Alba Show Will Open In Ashland

Ashland — The 10 paintings on a cultural exchange program with Medford's sister city, Alba, Italy, will be exhibited in the Ashland public library beginning Monday, September 9.

The public is invited to view the pictures during library hours daily except Sundays from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The exhibit recently closed in the Medford Rogue Art gallery where it had been since mid-summer, when Dr. Enrico De-Maria of Alba, opened the show on his arrival from Italy to spend some time in the Rogue valley.

At the present time paintings done by artists of southern Oregon are being shown in Alba on the exchange program. Quality of the Alba paintings is considered excellent. Done in oils the group includes representational and non-representational work.

Church Group Honors Woman

Mrs. K. L. Mathewson was honored on her birthday anniversary September 1, by the congregation of the Foursquare church in the church annex.

Those attending presented her with cards and gifts.

Mrs. Dan Haas was in charge of games and refreshments for the evening.

Lack of Nurses Subject For National Campaign

New York — The nursing profession, suffering from a chronic shortage of numbers and low economic returns, will take its case to the public this fall in a nation-wide information campaign.

Titled, "Operation: Speak Up for Nursing," the publicity program is being sponsored by the American Nurses' association, national professional organization for registered nurses. It will alert the American people to the obstacles which hamper the profession's efforts to upgrade the quality and quantity of nursing service available to the public.

Given impetus by the report, published in February, of a two-year study of nursing by the U. S. Surgeon General's Consultant Group on Nursing, headed by Alvin C. Eulich, Ph.D., vice president, the Fund for Advancement of Education, Ford foundation, the Consultant Group on Nursing included representatives from nursing service and education, medicine, hospitals, education, labor and civic groups.

The report, "Toward Quality in Nursing," highlights problems contributing to the profession's current status, projects the nation's nursing needs for the future and recommends ways by which minimum needs may be met.

ANA believes that all efforts will be unsuccessful without strong public support for measures to make nursing a profession competitive with others attracting college-bound young people. The association further cites the report to the Surgeon General which says, "In today's society, salaries and related benefits not only determine standards of living but also influence the prestige of an occupation. Until the economic status of the nursing profession is improved, nursing will be unable to compete successfully with other fields where pay and benefits are more attractive."

Square Dance Classes Open

Square dance classes for beginners will start Sunday, September 15 from 2 to 5 p.m., and continue weekly on Sundays during those hours, Byron Dibble, instructor has announced. The Star Promenaders club will sponsor the classes.

Fair Queen Announced

Salem — Entering fair contests has become a habit with Mrs. John Schweizer, Tillamook, Ore., who has been participating for the past 20 years. Wednesday, for the third year, Mrs. Schweizer was named "queen of the kitchen" at the Oregon State Fair, which means that her entries in the Foods department competition scored the highest number of points and earned her the queen award—a purple championship ribbon and a new electric range.

Second place winner for queen honors went to Mrs. Pauline Van Dyke, Colton, who won a hotpotter; this is Mrs. Van Dyke's fourth year of competition. Third place winner, with a Mixmaster prize, went to Mrs. Leslie Ray, Coquille, and fourth prize, an Osterizer, went to Mrs. Kenneth Hatrup, Grass Valley.

This year's Oregon State Fair Foods department received 2,388 entries which came from over 200 exhibitors, the largest number of exhibitors and entries ever.

Mrs. Mark O. Hatfield, wife of Oregon's governor, presented each winner with a bouquet of flowers and a purple championship ribbon.

Hatfield, wife of the Governor, who presented the winner a purple award ribbon and a bouquet of flowers, and Gerald Frank of Meier and Frank company who presented Mrs. Schweizer a new electric range.

Hurry Habit Catching, Says Hungarian Woman

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

New York—(UPI)—The American habit of hurry is a contagious one, a visitor from behind the Iron Curtain finds.

Susie Kormoczky, Hungarian number one tennis player, observed that "I'm getting a little American. I find myself rushing. You know, 's h e said, 'your mentality in America is so different from ours in Europe. You're so busy being busy you can't stop being busy. I am sure you are happy to be that way. But I would have trouble if I lived in America. I am not that fast.'"

Miss Kormoczky, on her second tennis-playing visit to the United States, is one of 76 players from all the continents outside North America invited to compete in the amateur U.S. National Tennis Championships underway at Forest Hills, N.Y., stadium. The matches, with 300 entries from 35 countries, will continue through September 8.

Likes Traveling
Hungary and Czechoslovakia are the only Iron Curtain countries represented this year, the second year in which the privately-financed "People to People" project Sports Committee has invited foreign players to come to see the matches as its guests.

