DOUBLE KILLING CAUSES UNIVERSITY CLOSURE

Quito, Ecuador—(UPI)—Loja university was closed today while authorities investigated a double killing which may have been inspired by Communist misappropriation of university funds. Jorge Piedra Pina, bursar of the university, shot and killed government auditor Jose M. Espinosa Monday night and then committed suicide.

MOSQUE COLLAPSE KILLS 110

Bombay, India—(UPI)—A Moslem mosque crowded with praying men, women and children collapsed last night in the central Indian town of Yeotmal, killing at least 110 persons and injuring 68.

CONGRESSMEN CALL FOR INVESTIGATION

La Paz, Bolivia—(UPI)—Opposition congressmen called on the U.S. Senate last night to investigate what they described as U.S. Ambassador Ben Stephansky's "interference in internal politics." Deputies and senators representing the PSB and PRA parties said in a cable addressed to the Senate Foreign Relations committee that Stephansky appeared to be siding with the governing MNR party.

House Being Pushed Toward Passage of Foreign Aid Bill

Washington—(UPI)—Administration forces today pushed the House toward a reluctant approval of the $4.1 billion foreign aid bill, but observers predicted a close vote.

The measure, if approved, would bring to $108.1 billion the total U. S. outlays for foreign military and economic assistance.

With the program under its heaviest attack, Democratic leaders saw possible losses on some of the 30 or more amendments set for submission today and Thursday.

However, the leaders hoped President Kennedy's plea Thursday would help win support for the measure.

Heavy support was building for some of the amendments to the bill, particularly one that would block, at least temporarily, construction of a huge steel mill for India.

Other Congressional news: Small Business: A spokesman for the AFL-CIO expressed sympathy for the plight of the small retailer, but insisted that the quality stabilization bill would make it worse instead of better.

Andrew J. Biemiller, director of the AFL-CIO department of legislation, told a Senate commerce subcommittee that the federal price-fixing proposal would tend to squeeze out small merchants who could not afford to carry inventories of both price-fixed brand names and lower-priced private brands.

Debt: The Senate Tuesday passed the administration's request to extend the $309 billion temporary national debt limit until Nov. 30. The vote was 57 to 31. If Congress failed to act, the debt limit would have reverted on Sept. 1 to its permanent level of $285 billion.

Fire Destroys Small Barn With Some Hay

Fire early yesterday destroyed a small barn and its contents belonging to Zola Ravey, route 1, box 241, Old Stage rd., the Central Point Rural Fire department reported.

The blaze, reported about 2:41 a.m., consumed the barn and a ton of hay. Estimates of the cost of the damage were not made, the department said.

Graham Says Emotion in Religion May Aid Faith

Los Angeles—(UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham said Tuesday night that more emotion in religion might spark "a return to heartfelt faith in Jesus Christ."

"Nazism had fire; communism has fire, and Christianity had better catch fire," he said.

OSU Enrollment May Fall Under 10,000

Corvallis—(UPI)—Enrollment at Oregon State University this fall may be under the 10,000 registration of last year, Milosh Popovich, OSU dean of administration, told the Corvallis Chamber of Commerce Monday.

There are about 300 fewer student reservations for dormitories this year, he said.

Last January it was estimated there would be 10,900 students enrolled this fall, he said. This was cut to 10,400 when out-of-state tuition and entrance requirements were increased. Now, he said, the latter estimate looks optimistic.

Graham hit at "Godless theories" and said "the Ten Commandments have been laughed at" in his talk before a crowd of 34,150. It was the fifth session in his current 25-day crusade at Memorial Coliseum.

Graham told his audience that religion must go deeper than mere attendance at church services.

"While I have never subscribed to sensationalism, surface emotionalism or flashy religious demonstrations, I believe there is a burning need

Senate Group Holds Showdown With Rail Leaders

Washington—(UPI)—Members of the Senate Commerce Committee held a showdown session with union and management negotiators today to see if there was any chance for an agreement in the railroad rules dispute.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, who continued his mediation efforts until 4 a.m. (EDT) today, joined the closed-door session.

Two chiefs of the major rail unions—Engineers President Roy Davison, and Firemen's Union President H. E. Gilbert—flew to Washington Tuesday night for last minute talks with Wirtz.

Wirtz presented new proposals to leaders of the five unions in an effort to clinch a tentative arbitration agreement reached last Friday.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.), of the Senate Commerce committee, called today's meeting to see whether his group should go ahead with legislation to avert a threatened Aug. 29 nationwide rail strike.

The administration has been attempting to get a private agreement so it would not be necessary to pass a law for settlement of the snarled controversy. But peace efforts by Wirtz ran into snags over procedures for settling secondary issues and the wording of the arbitration agreement.

Has Proposal

At his news conference Tuesday, President Kennedy disclosed that the committee members would present a proposal by Wirtz "for settlement of the dispute."

Kennedy said that if the plan is turned down, the Senate committee "must make a judgment as to whether they will accept the legislative proposals we sent up, or some proposal of their own."

If the committee approves the administration proposal for ending the work rules controversy, it would be turned over to the Interstate Commerce commission (ICC).

One member of the committee was optimistic about a solution to the four-year-old deadlock.

After hearing Wirtz's proposal for settling the dispute, Sen. Hugh D. Scott (R-Pa.) said: "I think there's good reason for hope here." But he added that Wirtz asked that the plan be kept confidential.

Works On Differences

Wirtz was attempting to eliminate differences between the union and management spokesmen over the proposed arbitration agreement and procedures for handling secondary issues in the dispute.

Sources close to the committee indicated that the selection of a group to confer with Wirtz and labor and management representatives, in effect, constituted an endorsement of the new proposal.

One of the unsettled issues is whether bargaining on the so-called minor matters should come before or after arbitration of the two key disputes—employment of firemen on diesel locomotives and the size of train crews.

Mt. Ashland Loop Area Is Toured By Advisory Group

A group of area businessmen and women toured the Mt. Ashland Loop rd. Aug. 14. They were accompanied by Carroll Brown, supervisor of the Rogue River National forest, who described the points of interest at which the group stopped.

The group inspected the Mt. Ashland ski area where Dr. Elmo Stevenson explained the history of the area and the proposed improvements. Dr. Stevenson, a member of board of directors for the Mt. Ashland corporation, has been interested in developing this area for several years.

McDonald Basin, a deteriorated watershed, was inspected and the condition of the soil and vegetation was discussed. Glennon Jefferies, ranger on the Ashland Ranger district, explained the remedies the Forest service proposes to combat the erosion. Damage to Campground

Lunch stop was at Wrangle Gap campground where the damage to the shelter was examined. A large tree struck a corner of the shelter and caused severe damage to one end of the structure.

The tour continued into the Silver Fork basin where erosion control measures and forage production for livestock were discussed. The policy of the Forest service on management of resources for recreation was explained and commented upon.

The last portion of the trip was over the Beaver Creek rd. into the Applegate valley. Tour Members Tour members were Eric Allen Jr., Harlan Cantrall, Bill Hallin, Jack Hanel, Mrs. Kathryn Heffernan, Mrs. Marcel LePinec, Stuart McQueen, Aubrey Norris, Tom Oliver, and Robert Shaw, who are members of the Rogue River National Forest Advisory board.

The trip was to acquaint them with some of the problems and programs the Forest service has in this area. Their comments and suggestions help form the decisions of the forest supervisor in the area. Martin Grier and Fred Straube, two Applegate valley cattlemen, accompanied the group as guests of Neil Suttell, Applegate district ranger.
