JFK Warns Diem Against Repression of Buddhists

Loss of American Support Hinted During Interview

Vietnamese Head Said Out of Touch

Washington — (UPI) — President Kennedy watched today for Vietnamese reaction to his warning that continued repression of Buddhists by the government of Ngo Dinh Diem could mean loss of its U.S.-supported war against Communism.

Kennedy returned to Washington today after a five-day Labor Day vacation at Hyannis Port, Mass.

The President stiffened the open U.S. position on the Viet Nam situation Monday in a television interview in which he called on the regime of President Diem to stop its actions against the Buddhists.

To Continue Aid

The United States will continue its military assistance, Kennedy said. But he added:

"I don't think that the war can be won unless the Vietnamese people support the effort, and in my opinion, in the last two months, the government has gotten out of touch with the people."

Kennedy, in reply to questioning by CBS newscaster Walter Cronkite, made these other points:

—He may lose more Southern states in 1964 than he did in 1960 because of the administration's civil rights proposals. It is "too early to tell" but he isn't sure that he is "the most popular political figure today in the South."

—The nation's unemployment rate can be reduced from its 5.5 per cent level and recession can be staved off if Congress approves his $11 billion tax cut program and other economic measures.

Would Be Mistake

—It "would be a great mistake" for the Senate to tack a formal reservation onto the limited nuclear test ban treaty. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's proposal for an assertion of U.S. nuclear weapons in time of war already has been carried out in U.S. government statements. But "it would be better to defeat the treaty" than force renegotiation of it after almost 100 countries have signed it.

—The new U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam, Henry Cabot Lodge, put national interest ahead of his political career in taking his sensitive new post. Kennedy said he did not send a Republican to Saigon to keep the crisis there from being a political issue next year.

Battle of Beach At Seaside Becomes Fight of City Hall

Seaside, Ore. — (UPI) — The 1963 Battle of the Beach between 2,000 unruly youths and law enforcement authorities was succeeded here today by the Battle of City Hall.

The latest fight broke out Monday as the youths, many of them teen-agers, started for home after two nights of rioting in which two state policemen were hurt, thousands of dollars damage caused, and an estimated $100,000 worth of Labor Day business lost by merchants. Police arrested about 70 persons.

It was the second consecutive year that youths have rioted in the beach resort. Last year the city was shocked: this year Mayor Maurice Pysker, armed with tough new ordinances, a new police chief and new emergency plans, had predicted the city would be ready for any disturbance.

State Help Needed

But before the week end was over, the crack state police riot squad and the National Guard had to be called in. Police said this year's riots were more violent and better organized than those of a year ago.

As the teen agers left, Mayor Pysker, Police Chief Ken Healey, the Chamber of Commerce and other businessmen drew battle lines in an apparent attempt to fix the blame.

The Chamber of Commerce was scheduled to hold an open meeting this afternoon, and there were rumors a recall movement would be started against Pysker.

Monday afternoon Pysker made an impromptu speech to the 1,500 youths still milling around the city. He advocated a beach dance.

But the police chief reportedly vetoed the idea. He told the leader of an orchestra he would be jailed if he or his group played for the youths.

Shortly thereafter, Seaside police staged a show of force by marching down the main street, but most of the youths had already left.

"I advocated a street dance for the youths with an orchestra paid off by the city," Pysker said. "I think if the city had done this for the young people, the kids themselves would have helped prevent any trouble."

The mayor said he "stood alone" in his attempt to cooperate with the teenagers.

Dance Said Promised

One youth said city officials had promised to hold a dance. "And then the next minute they charged the beach and started clobbering and carting kids off to jail."

Earlier Monday a rescue truck manned by city authorities roared down Pysker's main street and back, scattering children and other spectators who had gathered in the city.

Oregon Journal photographer Herb Alden told of being clubbed by a policeman after he identified himself. Another Seaside Policeman refused to let U.S. Marshal Paul Kearney into a closed area.

