

WSU's Cougars Will Go More for Ground Attack During Campaign of 1963

This is another in a series of dispatches dealing with the 1963 prospects of major West Coast college football teams.

By SCOTT BAILLIE PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—Coach Jim Sutherland, who has relied greatly on the aerial game during the past seven seasons at Washington State, will go more for a ground attack this year.

"The movies of our first big scrimmage showed that we were moving the ball a little better on the ground than we did last year," Sutherland told the annual visit of the Big Six Skywriters.

"And we are stronger now and more mature."

Sutherland, who did much to popularize the flanker attack, will be using a tight end brand of offense this year to get more yardage overland.

Veteran Signal Caller
"But that doesn't mean the forward pass is being curtailed much, especially with quarterback Dave Mathieson back after placing seventh last season among the nation's tossers."

"Mathieson has good command of a huddle and is a prospect," Sutherland said. "He is as good a thrower as I've ever coached."

Missing is split end Hugh Campbell, who led the nation in receptions last year. Sutherland, however, feels that the Cougars will be better than the 1962 club which finished with five wins, four losses and a tie after a mid-season collapse.

"We're stronger physically and we're deeper in experience," said Sutherland, who numbers 23 letters on his squad. "I think we will be able to move the ball better and throw as well as last year."

But he added that he was not optimistic.

"The schedule is no slouch," he said, checking a 10-game slate that will find the Cougars on the road six times and venturing as far east as West Point.

He expects more out of his team than he got last year, saying, "It won't look like a million dollars at the start, then start to flop. I look for a gradual improvement."

Mathieson, back as the number one quarterback on the "Big Red" (first) team, will be passing to Gerry Shaw and Dennis Kloke at the split end instead of Campbell. Shaw is a gifted receiver who makes the difficult tosses look easy. Kloke reminds Sutherland of Campbell both in appearance and running.

Jet Perry Released by Baltimore

By GORGE LANGFORD UPI Sports Writer

The final pre-season cuts by National Football league teams Tuesday were unkind to 30 players, including 16 veterans. But the unkindest cut of all was the release of Joe (The Jet) Perry.

Perry, a 13-year veteran who has gained more yards rushing (8,290) than any other pro performer, was trimmed from the Baltimore Colts roster just three games before he would have been eligible for the new player pension fund.

Jerry Norton, a 19-year pro at defensive back, and eight-year veteran Mal Hammack, a fullback, both of Dallas; Jackie Simpson, a seven-year man with Pittsburgh, and six-year pro Jim McCusker, an offensive tackle with Philadelphia, were among the more prominent players cut.

However, it wasn't a black day for all veterans.

Sam Eteherverry, 33, a national hero in Canadian football for nine years but a flop with the St. Louis Cardinals the past two seasons, caught on with the San Francisco Forty Niners as "quarterback insurance."

Eteherverry had been released earlier by St. Louis.

Jim Martin, 39, a place kicker whom the Detroit Lions persuaded to come out of retirement this summer, was traded to the Colts for a future draft choice, and offensive tackle Art Anderson was acquired by the Pittsburgh Steelers from the Chicago Bears.

Perry broke in with the Forty Niners in 1948 and spent 11 years with them. He was traded to Baltimore in 1961. A player must have played five seasons since 1959 to be eligible for the pension. Time before 1959 does not count.

Hugh Campbell, an end from Washington State, was the most highly touted rookie to lose a job. Campbell, who set several pass catching marks as a collegian, was the Forty Niners' No. 4 draft choice.

Other players released Tuesday:

- Dallas Cowboys—Clayton Gregory, offensive end; George Andrie, defensive end; waived to injured list: John Houser, offensive tackle.
- Philadelphia Eagles—Mike Woulfe, linebacker; waived to injured list: Tom Woodeschick, offensive halfback.
- Pittsburgh Steelers—Joe Womack, offensive halfback; Bob Rowley, linebacker; guard, Pete Perreault.
- Washington Redskins—Ron Hatcher, fullback; Gale Hall, quarterback; Ted Rzemplouch, defensive back.
- Los Angeles Rams—Carver Shannon, defensive back; Gary Henson, defensive back.
- Baltimore Colts—Dan Sullivan, offensive tackle; Grady Wade, placekicker; Chuck Hinton, defensive tackle.
- Minnesota Vikings—Charlie Ferguson, offensive end; John McCormack, quarterback; and punter: Jim O'Malley, linebacker.
- Detroit Lions—Nick Ryker, fullback; John Gamble, guard; Al Greer, offensive end.
- Green Bay Packers—Ed Heller, linebacker; Tony Liscio, defensive end.

Mississippi Choice In Southeast Loop

(Editor's note: Following is the first of eight dispatches stizing up college football prospects in various sections of the country.)

The Southeast
By DAVID M. MOFFITT ATLANTA (UPI)—Despite a peck of personal problems, football is still big business in the Southeastern conference, so look for the league to chalk up another good year in national rankings, bowl bids and box office receipts.

Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia Tech, Louisiana State and Florida—all bowl entries last winter—can be expected to battle for top 10 berths this fall, giving the SEC, as usual, high record for its gridiron prowess even if its social status is in doubt.

The personal problems, which have combined to cast a definite shadow on the SEC's future existence, include:

—Charges of game rigging which led to a widely publicized and initially successful libel suit.

