

New Sensation Is Experienced During Afternoon Concert

Ashland - An audience accustomed to rare and artistic performances yesterday experienced a new sensation as Miss Gayle Sandine read and sang the Psalms of David. Her appearance highlighted the Wednesday afternoon Festival concert in the Mark Antony hotel ball room.

The young singer has not only a beautiful voice but a radiant smile and an amazing depth and intonation in her simple reading of the familiar Bible poetry. To her own accompaniment on the autoharp, Miss Sandine presented the Psalms with deep feeling, singing exultantly or prayerfully, while changing to the spoken word with breathless pause. The light background music she punctuated by striking a triangle.

The strangely moving presentation was given an added poignancy by the fact that the slender blonde, blue-eyed singer who has been blind since birth, "sings unto the Lord with a joyful voice," jubilant and reverential.

Prolonged Applause
Prolonged applause did not lessen the profound sense of worshipful praise. In contrasting mood was Miss Sandine's encore, "The Old Lady Who Swallow a Fly," given in hilarious animated tempo that brought roars of laughter.

The Coos Bay singer was graduated from Willamette university in 1960 and in recent months has developed her own technique of vocal expression in programs ranging from children's rhymes and stories to Biblical readings.

Festival musicians and dancers gave another in the series of semi-weekly concerts before an appreciative audience, repeating several numbers and presenting some additional selections. Outstanding was a suite of allegorical dances with instrumental background.

Rumour, depicted by pointing fingers and peering glances, was accompanied by dance steps themed to the subject, while Curiosity took on inquisitive gestures, and Earth became a solo of slowly circling arms. With floating ribbons Air danced lightly, followed by Fire, a whirling flame of banners, and Water, a soft mingling of chiffon draperies in muted tones of blue and lavender.

Polish Composition
A Polish composition of the mid-18th century was a dance of haunting melody and piping notes excellently suited to Elizabethan reed instruments. Ashland audiences have become familiar with records and enjoy their strange tonality, so the trio and quartet playing Fr. Escobaldi's "Canzona" and the Polish "Duma" were accorded appreciative applause. Vocalists, instrumentalists and dancers are sharing alike in the universal acclaim given the season's concert series.

Sunday at 3 p.m. another program will be presented in the Caesar room of the Mark Antony hotel under the direction of festival music director W. Bernard Windt, as-

Freeman To Hold To Cabinet Post

Washington - (UPI) - Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman plans to hold on to his cabinet post "as long as the President wants me."

Freeman, who returned from a month-long trip to Russia and other Soviet bloc nations Tuesday, said he had "no indication" the President did not want him. Republicans claimed Freeman's trip was to groom him for a diplomatic post and then to ease him out of the cabinet because of the administration's defeat in the wheat referendum last May.

PRESENTED MEDAL - President Kennedy is presented a medal minted in Mexico, during ceremony at the White House Tuesday in connection with the second anniversary of the Alliance for Progress. The medal, bearing the Alliance seal and the date, is being presented by Dr. Jose A. Mora, secretary general of the Organization of American States. (UPI)

Polaris Sub To Be Overhauled To Up Offensive Punch

Washington - (UPI) - The nuclear Polaris submarine George Washington will be overhauled, refitted and refueled to make it a more deadly weapon, the Navy has disclosed.

The job will take a year and will cost about $15 million. It will begin next June when the George Washington puts into Groton, Conn., for its first reactor refueling in nearly five years.

The overhaul will include modifications that will enable the underwater vessel to carry 2,500-mile A-3 Polaris missiles which are 30 inches longer than the 28-foot, shorter-ranged types now in service. It will continue to carry 16 missiles but the tubes for them must be extended.

The date set for the overhaul - several months later than had been expected prior to today's statement - represents an extension of nearly a year and a half in the operating lifetime of the vessel's original reactor core.

Advance predictions were that the sub would require overhaul and refueling every three years. The George Washington's reactor went "critical" in September, 1959. After sea trials, it joined the fleet in December, 1959.

The $110 million submarine was the first in a Polaris fleet which now numbers 13 A-3 m - driven subs. Eight more are to be completed in the next 11 months, 14 others are under construction, and six are in the design stage.

Navy headquarters shifted the George Washington's extensive overhaul to Groton from the government yard at Portsmouth, N.H., after the nuclear-powered submarine Thresher was lost with 129 men off Cape Cod, Mass., April 10. The Thresher had just been overhauled at Portsmouth.

A country-wide delay in submarine construction, reducing by three the number of Polaris vessels to be completed in this fiscal year, has also been ordered to allow for precautions against a possible recurrence of the Thresher disaster.

The Navy earlier last week announced award of a $3 million contract to the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. to prepare for the George Washington's overhaul. A spokesman said today the initial contract covers only preliminary work.

Britain's concession of a Polaris maintenance base at Holy Loch, Scotland, may have been a factor in extending the submarine's reactor.

Retail Ice Sales Climb, Says Expert
New York - (UPI) - William T. Jobe, executive vice president of the National Ice association, predicts that consumers will purchase more than $100 million worth of processed packaged ice in 1963 for the first time in the history of the ice industry. He said large quantities of packaged ice also are sold to restaurants, taverns and institutions.

Retail sales of ice last year amounted to $90 million. Jobe estimated that total sales volume, including industrial and commercial, will be more than $225 million this year.
