President Could Abrogate Pact On Quick Notice

Nation Urged To Keep Superiority

Washington –(UPI)– Secretary of State Dean Rusk urged Senate approval of the nuclear test ban treaty today and promised President Kennedy would abrogate the pact "overnight" to resume atmospheric testing if Russia violated it.

Rusk told three Senate committees that he believes the Soviet Union, which "looked into the pit of the inferno" in the Cuban crisis, would violate the test treaty if it felt this would serve its interest.

But he said he felt events of the past year gave Soviet leaders and others a look at nuclear war as an "operational matter" for the first time.

"In this day you don't play the game called 'chicken' with the lives of millions of people around the world," he said.

In a morning session, dramatic with historic overtones, Rusk told the Senate foreign relations and armed service committees and members of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee that:

–The Big Three treaty prohibiting all but underground nuclear tests is not based on "trust" of Russia. "You do not stake the life of a great nation on trust."

–The United States "must maintain a very large overall nuclear superiority" with regard to Russia – not just a balanced force. But, Rusk said, he believes that if unlimited testing were to continue a "kind of technical standoff" would result. The U. S. is now superior, he said.

–This government would not have to wait 90 days to withdraw from the nuclear pact if Russia cheated and conducted prohibited tests, which he said the U.S. could detect. "When the gut of a treaty collapses we are not limited to the 90-day withdrawal clause," he assured the senators.

No 'Internal' Details

–President Kennedy could "terminate the treaty immediately . . . overnight," if the Soviets violated it. He said the treaty did not deal with "internal" details, such as whether Congress or the President could abrogate it. Kennedy could act immediately, he said.

Sen. Leverett Staltonstall (R-Mass.), one of those who attended the treaty-signing in Moscow last week, asked why Russia agreed to the pact.

Rusk said he believed the Soviets concluded it was "in their interests."

In the past year, for the first time the nuclear powers had a look at nuclear exchange as an operational matter," he said, in a reference to the Cuban missile crisis. "Man had a chance to look into the pit of the inferno."

Rusk said U.S. preparations for nuclear weapons tests could proceed, under the treaty, "up to the point of explosion itself." He said the United States should, for example, maintain and improve its atmospheric test facilities on Johnson Island in the Pacific to insure against getting caught short by sudden treaty violations.

Rusk, testifying before an overflow crowd in the Senate caucus room, said the United States has not forgotten the lessons of its dealings with Russia since the end of World War II.

But he concluded that any "marginal risks" in the treaty are "far less' than those which would result if an unlimited nuclear arms race continued.

Sen. Kefauver To Be Buried Tuesday Near Madisonville

Washington – (UPI) – Sen. Estes Kefauver will be buried Tuesday in a cemetery only a few yards from his family farm house.

The body of the 60-year-old Democrat who died Saturday of a heart attack will be flown to his native Madisonville, Tenn., in a military transport. The body will lie in state in Madisonville's First Baptist church from 11 a.m. (edt) to 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

From the small church, Kefauver's body will be taken to the family farm. After brief services on the front porch, he will be interred in the cemetery near the old red brick farm house.

KeFauver's widow and four children, a delegation from the Senate and the nine members of the House from Tennessee will fly from Washington to Knoxville aboard a presidential jet plane Tuesday and go by automobile to Madisonville for the funeral.

Sought Presidency

Hundreds of persons including members of the House and Senate paid their respects Sunday at a Washington funeral home where the body was on view.

Kefauver, a loner whose great political sophistication contrasted with his earnest, plodding campaign style, twice aspired to his party's presidential nomination. But the goal eluded him, though he was the successful candidate for vice president in 1956.

Following tradition, the Senate will meet today to be officially notified of Kefauver's death. It will then adjourn for the day without transaction of any business except for the naming of the delegation.

Union, Big Six Employers Meet

Portland – (UPI) – Representatives of two striking lumber unions and the Big Six employers' bargaining association were scheduled to meet in a contract negotiating session here today.

An agreement between the two sides could pave the way for the end of the 69-day-old Pacific Northwest lumber strike.

