

This Week's Plan for Home Builders

By HIAWATHA ESTES

This ingenious plan offers unique luxury and elegance which would delight any new home owner. Many say that a house does not have imagination. We think this one has. This becomes evident as one opens the wide front entry door and sees the tile floor in the entry leading to the bedroom hall, and through the kitchen-dining area to the family room.

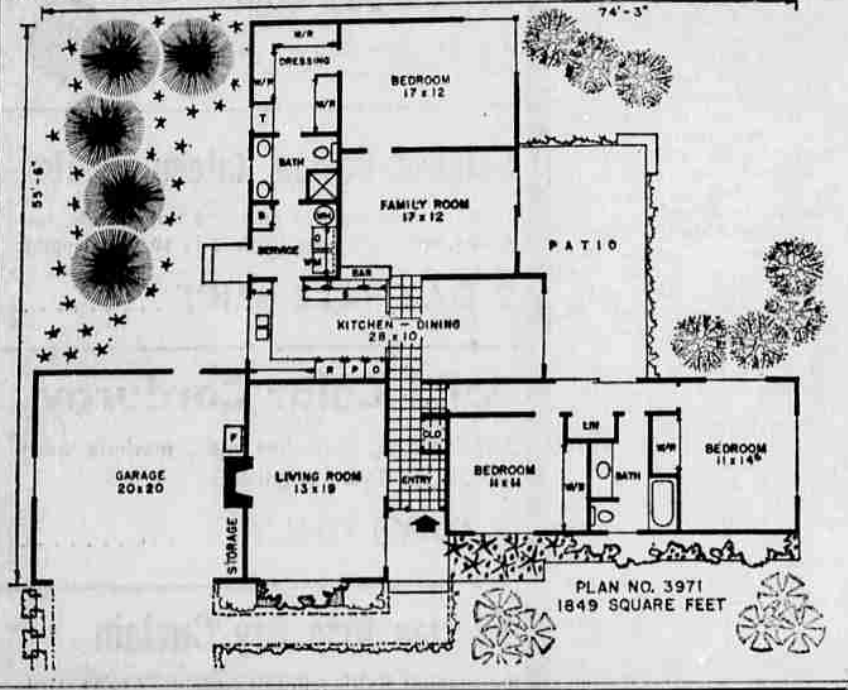

You would have a hard time locating a home better planned for a good night's sleep, for sleeping late in the morning or for a quiet afternoon's nap than this one. Parents have privacy in their appealing suite at the opposite end of the house from the children's rooms. The roomy dressing area offers an unusual amount of wardrobe space plus a dressing table. Both baths have pull-man lavatories and are readily accessible from different areas of the home. The private patio can be reached from the family room and the bedroom hall through sliding glass doors. Here one can entertain, sun bathe or just relax and enjoy life. The dramatic exterior is a real eye catcher. The handsome entry is covered by an impressive gable roof that is supported at one side by a screen which extends upward from a stone planter. ing to the family room and the partial walls next to the kitchen cabinets. Here is open-planning at its best. The full wall between the dining and family room could be converted to a partial wall with perhaps a screen above to add to the dramatic effect. The quality of built-ins specified for today's kitchens not only enhances their character but increases their value. In addition to a very generous size, this kitchen also offers a pantry, a bar back of the built-in range, an abundant amount of cabinets and a huge window over the sink.
