Recovery Team Seeks Bova's Body

Sheppton, Pa. —(UPI)— Rescuers turned today to the grim task of recovering the body of Louis Bova, 52, from the mine shaft where he was trapped with two other men Aug. 13.

Hope of rescuing Bova alive ended early Monday when officials decided their probes would yield little else than the body of the miner.

Bova's companions, Dave Fellin and Henry Throne, were brought to the surface alive in a dramatic early morning rescue operation Aug. 27 from a chamber adjoining one in which Bova was believed trapped.

A rescue shaft to Bova's chamber, 304 feet underground, was completed early Monday and it had been planned to send a volunteer down and possibly bring Bova with him.

However, officials were convinced by a television camera lowered into it, that the shaft was too narrow to permit a rescuer to go down safely.

The camera revealed no sign of Bova, and super - sensitive microphones failed to pick up evidence of a man's heart beat.

"It's all over now as far as the rescue is concerned," State mines Secretary Dr. H. Beecher Charmbury said after a conference with leaders of the rescue operation.

The last signs of life from Bova were Aug. 20 when he was able to tap three times that he still was alive.

Washington —(UPI)— Retired Marine Corps commandant Gen. Lemuel Shepherd was reported in satisfactory condition at the Bethesda Naval Hospital today from injuries suffered in a fall from a horse.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IN THE LOCKER ROOM, Golfer Craig Wood told about a twosome involving the town's leading priest and rabbi. The priest made a little silent prayer before each putt and began sinking them from all corners of the greens. Obviously shaken, the rabbi said, half jokingly, "If you taught me to say that little prayer, do you think my putts would start dropping, too?" "Not a chance," the priest assured him. "Why not?" demanded the rabbi. "Because," said the priest, "you're a terrible putter."

Mourned the proprietor of a men's clothing emporium, "In our five-story establishment, with 60 fancy clerks, we sold exactly one suit Tuesday. Wednesday we sold nothing at all. And Thursday was even worse than Wednesday." "How could it possibly be worse," demanded a stickler for accuracy. "Because," explained the proprietor, "on Thursday the loafer who bought the suit on Tuesday brought it back for credit."

Notes Sam Himmell:

"I had six honest serving men.
They taught me all I knew:
Their names were Where and What and When—
And Why and How and Who."

Beauties Gather For Pageant

Atlantic City, N.J. — (UPI) — Fifty-two potential Miss Americas faced their full program of pre-contest activity today in preparation for the exciting moment next Saturday night when one of them will be named America's most beautiful girl.

The lovely young women, ranging in age from 18 to 23, formally registered for the contest Monday accompanied by pageant hostesses and chaperones from their home states.

For all of them it will mean a week of hustle and bustle, television and newspaper interviews and posing for publicity photographs.

For the lucky few who will be finalists it will mean scholarships and possible careers in the glamorous world of modeling and related professions.

For the ultimate winner it will mean a step through the looking glass into the wonderland of fame as America's most lovely girl, and the more solid reward of an estimated $100,000 gross during the year of her reign as Miss America 1964.

The girls, representing the 50 states, New York City and Washington, D.C., will spend the rest of the week under the watchful eyes of their chaperones and subject to stringent rules covering their behavior during the contest.

They will be under constant supervision until after the wind-up awards lunch on Sunday.

SINGING COMMERCIAL USED

Washington —(UPI)— The U.S. Travel Service is using a singing commercial to appeal to Americans to be good hosts to foreign visitors. Titled "Company's Coming," the tune will be sent to radio stations throughout the nation, travel service director Voit Gilmore said today.
