Portland - Southern Oregon conference members of the State Shrine all-star football squad are doing real fine in their drills for the Aug. 17 game with the Metropolitan stars, Head Coach Fred Spiegelberg, Medford, reported Saturday.

The Black Tornado club, who is a veteran as a Shrine coach, said that Medford quarterback Dan Miles likely will play behind Roseburg's Paul Brothers but has been running the team real well. He's doing a fine general's job and is popular with the boys, said the coach, Danny, of course, knows Spiegelberg's offensive system inside and out.

Mike Glines, who quarterbacked the Crater high Comets, is being used at right halfback and currently is the No. 2 man. "We like his speed," said Spiegelberg. "We need him more there than at quarterback," the mentor added. Glines is a versatile back, who performed a variety of chores for the short on depth Comets.

Griffin Calls Signals - Medford end Lloyd Hammons looms as possible offensive starter at right end but Spiegelberg hinted that the stellar ex-Tornado flankman is being pushed for the honor. ## New Technique Used For Conversion Of Water From Sea

Pittsburgh - (UPI) - Your seawater been tasting different lately? That's because of a new technique known as "thin-film vapor compression" developed by Westinghouse Research laboratories to make fresh water from the sea. The process, which eventually could reduce the cost of seawater conversion below the $1-per-thousand-gallon mark, is an improvement on established methods. It deals with ocean water by changing it to a vapor and condensing it back again to a liquid, leaving salt and other impurities behind. The basic principle of salt water conversion was well known to scientists. Westinghouse-built evaporator plants already have installed a capacity of more than six million gallons of converted seawater daily. The latest development is at Point Loma flash evaporator plant of the Office of Saline Water near San Diego, Calif. Here a million gallons daily are converted.

Schollander Takes 400 Freestyle

Chicago - (UPI) - The expected assault on records didn't take place during the first day of the National AAU men's swimming championships Friday, but California school boy Larry Anderson pulled off an almost impossible dive. The 17-year-old Anaheim, Calif., state high school champion, who never had figured in major competition, piled up an amazing score of 72.50 on a forward 3 1/2 somersault dive. Most of the winning names - the Indianapolis Athletic club, Don Schollander, Tom Stock and Ted Stickers - were familiar ones in the outdoor competition at the Ridgeland common pool in suburban Oak Park.

Schollander, another California teen-ager from the Santa Clara S.C., scored the biggest triumph of the day. He swept to victory by 25 feet in the 400 meter freestyle with a clocking of 4:17.7. The top-headed Schollander won the 1962 outdoor 200 meter freestyle and the 1963 AAU indoor 200 yard freestyle.

Stock, a world record holder in the back stroke, won his seventh national title by taking the 200 meter event in 2:12.4. But the 21-year-old Indiana University student from Aurora, Ill., missed his best time by more than a second. Stickers, another contender from the "loaded" Indianapolis team, splashed to his third consecutive 400 meter individual medley crown in 4:55.0. But, Stickers, 21, from Santa Clara, Calif., was four seconds over his American and world record.