Miss Kormoczky, who has been playing tennis for 30 of her 39 years, spoke strongly in favor of such exchanges of peoples.

"Whether in sports, or in other ways of life," she said, "the exchange of ideas . . . getting to know other peoples . . . this is good."

Asked where she was when the bloody anti-Soviet revolt occurred in Hungary seven years ago, she answered only, "in Budapest." She was reluctant to discuss politics or the living standard of her people today except to say that "life is very nice now. The people are living comfortably."

Hornbrook — Mrs. Evelyn Williams returned Tuesday to her home in Martinez, Calif., after spending the past month here as a house guest of a friend, Mrs. Allie Tyrer. To honor her friend, Mrs. Tyrer entertained at several dinner parties at her home. Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wedin and Mike Tyrer, and Mrs. John Cooley, all of Yreka.

The tennis star, a slim brunette with hazel eyes and a height of only five feet, has been the top-ranked woman player of her country "for ages," she said.

Grass Courts Strange
She played in tournaments in St. Petersburg and Miami, Fla., in 1961, and through the years has played at Wimbledon, Cote D'Azur on the Mediterranean coast, in Rome, Hamburg, Prague, Paris, and Moscow, as well as in her native Budapest.

She expressed worry of her showing at Forest Hills because, like many of the foreign guests, she will be playing on grass courts to which she is not accustomed.

She is used to daily workouts on the clay courts not far from her house in the Hungarian capital.

In private life, Miss Kormoczky is the daughter of an architect and the wife of Goro Sandor, a professor of medicine at the University in Budapest. The couple has one child, a 14-year-old girl who rapidly is developing into a competitive player, her mother said.

Seafood Mold Makes Fall Menu Change
Green Goddess Seafood Mold is a tasty main course salad and with a hearty soup and hot rolls will make a welcome change in early fall menus.

Too, because of its attractiveness and appetite appeal, it is ideal for a company buffet.

GREEN GODDESS SEAFOOD MOLD
One package lemon-flavored gelatin; one and one-half teaspoons garlic salt; one-half teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; one cup hot water; one cup cold water; two tablespoons wine vinegar; one teaspoon chopped parsley; one-half cup diced celery; one-cup (six ounces) crab flakes; one and one-half cups (six ounces) diced lobster; one package lime-flavored gelatin; one and one-half teaspoons garlic salt; dash of pepper; one cup hot water; three-fourth cup sour cream; one-fourth cup mayonnaise; one tablespoon wine vinegar; one can (two ounces) anchovies, finely chopped.

Combine lemon gelatin, garlic salt, salt, and pepper. Dissolve in hot water. Add cold water, vinegar, and parsley. Chill until slightly thickened. Then fold in celery, crab flakes and lobster. Pour into a two-quart mold. Chill until almost firm.

Meanwhile, combine lime gelatin, garlic salt, and pepper. Dissolve in hot water. Add sour cream, mayonnaise, vinegar, and anchovies. Whip until well blended. Spoon mixture over layer in mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens; garnish with tomato or egg quarters. Makes six or eight servings.

New Dust Mop Designed With Many Accessories

By MARGERY McELHENY
Chicago (UPI)—Designers of products for the home now have produced a dust mop "for the housewife who has nothing but needs everything."

The mop is factory-equipped with 23 accessories and retails for $150. But it contains such essentials as: a horn button for calling the children, a dinner bell for announcing meals, an air horn to scare the dogs or cats out of the way, a steering wheel for easier guidance of the mop around the furniture, a siren for emergency runs down long hallways, a radio, and baby bottle warmer.

Oh yes, in a concession to practicality, the manufacturer has installed a reversible mitt-mop head, zippered to permit easy removal from the frame.

The mop and 200,000 other items intended for the fall and Christmas selling seasons were shown to buyers at the recent National Housewares exhibit.

A completely washable finish has been added to solid walnut salad bowls. Another manufacturer offers an epoxy enamel, said to dry harder than porcelain, plus another finish designed to outlast varnish three to one.

There are two-thumbed barbecue mitts for quick changing from right to left hand use. A Christmas tree light set comes equipped with snap-in bulbs, and household light bulbs are available in simulated cut glass effect.

A hair dryer boasts a hood-wind-in-a-hood for drying without "hot spots."

Even the dog is important to the housewares industry. One manufacturer introduced a dog dryer, designed for easy attachment to any woman's electric hair dryer.

Outdoor housewares included a variety of snow movers, tote cloth with handles for picking up yard debris, equipment storage houses, and a fold-up portable grill which can hold a coffee pot and two skillets simultaneously.

For the playground, there's a transparent hassock, air-filled to hold 500 pounds, with a built-in simulated aquarium.
