

Construction by Power Firm in Area on Schedule

Portland - Construction of new transmission lines and substations and expansion of distribution system capacity to provide more electric facilities to serve growing power loads throughout the Pacific Power and Light company service areas in the Northwest are all on schedule, the company has reported.

E. Robert de Lucia, vice president and chief engineer, reported Tuesday P&L's mid-summer milestone check on the total of $55-million of construction had placed the work on pace despite the late start on work in western Oregon.

He noted the dollar volume of the 1963 construction and related payroll was at a one-year record level for regular system facilities.

Already in service are a 230,000-volt transmission line and a new substation which delivers energy from the big Wanapum project on the Columbia River into P&L's system at Walla Walla, Wash.

The Wanapum-Walla Walla line, built jointly with Washington Water Power company, represents $1,500,000 of Pacific Power's more than $10-million going into major transmission circuits in the current year.

Completed or nearing completion are substation expansions and 115,000-volt circuits providing large capacity or alternate lines supplying Oakland - Winchester, Lebanon-Sweet Home, Prineville, Klamath Falls, Roseburg, Medford, Albany and Corvallis in Oregon.

The largest single P&L project in progress is a $25-million expansion of the big coal-fired steam-electric generating plant near Casper, Wyo. The 200,000 - kilowatt turbine-generator will double the size of the station, making it the largest in the Rocky Mountain region.

Fichtner Warns of Driving Motorcycles

City Police Capt. Clyde C. Fichtner warned parents in Medford today that it is illegal for anyone under 16 or an unlicensed driver to operate light weight motorcycles which are becoming increasingly popular in the state.

Captain Fichtner said that since the two-wheelers are classified as motor vehicles, the same laws apply to their operation as those covering automobiles.

This means they must be operated by a licensed driver at least 16 years old. A 15-year-old who holds an instruction permit still is not able to drive a two-wheeler because the law excludes use of an instruction permit to operate a motorcycle.

Captain Fichtner also warned parents that such vehicles offer little protection to the rider in the event of a fall or collision and that riders should be thoroughly familiar with the vehicles before attempting to operate them in traffic.

Fighting Infectious Diseases

I recently read that last year, in one of our greatest American cities, there were only 44 cases of polio. Why weren't there a few thousand as there used to be? Because some years ago the people of this country of ours rose up and took a hand in helping us doctors to conquer this terrible disease.

As everyone now will remember, our people raised much money with which to support research and to help in the treatment of the children of poor parents. First, a killed vaccine, and later a live vaccine, was made, and as a result of giving these vaccines, last year, wherever mothers had taken the trouble to have their children vaccinated against polio, the disease was almost wiped out. One reason why paralysis in children did not disappear entirely was that there are a few rare viruses which can produce a disease that much resembles polio, and these viruses are not controlled by a polio vaccine. Such paralytic disease can easily be confused with polio, unless an expert study of the causative virus is made.

Tuberculosis, also, was almost wiped out years ago when all good people took a hand in helping the public health workers. But then, our people rather lost interest, perhaps because they thought the disease was practically gone. And, as a result, it is coming back, and is now worrying health officers.

Would Disappear
The big problem today is to find the many people with an active tuberculosis who are infecting the people—often children—who are living with them. If we physicians and the public health nurses could only find these people and then treat them, and cure them, we could soon make tuberculosis disappear.

Today there are many grandparents with a chronic cough who are dooming their adored grandchildren to a miserable death. I am sure they would come forward and be treated if they only realized what a terrible thing they are doing to their loved ones.

STUDENTS GREETED - Astronaut John Glenn greets some of the participants in one of a series of White House seminars for college students working in Washington for the summer. NOT JUST FOR DRESS

Petitions Received On Tax Proposal

The Jackson county elections department has received petitions calling for a special election on the tax program enacted by the 1963 legislature, it has been reported.

A total of 135 signatures have been verified.

The petition movement started by J. Francyl Howard, Albany weekly newspaper publisher, must have 23,185 signatures from Oregon voters by Sept. 1 to get the referendum proposal on the ballot.