Members of the International Woodworkers of America and the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' unions went on strike June 5 against the St. Regis Paper Co. and U. S. Plywood Co., members of the Big Six.

Administration Revamps Plan For Tax Reduction

Washington –(UPI)– The Kennedy administration today revamped its plan for cutting everybody's income taxes. The new plan, effective next Jan. 1, would provide net reductions of $10.6 billion, phased over a two-year period.

The revised formula compares with the original plan under which individual and corporate income taxes would have been reduced about $10.3 billion, with the cuts taking effect in three stages–on July 1, 1963, Jan. 1, 1964, and Jan. 1, 1965.

Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon outlined the new plan in testimony at a closed session of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Main Elements

Three three main elements of the revised plan:

–Individual tax rates would range from 14 to 70 per cent. That compares with the present schedule of 20 to 91 per cent and with the original plan to cut rates to a 14 to 65 per cent range.

–The tax rate on corporations would be cut to 48 per cent. That compares with the present rate of 52 per cent and the original proposal of a 47 per cent rate. The first $25,000 of corporate income would be taxed at 23 per cent, instead of the existing rate of 30 per cent. The original proposal would have cut this rate to 22 per cent.

–Revisions in the income tax structure would yield $690 million in new revenue, compared with the $3.2 billion originally proposed, jettisoning many of the original proposals.

By United Press International

Severe thunderstorms caused a rash of fires in Oregon during the week end.

The State Forestry department reported 16 new lightning-caused brush and timber fires were discovered in northeast Oregon this morning in the wake of thunderstorm activity Sunday night.

The new outbreak followed a series of 47 fires battled Sunday on state lands. Largest of Sunday's fires covered an estimated 160 acres six miles north of Elgin.

Jacksonville Has Another 'First' As Festival Opens

History was made again in Jacksonville yesterday when the Peter Britt Gardens Music and Arts festival opened. This is said to be the first such outdoor music and arts festival in the Pacific Northwest, and many other "firsts" are recorded for the small town which had its beginnings more than a century ago with the discovery of gold at the site.

Frank Bash, Medford businessman and civic leader, made the opening address and said "Much history has been made in Jacksonville in the past and history is again being made here today as this is the first planned annual outdoor festival in the Northwest . . . Our festival here in Jacksonville got its start on this same day 102 years ago (Aug. 11, 1861) when Peter Britt married Amalia Grob; it was through their love of nature, the planting, planning and tender care that they lavished on these gardens, that we are enjoying them yet today.

"Our program this afternoon is dedicated to Peter Britt and to the many people who have made this festival possible."

Bash was introduced by Jacksonville Mayor E. O. Graham who welcomed the group, numbering about 350 persons. John Trudeau, Portland, music director of the new festival, was introduced and conducted the 34 - piece orchestra in its first program. The musicians are from several cities in Oregon and California.

In the audience were Charles Gilman Davis, Portland architect who designed the orchestra shell, and Ernest Hood, formerly of Medford and now Portland, who composed a musical fanfare which was played to open the musical program.

The festival will continue through Aug. 24, with a schedule of concerts at 4 and 8 p.m. with a few exceptions. Tickets are available in Medford at 1 King st., or at the box office.

Patrons are reminded that no parking is available at the gardens, but passengers may be unloaded at the gate and cars may return downtown on a one-way grid. From the gate, a small bus provides transportation to the top of the seating area.

FFA, 4-H Fair To Start; Calf Lost

A nine-months-old Hereford calf is being sought by its anxious young 4-H owner today after it escaped from the fairgrounds Sunday.

When last seen the calf was heading north with a rope halter on it. Fairgrounds personnel spent most of yesterday and this morning hunting for it.

Meanwhile, livestock was continuing to pour in today in preparation for the start of the annual Jackson County 4-H and FFA fair tomorrow.

Record numbers of beef are expected this year and increases in swine, dairy, rabbits and poultry. In addition, 45 head of goats were entered.

The horse show which normally starts off the fair has been postponed to Aug. 24 and 25 due to the current state-wide influenza epidemic.
