Ashland BPW Attend Picnic

Ashland - Business and Professional Women's club held a picnic recently at the David Lindsay ranch on the Greensprings road.

Hosts for the picnic were Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay and their daughter Nancy. Guests joined in games and a variety of sports.

In July the BPW club float "Belles of Freedom" won first prize in its division in the Fourth of July parade. In addition, the club's cotton candy booth in Lithia park proved successful, according to club officials.

Mrs. Virginia Westerfield is the new president.

cordier; Russell White, Portland, French horn; Beverly LeBeck, Portland, cello; Charles Heiden, Eugene, violinist and concertmaster for the orchestra and Miss Moore.

The Friday afternoon concert will open with all three movements of "Concerto a Tre in F major" featuring the recorder, French horn and cello. This will be followed by "Suite I" by Schultze, with the same group playing. The suite has seven movements.

The closing number will be a Brahms trio for piano, violin and horn.

Orchestra To Play
Friday night Director John Trudeau will again conduct the full orchestra in a program featuring James Smith, trumpet soloist, and Gretel Shanley, Los Angeles, principal flutist with the orchestra. Mr. Smith will play Stanley's "Trumpet Tune" and Miss Shanley's number will be "Poem for Flute and Orchestra" by Griffes.

The orchestra will play "Suite for String Orchestra" by Corelli and Stravinsky's "Pulcinella Suite" in eight movements.

Russell White, principal horn player with the Portland Symphony orchestra, was educated at the University of Washington and Lewis and Clark college, Portland. He studied in Los Angeles with two well known horn players, and has been a student of the virtuoso hornist, Phillip Farkas. He joined the Portland orchestra in 1955 and has been first horn player for the past four years.

Mr. White has played with several chamber music groups in Oregon and Washington and is in demand as a soloist. This summer he is playing at both the Sun Valley Music camp and in Jacksonville with the Britt festival orchestra.

Margaret Moore was educated in Portland and for two years attended the University of Southern California where she majored in piano and

Art Show Results Announced

Adults and children showed close agreement in voting for their favorite work in the recent art exhibit held by the Southern Oregon society of Artists in Ashland's Lithia park.

In the oil painting category, both adults and children placed "Lost Creek" by Glen Brown, Ashland, in first place. Adults voted "Old Bert" by Emil Knutson, Medford, in second place, and children placed it in third position. As their third choice adults picked "Sunrise" by Dorothy Beck, Gold Hill, and the children voted a tie for second place: "Crater Lake" by Marie Starks, Central Point, and "Delliah's Deception" by Cora McMahon, Medford.

Water Color
Adults and children agreed on their first choice in the water color division: "Ben Hur" by Blanche Johnson, Central Point. Adults placed "Siskiyou Stage" by the same artist in second place and the children voted it third place. Other paintings by the same artist were "Arabian Horses," third place in adult division, and "Summer Pasture," second place in children's voting.

Sculpture
In sculpture, "Big Chief" by Grace Kurz, Medford, was second in adult and first in children's voting. Adults chose "Cougars at Rest" by Grace Kurz in first place and had three tied for third place: "Shakespeare Dancers" by Teeda Bishop, "Free Space" by Jim Lewis, Ashland, and "Repose" by Ida Johnston. The children voted "Shakespeare Dancers" for second, and "Altar of War" by Grace Kurz for third place.

Miscellaneous
"Mud Piece" by Ruby Tweddell, Medford, was selected second in the miscellaneous category by adults and tied for second place with "Reproduction and the Web" by Patricia Aldrich, in children's voting. The latter art work was placed first by the adults. Third place in adult voting was "Scene on the Rogue" by Elizabeth Sheffield, "Rogue River," and "Paladin" by George Johnson, Central Point, was chosen by the children.

Over 2,000 persons attended the show, which was said by some art patrons to have been the best and most professional exhibit ever displayed locally.