Fair Attracts Estimated 54,890 During Labor Day

Salem — (UPI) — Labor Day was a day for people and politics at the State Fair here.

Estimated total attendance at the fair Monday was 54,890, about 2,000 more than for Labor Day a year ago.

Gov. and Mrs. Mark Hatfield spent most of the day at the fair, looking at exhibits, shaking hands, watching shows and chatting with fairgoers.

U.S. Sen. Wayne Morse flew from Washington to show his prize Devon cattle. He divided honors in the show ring with Glenn Jackson of Medford, Oregon State Highway Commission chairman.

Morse told newsmen he thought Hatfield would be a good Republican choice for vice president. He said it would be an honor to Oregon to have Hatfield picked for the office.

Confident of Victory

Morse, a Democrat, added he was confident the Democrats would win the election in 1964, however.

A 10-year-old girl, blind since birth, won a shetland pony. Teresa Thompson is a student at the State School for the Blind here.

Members of the Oregon Horsemen's Association were so impressed with Teresa's delight at having won the pony that they provided bridle, saddle, bits and shoes for the animal, and gave the girl a big cowboy hat.

At the Gayway nearby, the Tunnel of Love was declared the cleanest ride at the fair, and was closed down for the evening. Someone had poured detergent in the water, and a huge mountain of suds resulted.

Today is "Over 80" Day, with special activities arranged for senior citizens.

Waiting Period for License Extended

A marriage license cannot be issued until seven days after application is made, according to a new state law which became effective this month, County Clerk Marvin Madden reminded residents today.

Only a circuit or probate court judge can issue a waiver on this waiting period, Madden explained.

The county clerk also noted that divorces are almost kept even with the number of marriages in Jackson County. The number of marriages January through June were 174 and divorces for the same period totalled 135.

Youth Leaves Name At Scene of Crime

A 15-year-old juvenile insured his apprehension by sheriff's deputies yesterday by leaving his name at the scene of the crime.

Two boys, both 15, broke into the Pacific-Setter's mill, 500 Tolman Creek rd., in Ashland yesterday by crawling in through a hole in the wall, deputies said. Upon finding some metal staples and paint one of the boys wrote his name on a piece of paper. A deputy discovered it while investigating the break-in. The pair were released to their parents pending a hearing.

Nothing was taken, but some minor damage was done when a telephone alarm bell was broken off, a deputy noted.

Today deputies are investigating the theft of gas from an underground tank at Dean and Taylor Pontiac company, 2177 South Pacific highway.

U.S. Plane Down in Vietnamese Jungle

Saigon, South Viet Nam — (UPI) — A Vietnamese bomber with three U.S. Air Force men and a Vietnamese crewman aboard is presumed down in a jungle covered mountains north of here, a U.S. military spokesman said today.

The Americans aboard the B26 were the pilots, a captain and a first lieutenant, and a staff sergeant.

The plane has been missing since late Monday in the central highlands near the Laotian border about 300 miles from Saigon, the spokesman said.

The bomber left Danang on the north coast Monday afternoon to support a U.S. Army helicopter assault by government troops against Communist guerrillas.

Local Police Have Quiet Week End

What was called one of the quietest week ends in Jackson County was experienced by Oregon state police at the Medford district office during the Labor Day week end.

The last automobile accident involving injuries investigated by the department was 9:30 p.m. Saturday with a minor two vehicle accident 7:45 p.m. Sunday. No automobile accidents were reported to the state police Monday.

The report from the Medford police department was similar. Their last automobile accident with injuries was reported shortly after 2 a.m. Sunday with a minor accident at 5:45 p.m. Monday.

Man Thrown From Ride On State Fair Grounds

Salem — (UPI) — Three persons were injured Monday night when a man was thrown from the Fly-O-Plane ride at the State Fair here.

Robert O. Costa, 29, an Assembly of God evangelist from Oklahoma City, was thrown from a cab of the Fly-O-Plane as it swirled above 200 feet over the heads of spectators.

