Forty Niners Have 'A Lot of Problems' In Grid Openers

Editor's note: This is another in a series of dispatches sising up prospects of professional football teams for the 1963 season. S.F. FORTY NINERS By HAL WOOD UPI Sports Writer San Francisco - UPI - For 17 frustrating years, die-hard San Francisco Forty Niner football fans have been hoping and praying for a grid championship - any kind of a title at all.

But already they have doubted their hopes for winning the National league crown in 1963. The Forty Niners, off to a weak start with defeats in their first two exhibition games, admittedly have a lot of problems.

"We have to improve our pass protection and our tackling if we are going to be a winner this year," says coach Red Hickey. The pass protection has been improved a bit, but the tackling still is sloppy. And the defensive line has proved a bit leaky.

Still Hoping But the old "hope springs eternal" phrase fits Hickey and the club. The team still has some good personnel, and there is belief that the rookies could turn it into a championship outfit.

The best of these could be Kermit Alexander, the No. 1 draft selection from UCLA. Alexander, a defensive stand-out in the All-Star game in Chicago, came to camp late and was used on defense by the Forty Niners in their opening exhibition against Minnesota.

The first two times Alexander got his hands on the ball he romped for 95-yard and 83-yard touchdowns. So immediately Hickey switched him to offense, hoping he would be the break-away back the club had been looking for ever since Hugh McElhenny was put up for grabs.

Another rookie, Don Lisbon from Bowling Green, was seen a lot of action in the backfield before the regular season gets under way. Brodie At QB The quarterback again will be John Brodie; and the fullback is expected to be J. D. Smith, who reported late and underweight after a siege of mumps. Mike Lind of Notre Dame, if he can stay away from injuries, may be the No. 2 fullback.

The veteran Leo Nomellini is supposed to anchor the defensive line again. But at 39 years of age, Leo has slowed up a bit. Others in the defensive unit will include ends Dan Colechio, Len Rohde and Clark Miller, tackle Charlie Krueger, and line backer Ed Pennington, Ed Pinner, Mike Dowdle and Carl Kammerer. The strongest points of the team's secondary in recent years, will include Abe Woodson, Eddie Dove, Jerry Mertens, Dale Messer and Elbert Kimbrough - if Alexander stays on the defensive team. Brodie's receiving ends in-

Billings 8-4 in the opening round of the tourney Thursday but lost to the same club 5-4 in 10 innings Sunday night.

Williams to Pitch Dick Williams is scheduled to be Roseburg's starting pitcher in the finals. Mike Blomberg's homer with Jerry Boucock and winning pitcher Ran Cool on base capped the scoring in the five-run inning. Dave Sevall singled in Lance Casebeer and Cool batted in Sevall with a single for the first two runs in the frame.

Beamer Drives in Final Run The winners finished their scoring in the seventh inning when Cool, Blomberg and Artie McDonald collected consecutive singles to load the bases and Jim Beamer hit a sacrifice fly. Cool registered his 16th victory in 17 decisions this season. He was relieved in the seventh by Williams. Losing pitcher was Bob Kidwell. Steve Arnold hit a three-run triple in the seventh for Lewiston's last runs.

All-Stars Deliver 5-0 Blow To Down New York Yankees

Buffalo, N.Y. - UPI - The world champion New York Yankees are not too proud to take a pitching and hitting lesson once in a while. The International League All-Stars were the expert teachers Monday night before the largest crowd in Buffalo baseball history-28,524. The Stars, piloted by Jacksonville manager Casey Wise, administered a 5-0 licking to the Yankees in one hour and 54 minutes. The Stars clubbed 10 hits, seven off the offerings of losing pitcher Bill Stafford and three off southpaw Bud Daley. The two most damaging blows were a two-run home run by Arkansas left fielder Richie Allen in the first inning and a bases-empty shot by Richmond second baseman Pedro Gonzales, a Yankee farmhand, in the second. While the Stars were hitting sharply, the Yankees could muster but two safeties off the serves of winning pitcher Willie Smith, a stylish Syracuse left-hander. Rochester right-hander Nelson Chittum, Arkansas southpaw Billy Smith and Atlanta right-hander Harry Fanok. Center fielder Jack Reed hit a single to center with the two gone in the fifth for the first Yankee hit and John Blanchard doubled off the right field screen in the seventh. No Yankee reached third base.

Allen got a third-inning single in addition to his homer and Jacksonville first baseman Jay Barker ripped two singles to pace the All-Star attack. The victory squared the exhibition series between major and minor league opponents at four games apiece. Daley, who has appeared in only one game for the Yanks this season, gave up two eight-inning runs on a single to Gene Stephens of Indianapolis, a double by Earl Bond of Jacksonville, an error by third baseman Harry Bright and a sacrifice fly by Gene Alley of Columbus. Stafford struck out six during his six-inning stint while the four All-Star pitchers totaled nine strikeouts. The Stars stranded eight men and the Yanks left five runners on base.

Reserves Available Although they are looking for a capacity house, OSA officials have emphasized that there are still about 5,000 reserved seats available and that general admission tickets will not go on sale until 9 a.m. Saturday. Baker won so many honors and established so many records in his career at Oregon State that it would take an IBM machine to keep count. Probably the two most important were his selection as winner of the Heisman Trophy as the best football player in the country and being named Sportsman of the Year by Sports Illustrated magazine. Baker made his pro debut with the Rams last Saturday against the Minnesota Vikings and he is earmarked for action against the Cowboys Saturday night.

Weston's 34-34 left him five strokes ahead of Sid Milligan of Eugene, who turned in a 37-36-73. George Beecher, Prineville, former Oregon Golf association match play champion, was another stroke behind at 38-36-74. Batters of Leading Dodgers Face Card's Musial Tonight

Los Angeles -UPI- The Los Angeles Dodgers are the league leaders, but the attraction at their homecoming tonight at Chavez Ravine will be an opposing 42-year-old outfielder, with a unique batting stance and a unique major league record. That's Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, whose corkscrew position at the plate has made him one of the most recognizable players in baseball, and one of the most dangerous to a pitcher's record. Musial, due to retire at the end of his 22d season this year, will be making his final appearances in Los Angeles during the three Red Bird games. Only the promise of a final peek at the player who became a great during his own career could overshadow the return of the Dodgers, who increased their league lead to five and one-half games on the road. What it didn't overshadow was the fact that for their home stand the Dodgers will be taking on the top contenders in the league. They played havoc with the last-place Mets in their last four sulciase games, and celebrated by taking a rest Monday. But for the next 18 games the Dodgers will not only have to contend with the Cardinals, currently in second place after hammering out an 8-7 decision over the Giants Monday-they'll also meet Milwaukee, Cincinnati and the third-place Giants. The remaining five games of the stand will be played with Houston and Chicago, both teams that came out on the losing side during the Dodgers road trip. Dodger skipper Walter Alston planned to use his three stars against Musial and the Redbirds, with Johnny Podres, 11-8, slated for mound duties tonight, to be followed by Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale. For St. Louis, either Lew Burdette, 8-9, or Ray Sadecki, 5-9, will attempt to start evening up the season record with the Dodgers. Los Angeles holds the edge, 7-5, for the season, thanks to a three-game sweep during the last Cardinal stay in Chavez Ravine.

In opening day action Monday, Farmington smashed Frankfurt, Germany, 6-0, with Farmington pitcher Doug Vaughn pitching the fourth one-hitter in Babe Ruth league world series play. Atlanta beat Oak Lawn, Ill., in the second game 10-5. Three errors, a balk and two wild pitches in the fourth inning gave Atlanta a big five-run inning.
