Bids for 14 Road Jobs Total Above $8 Million

Salem-770 - Apparent low bids for 14 projects totaling more than $8 million were opened here Tuesday by the State Highway commission. Largest of the projects was in Wasco county where Peter Klewit Sons, Vancouver, Wash., bid $3,907 for the Big Eddy-Cello section of the Columbia River highway about four miles east of The Dalles. The federal-aid interstate project covers 8.2 miles. Other projects, by county, included:

'Instant Beer' May Soon Appear For Consumption

Cincinnati, Ohio-770 - The unalloyed pleasure of a bottle or can of cold beer may soon be corrupted by an ersatz product called "instant beer." Delegates to the 27th biennial convention of the International Brewery Workers' Union were told Tuesday that the just-add-water product may soon be ready for distribution.

PROPOSAL TOO LATE

Portland-479 - A proposal by the Portland Art Commission that possible modifications be made in the structure of the Marquam Bridge is too late, a highway official said Tuesday.

UMATILLA FAIR OPENS

Hermiston-479 - The 50th annual Umatilla County Fair opens here today for a three and one-half day run.

New Many Wear FALSE TEETH With More Comfort

FASTTEETH (non-acid powder, holds false teeth more firmly in place, no sticky comfort, just approx. a little P.A.S. powder, party taste or feeling, CHESTNUTS at any drug counter, take to the new product.

The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a woman's editor. Each writes in a column of a family placement program, called "The Council," deals with problems, major and minor, presented by children, teenagers and general workers. Edited by Alma Deany. (Copyright by General Features Corp.)

Mrs. E. J. - Don't children have any duty toward a mother? Nadine J. T. - There are no musts any more. We do what we can. Mrs. E. J. - A year ago when my husband reached 65 and I 58, we came to Florida from New York. But he died last April and in my confusion I gave up my apartment, sold the furniture, and moved in with my Florida daughter, her husband, and son. Things were unbearable so I went North to be with my family, but they're very crowded, and I must settle somewhere. My California daughter asks me not to come there just now.

Nadine J.T. - I'm the Florida daughter referred to. My sister and I must settle in Florida and while things are so shaky there she certainly can't have my mother under her roof. As for me, I had one blow-up after another with Mother on the premises. It's inhibiting for my husband and our teenager. She has no money worries so why won't she rent a place near me? Her notions of "duty" are old-fashioned.

The Council: Mrs. J's wound is still too raw for her to think clearly. She made one mistake giving up her home. She's making others as

THE MEN WHO DECIDE OUR DESTINIES

U THANT OF THE UNITED NATIONS

The Ex-Schoolteacher Who Meets World Crises by Jack Ryan

U Thant's appointment as Secretary-General was a stop-gap compromise between the major powers that was to be of a short duration . . . however he has turned out to be more than a stopgap. His quiet exterior masks a steady moral strength which has won him great respect. Jack Ryan tells the fascinating story of the rise of this humble man from a small Asian country to world-wide prominence in the
