion Jack Nicklaus.

FOR CONSERVATION

"The basic question before the committee," the report continues, "was whether to preserve the area primarily for conservation or to permit agricultural purposes and management techniques to limit the conservation purposes in certain respects. The committee resolved this issue in favor of conservation, primarily waterfowl management purposes, because it clearly appears that such a priority is in the public interest, not only for reasons of conservation of the important national and international resources of waterfowl, but also because the maintenance of an assured game habitat for these migratory birds is in the best interest of the great majority of affected agriculturalists. A good habitat at this location holds the birds until after the harvesting of crops to the south throughout California."

NEXT STEP

The committee's strong report and the wide support in and out of Congress for S. 793 raise hope that the bill may be approved during the current session. Similar bills already are pending before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. That committee's Irrigation and Reclamation Sub committee last year approved a bill much like S. 793, but it was lost in the rush to adjournment.
