

Anti-Integrationist Wins Mississippi Democratic Primary

Jackson, Miss.—UPI—Lt. Gov. Paul Burney Johnson Jr., the defiant segregationist who won Tuesday's Democratic primary runoff for governor, accepted congratulations today from Gov. Ross Barnett, one of his chief supporters.

Barnett, prohibited by law from succeeding himself, paid a post-midnight call to Johnson's hotel suite and expressed delight with the decisive triumph over former Gov. J. P. Coleman.

With all but 64 of the state's 1,874 precincts complete, Johnson had 247,878 votes to Coleman's 186,469.

Barnett called it "an endorsement of states rights, constitutional government and segregation of the races."

Sweep State
Johnson, 47, lost three earlier races for governor, but in this campaign he capitalized on the University of Mississippi integration crisis and opposition to the Kennedy administration to sweep the state with the exception of a few counties in Coleman's native northeast Mississippi and a couple of strong labor counties in south Mississippi.

Johnson, a gaunt and balding son of a former governor, joined Barnett in physically blocking the admission of Negro James Meredith to "Ole Miss" last fall. The lieutenant governor told voters he had "stood up for Mississippi" and he repeatedly attacked Coleman for supporting John Kennedy in the 1960 presidential race.

By United Press International
A federal judge, citing racial tension, Tuesday blocked the first voluntary school desegregation in the Deep South state of Georgia.

The ruling, which stopped the enrollment of six Negroes at a Brunswick, Ga., high school, was handed down while Negroes from throughout the nation traveled to Washington for today's historic freedom march on the nation's capital.

Although Brunswick integration was blocked, the school board at nearby Savannah, Ga., announced Tuesday that 21 Negroes will be admitted to two white high schools.

The Savannah board acted under an order of the same judge who halted the Brunswick desegregation.

At Buras, La., Archbishop John P. Cody called for citizens to overthrow "hateful influences" which he blamed for an explosion and fire at a once-integrated Catholic school.

The bishop Tuesday closed Our Lady of Good Harbor No. 2 school after a gasoline blast and fire ripped the building Monday night.

Racial developments elsewhere in the nation:

Ocala, Fla.: Thirty-one Negroes were to be arraigned in county court here today on charges stemming from recent racial demonstrations.

Montgomery, Ala.: Suit was filed in federal court here Tuesday by a Negro student seeking entrance to Auburn University Graduate School. Harold A. Franklin, a 1962 graduate of Alabama State College, named William V. Parker, dean of the school, and Charles W. Edwards, university registrar, as defendants.

Search for Pilot Pressed off Coast

McChord AFB, Wash.—UPI—Coast Guard vessels and planes were pressing the search today for the pilot of an F-106 jet fighter who is believed down in the Pacific Ocean 15 miles off the coast of Washington's Olympic Peninsula.

The fighter crashed into the ocean after a midair collision with a B-57 medium jet bomber at about 1:10 a.m. today. The bomber later landed at McChord.

The pilot of the fighter, 1st Lt. Roger Axlund, from Sioux Falls, S.D., was seen to eject from his plane. The search was being concentrated in the area between the mouth of the Hoh river and Destruction Island.

Air Force officials said the sea in the area where the pilot was believed down was calm, but the visibility was poor.

The bomber's crew, Capt. Roy Gage, pilot, and 1st Lt. K. I. Langley, observer, were unhurt.

Officials said the fighter and the bomber were engaged in a routine mission when the crash occurred.

Officials said the fighter brushed the bottom of the B57 as it made a pass at the bigger craft.

The fighter was assigned to the 498th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron at McChord, while the bomber was from Hill AFB in Utah.

In games during the horse show Lowell E. Fowler, Phoenix, was first in the dinner bell race.

In the beef classes at the fair, Angus bulls, owned by Paul J. Carlson, Hoots Angus ranch, Grants Pass, won both champion and reserve champion ribbons. The reserve champion Angus female was also owned by the Hoots Angus ranch.

The four emerged from their locked up chamber Monday and were pronounced in excellent physical condition.

The volunteers were identified as Billy F. Stephens, 24, Knoxville, Tenn.; Donald R. Jacobsen, 19, Florence, Ore.; Gene F. Curtis, 19, Portland, Ore.; and Karlheinz Smarsch, 21, Manaroneck, N.Y.

Japanese Visitor Scheduled to Arrive

Mosatoschi Hirona, Ashiya, Japan, is scheduled to arrive this afternoon in Medford as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sharon Eichelberger and their son, Steve Eichelberger, 3387 Forest ave.

Hirona, who has been in the United States for the past two months, on the Experiment in International Living program, is a "brother" of Steve Eichelberger who lived for over a month last fall in the home of Hirona's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Etsuyii Hirona in Ashiya.

Young Eichelberger was in Japan through the same program, as a freshman student from Lewis and Clark college, Portland.

During Hirona's visit here through Sept. 8, he will meet Dr. Enrico DeMaria, now a valley visitor from Italy, also on the same program.

Plans have been made for Hirona's meeting with Miss Toshiko Funabashi, who arrived here last week from Tokyo, Japan, and Miss Miko Hayashi, a Japanese student at the Medford High school, who has lived here for the past year.

A part of Hirona's time will be spent at Lake of the Woods with Dr. DeMaria at a summer home there.

Youths With Matches Cause More Blazes

Salem—UPI—Three more fires caused by children playing with matches were reported today by the state forestry department.

They were among 11 small blazes noted yesterday on state protected forest and rangelands.

Two of the children-caused blazes occurred in central Oregon, and the other in the Clackamas-Marion district. This brings to 11 the number of such blazes reported by forestry officials during the past five weeks.