Police said Costa fell against Dale Hildebrand, 13, Dallas, and Mrs. Rubina Loewen, Salem. The boy was struck on the head, and Mrs. Loewen on the back.

Portland Captures Chess Tournament

Portland (UPI) — Ivars Dalberg of Portland captured the three-day Oregon Open Chess tournament Monday.

John Bell of Portland and James McCormick of Eugene took second and third places, respectively.

Governor Faces Opposition From Federal Officers

Wallace Orders School Closed

Tuskegee, Fla. — (UPI) — A stern force of more than 200 state troopers turned students and teachers away from a closed school today and gave Gov. George Wallace a first-round victory in his new battle to keep Alabama public schools segregated.

But the little governor faced opposition from local school and government authorities in this predominantly Negro town. They promised to go to federal court if the troopers were not removed within a week.

Macon (Tuskegee) County Solicitor Broward Segrest accused Wallace of "invading" the county with state troops to prevent "peaceful integration." Segrest vowed to seek federal relief if Wallace doesn't let local rule prevail.

Wallace closed Tuskegee High school Monday shortly before 13 Negroes were scheduled to enroll at the traditional Labor Day opening of the school.

Defied By School

He sent 107 state troopers here to back up his surprise closure order and dispatched additional forces when the county school board defied his order and kept the school open.

The troopers surrounded the block-square school and kept watch all through the night. Col. Al Lingo, commander of the state police, supervised the lines on horseback this morning.

About 15 minutes before the 10 a.m. opening of school, a group of teachers, including two women, tried to get through the human barricade. They were turned away.

"We are teachers," they told a grim-faced trooper.

"We are under orders not to let anyone into this building," the trooper replied.

Shortly after the teachers were turned away, several groups of parents — accompanied by students — tried to get by the troopers. They also failed.

SCHOOL UNDER GUARD—Alabama Gov. George Wallace threw a cordon of state troopers around Tuskegee High school today to keep 13 Negro students from integrating the classrooms. However, School Supt. C. A. Pruitt said the school, as far as the Macon County Board of Education was concerned, was open. (UPI)

American Steel Starts $400,000 Warehouse Here

Construction started this morning in Medford on a new 60,000 square foot warehouse and office building to be occupied by American Steel and Supply company, a branch of American Steel Warehouse company of Portland.

The project, to cost $400,000 for land, building, and equipment, is located at Stage rd. and Charles Way on four acres of land.

According to Howard Hedinger, Portland, executive vice president of American Steel Warehouse company, who made the announcement, the new facilities are slated for completion about Nov. 15.

The buildings were designed by Selbert and Hunter, architects, Medford. The warehouse will be constructed by Strand Steel, division of National Steel corporation, Terre Haute, Ind. General contractors for the entire project are Graff and James, Medford.

The new warehouse will be of concrete and steel with fiber glass panels in the roof to provide natural light. Included in the warehouse equipment will be two five ton overhead cranes. A railroad spur into the warehouse building will accommodate three rail cars.

The shipping office at the center of the warehouse will be built on a four foot high concrete dock.

The office section will be of wood. Architectural features include exposed beams and white rock roof surface.

The office section will contain five private offices, a large reception and display area as well as accounting and sales offices and an employee lunchroom.

A large paved parking area will be provided.

Duncan Discusses Congress During Recent Interview

Congressman Robert B. Duncan drove into Medford over the Labor Day week end.

His chief objective was to bring son Angus, 17, back for his senior year at Medford High School, and to transact some personal business — and, perhaps, to do a little politicking. He and Angus drove from Washington, D. C., to Oregon in 5½ hours.

The congressman, now just one week short of completing one-third of his first 24-month term, is cautiously optimistic about the current session of Congress. He admits that it has been moving slowly, concedes that reforms are needed (and probably unlikely at any time soon), but believes that major legislation will come out of the session by the end of the year.

