

Medford, Crater Athletes Head for Shrine Grid Drills

Four Medford athletes and one from Crater High departed Saturday morning to attend a two-week practice session in preparation for the annual Shrine State vs. Metropolitan All-Star football game to be held at Multnomah Stadium in Portland on Aug. 17.

Representing Medford on the State team will be high school graduates Dan Miles, Jack Lowrey, Gary Griffin and Lloyd Hammons. Mike Glines is the ex-Crater star.

Miles, who plans to attend Oregon State university on an athletic scholarship, is working this summer as a trampoline instructor for a camp park and recreation department. Dan, a grid quarter-back, played American Legion baseball this summer and has been keeping in shape for athletic events by long-distance bicycle rides and tennis.

Griffin plans on majoring in coaching or business administration at Linfield college this fall. Gary played linebacker for the Medford varsity and trained daily for the Shrine game by working out with the other players in sessions at the high school. His favorite recreational sports are water skiing and other water activities. Hammons has no plans as yet for the college, but he will major in either geology or physical geography wherever he goes. Lloyd, an end, is employed at the Burrill Lumber co. in the evenings and uses his time during the day to work out. His favorite pastimes are water sports with skin diving at the top of the list.

Glines To Linfield
Glines, from Central Point, is planning to get an education at Linfield college this fall and will major in coaching and athletic directing. Mike has kept in shape by running about three miles each day, by playing second base on the American Legion baseball team and by working at the McMinnville Plywood company.

These athletes were chosen to the All-Star team for their outstanding football records throughout high school. They will join the 23 other players on the combined teams for practice on the Portland State campus.

Coaching the starters this year will be veteran Shrine mentor Fred Spiegelberg, who is the Medford High school football coach.

Lowrey, who will also attend OSU in the fall, works daily at the White City Plywood co. Jack lists his favorite sports as water skiing and other recreational sports. Tornado halfback include running and long-distance rides on the bicycle.

Antelope Tag Drawings Held
Portland—About 40 interested hunters were on hand last Tuesday at the game commission's Portland headquarters to participate in or to watch the antelope tag drawings to determine successful applicants for the limited 1963 season scheduled Aug. 17 through 21.

A total of 3,860 hunters filed applications for the 650 tags allotted in the seven antelope hunting areas, which was considerably more than the number filing a year ago. The odds on individual success ran from about 3 to 1 in Area VII to as high as 10 to 1 in Area II.

In Area I, a total of 349 hunters filed applications for the 75 tags available. Area II received 722 applications for 75 tags. Area III had 634 applications for 100 tags. A total of 1,211 hunters vied for 175 tags allotted for Area IV. Applications numbered 404 in Area V, with 100 tags allotted. Area VI had 386 applications for 75 tags, and Area VII had 144 applicants trying their luck for 50 tags allotted.

The drawing sequence as determined by participating hunters was 5, 8, 7, 0 and 6. Although all numbers from 1 to 10 were drawn to round out the sequence, the large number of applicants for each area required only two or three digits to fill each area tag quota.

If hunters can remember their application number, all applications ending in the digit 5 were credited to the winning column. The number 5 winner included applications ending in 8, Area III required 24 drawn from digit 8, and Area IV required 63 applications with ending digit 8.

In Area V all applications ending in the digit 8 were successful, plus 70 ending in the digit 7. Successful applicants in Area VI included all applications ending in 8, plus 11 ending in the digit 7. In Area VII, successful applicants included all those ending in 8, 7, and 0, plus one application ending in the digit 6.

A complete roster of successful applicants will be available within a few days if hunters wish to check on their success or failure in the drawings.

Southern Oregon Dry Kiln tipped United Grocers 2 to 1 in the Major league and Colvin and Associate trimmed Communication Workers of America 8 to 1 in the Minor league in Friday games of the Jackson County Softball association.

The association now heads into its final week of the regular schedule.

Two makeup games are billed for Monday. Tru-Mix Concrete and Colvin vie at 7 p.m. in the replay of a tussle which was halted by darkness with the score tied 1-1. John Wheeler and SO Dry Kiln meet in the second mix, this second tussle is actually "play ahead" rather than "makeup" for it was originally set for Aug. 8.

United drew the first blood in the Major league mix on Friday. Bob Quinney whammed the ball over left field for a home run.

Dry Kiln markers also were on a home run. The round-ripper by Eddie Paxton in the sixth frame followed a single by Dick Kuschel.

Two Hits Each
Kuschel had two hits for Dry Kiln and Quinney and Duke Anderson each two for UG. Anderson doubled, Kuschel tossed a five-hitter for the Kilnmen with two walks and one strikeout. Blair Antonucci, on the slab for the Grocers, allowed four hits and two bases on balls. He struck out nine. DK shortstop Dick Deffley turned in some great fielding play.

SPUN OFF TRACK—Jalopy racers are caught in action by the camera during the last meet held at the Medford Speedway track in White City. Racing action, such as this, will be on tap this afternoon as a field of fifty of these older stock cars take to the Speedway. Here we see two cars that have spun off the track trying to get back into action while another jalopy passes them through the dust in the background. The X-100 car is driven by Harvey Beene of Medford and the 7-11 entry was piloted by Tony Yell of Prospect. Gates open at noon for today's auto scramble.

Area Drivers to See Action At White City Jalopy Race

A host of Rogue Valley auto race drivers will be in action this afternoon in a "Jalopy Derby" at the Medford Speedway oval in White City. Officials expect a field of more than fifty older model stock cars in the race around the one-fourth mile dirt track.

Track operators have posted a $150 purse, to be divided among the winners in today's affair. This is the first race of the season in which the drivers will be in contention for cash awards and this is expected to upgrade the tempo of the races from previous meets.

The track will be faster than it has been in previous races and improvements made last week should increase the speed of the cars. A new track record is expected during today's time trials.

Some of the Medfordites the fans will be cheering on today include Sam Dykes, Pat Tyler, Rob Childs, Wayne Howard, Markey James, Rusty Miller, Phil Stevens, Bob Fitzsimmons, Dave McCullom, Earl Stevenson, Glenn Cave and many more. Competitors from the Ashland-Talent area include Jim Walker, Charles Davis, Johnny Jones, Clark Warlick, and Dick Henry. Eagle Point riders will be cheering for Harvey Nelson, Dan Veach, Richard Short, John Bush and the Tony Yell-Tony Gardner car from Prospect.

Other cars are entered from Phoenix, Gold Hill, Jacksonville, and Central Point.

Gates are slated to open at noon with Time Trials beginning at 1 p.m. Competitive
