Rogue Gallery To Show Two New Art Exhibits

Scheduled to open at Rogue gallery Monday, September 9, are two new shows which it is believed will be of unusual interest. One, a group of 43 paintings by 14 contemporary artists of Iran, is the result of a trip taken to Iran in 1961 by Mrs. Benjamin Grey of Minnesota. An American art lover and patron, Mrs. Grey took with her an exhibition of the work of some American artists, and presented them in the Iranian societies of Teheran, Isfahan and Shiraz.

The exhibition was warmly received, and at that time it was agreed that an Iranian should come to America and present in turn, an exhibition of contemporary Iranian painters. Parvis Tanavoli, an Iranian painter and sculptor brought the present show to the United States. As a member of the Western Association of Art Museums, the Rogue Valley Art association brings this exhibition to the residents of Southern Oregon.

Also on view at the gallery September 9 will be a very different type of exhibit. Entitled "The Quiet Eye," it is an exhibition arranged by Mrs. Alfred Corbett of Portland who has had Miss Sylvia Shaw Judson's unique book, "The Quiet Eye: A Way of Looking at Pictures," enlarged for a panel exhibition. Both shows are scheduled to run through September 26.