"In Salem," said Duncan (who was a two-term Speaker of the Oregon House of Representatives), "we'd get together, decide what to do, and do it. Not in Washington. Congress does make progress, in its slow and ponderous way."

Lack of Caucuses

He remarked on the lack of caucuses among the Democratic majority as a way of speeding legislation, and pointed to the difficulty encountered by the party leadership in getting all members onto the floor for a vote.

He suggested the possibility of a legislative study commission, perhaps along the lines of the former Hoover commission, to propose reorganization reforms which would speed the work of Congress, but he did not foresee that within the next year or two.

Certification of Special Election Expected Today

Salem — (UPI) — Formal certification of the 1963 legislature's $60 million tax increase measure to a special election Oct. 15 was expected sometime today, according to the secretary of state's office.

A review of referral petitions showed 55,475 valid signatures on the petitions to refer the tax bill.

The check of petition signatures was made over the holiday week end by the elections department of the secretary of state's office.

Only 23,165 signatures were needed to refer the measure to a special election.

Dale Mallicoat, administrative assistant to Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr., said the total of valid signatures may be increased "by a few dozen" before formal certification is made.

He said in addition to the 55,475 valid signatures, there are a few petitions with "very minor irregularities," and Elections Supervisor Jack Thompson has not yet ruled whether these signatures shall be included in the total.

Meanwhile, Appling was preparing to go before the State Emergency Board Friday to request release of $300,000 to finance the Oct. 15 election. The money was set aside by the legislature for use in case the tax measure was referred.

Distribution of Food 'Successful'

Jackson county's surplus food distribution center, 301 North Fir st., has been successful in approximately two years of operation. Jackson County Public Welfare Administrator David Kuhn said this morning.

"It would be difficult to determine how many people are kept off the welfare rolls through distribution of the government surplus foods," Kuhn said.

Kuhn said approximately half, or a little over 900 people each month who receive this food are welfare recipients. This is approximately half of the welfare caseload.

A spot check as to why more welfare recipients didn't receive surplus foods showed lack of transportation was the chief reason. Elderly people couldn't get in to get the food or were unable to carry it back.

Kuhn noted a gradual decrease in surplus food recipients during the summer months: 2,600 in June, 2,529 in July, and 2,332 in August. This is mainly due to people passing the low income limit. Total net monthly income allowed is $118 for one person, $171 for two persons, $186 for a family of three, $223 for four persons, $269 for a family of seven or nine.

Vice President Arrives in Sweden

Stockholm, Sweden — (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson arrived here today at his handsaking, campaigning best to begin a 15,000-mile tour of five north European nations.

Johnson, his wife and their 19-year-old daughter Lynda Bird waved to thousands of cheering Swedes from the open car that carried them into the heart of the city.

Johnson said he hoped his trip here would strengthen the "old, strong and unbreakable" ties that bind this nation and his.

Johnson on an unprecedented visit by a high U.S. official to this nation, flew in from Washington after a brief stopover in Hyannis Port, Mass., to confer with President Kennedy at the summer White House.

Part of Street Opened To Traffic

Contractor's crews will finish installing blacktop today on part of the Barnett rd. extension between Riverside ave. and Holly st., according to Vernon Thorpe, Medford public works director.

The section of the street between Grape st. and Riverside ave. will remain closed, however, until a traffic signal is installed at Riverside ave. and Barnett rd.

Thorpe estimated it will be about six weeks before the signal can be installed. The state highway department is now working on the signal.

Mail Tribune Using New 'Body Type' in Newspaper

Observant readers of the Mail Tribune may have noted a change in its appearance which began yesterday.

Use of a new "body type" — that is, the type in which the reading material in most stories and features is set — began Monday. The new type is Aurora. It was selected to improve readability, and also because the number of units per line conforms better to new equipment also placed in use Monday. It is slightly taller than that formerly used.

The new equipment includes typesetter punching units, which produce tape which is perforated with a series of holes so arranged as to produce coded instructions when run through a sensing mechanism. This mechanism in turn operates the typesetting ma-