—Planned use of Negro athletes which has split the conference into two camps.

—Reported planned withdrawal by some members which appear unhappy with present academic and scholarship regulations.

—A growing gap between the haves and have-nots on the football field.

Any of these may lead to the collapse of the SEC as it is presently constituted.

But, for the present, the Dixie Dozen is back at the same old stands—and a banner season is the forecast.

Talent Abundant
Defending champion Mississippi is expected to win again thanks to an abundance of talent and a woefully weak schedule. Except for LSU, the Rebels, who were ranked No. 3 nationally last season, don't meet another team in their class.

The battle for the runnerup post figures to be a three-way placekicker; Chuck Hinton, defensive tackle; Minnesota Vikings: Charlie Ferguson, offensive end; John McCormack, quarterback; and punter: Jim O'Malley, linebacker.

Detroit Lions: Nick Ryker, fullback; John Gamble, guard; Al Greer, offensive end.

Green Bay Packers: Ed Heller, linebacker; Tony Liscio, defensive end.

Johnson Dies From Injuries

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Stone Johnson captured the fancy of the Kansas City Chiefs with his smooth, fleet running. Today he fostered their grief. Johnson is dead.

The 23-year-old rookie, who once ran the 100-yard dash in a record-tying 9.3 seconds, succumbed late Sunday to a paralyzing back injury he suffered eight days earlier in an exhibition American Football league (AFL) game at Wichita, Kan.

Funeral services for the flanker back were scheduled for Wednesday at Munger Baptist church in Dallas, where the young athlete started a climb to sports prominence.

A paralyzing injury, somewhat like the one that killed him, played a vital role in Johnson's development. As a high school athlete he was flattened by a back injury. Recovered, he said he could run even faster.

Johnson became a hard-kicking back at Grambling (La.) college and excelled as a sprinter. He was one of the U. S. Olympic team that went to Rome in 1960. He worked out with the Chiefs last year while he was attending school and became a highly-respected rookie this summer.

One of the pre-season exhibition games the Chiefs played was a benefit in Seattle for paralyzed pole vaulter Bryan Sternberg. The next game was Aug. 31, at Wichita, against the arch-rival Houston Oilers.

Johnson threw a kickoff block and fell paralyzed. His fifth cervical vertebrae was fractured and he could move only his head and neck.

His mother, Mrs. Jesse Johnson of Dallas, rushed to his bedside where she sat until his death.

"He just laid there," Mrs. Johnson said, "That's all. His spirits were awful low—all the time."

guard Pat Watson, Mississippi end Allen Brown and Tennessee guard Steve Delong are all all-star caliber.

OSU Loses Jerry Neil

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI)—Senior guard Jerry Neil of Oregon State who underwent operations on both knees last June, will miss the upcoming football season.

The 219-pounder from Sacramento, Calif., was ruled out Tuesday when it was announced that more knee surgery would be needed this week. Neil hopes to finish out his eligibility next season.

Coach Tommy Prothro planned to put his Beavers through a full-scale scrimmage today.

Willie Heston Taken by Death

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich.—Funeral services will be held on Friday at Dearborn, Mich., for Willie Heston, ex-University of Michigan gridiron great.

Heston, a plunging halfback on the famed "point a minute" teams of Coach Fielding H. Yost 60 years ago, died Monday on his 65th birthday.

Heston, the first player outside the East's Ivy league to be named an All-American, had been hospitalized several days.

A lawyer by profession, Heston served as a recorder's criminal court judge in Detroit for a time. Heston was born near Galesburg, Ill., and attended high school at Grants Pass, Ore.

NY Court May Rule On Molinas Motion

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—The appellate division of the New York State Supreme Court may rule Thursday on a stay of extradition motion for Jack Molinas, former Columbia University basketball star convicted of bribery last Feb. 11.

Molinas, 30, an attorney, received a prison sentence of 10 to 15 years on the bribery conviction but was released in $35,000 bond from Attica State prison last April on a certificate of reasonable doubt.

After his release, Molinas was served with a warrant issued in Raleigh, N.C., which accused him of attempting to fix a 1959 basketball game between North Carolina State and Wake Forest.

Pro-Am Prelude To Seattle Golf

SEATTLE (UPI)—Professionals, amateurs and celebrities teed off today in the pro-am prelude to the initial round of the third annual Greater Seattle golf open at the Inglewood Country club.

Featured foursome of the pro-am were defending Seattle open champion Jack Nicklaus, entertainer Phil Harris, three-time Women's National Amateur winner Mrs. Anne Quast Welts and her husband Dave.

Beginning Thursday the pro-am to the 72-hole Seattle Open proper, with its $35,000 in prize money.

Nicklaus is the favorite, but he is expected to get plenty of competition from the likes of Billy Casper, Dow Finsterwald, Doug Sanders, Jay and Lionel Hebert, Dave Marr, Ken Venturi and Tommy Jacobs.

Only Spirit Pleases Stanford Mentors

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—The Stanford coaching staff likes the squad's spirit, but not much else. The Cards went through a rough 90-minute scrim Tuesday and the coaches called the running and passing defenses equally bad. Only the spirit and the fact that no injuries were reported seems to please the mentors.

Pendleton Roundup Rivalry Under Way

PENDLETON (UPI)—The nation's top cowboys opened competition as the 52nd annual Pendleton Roundup got under way today.

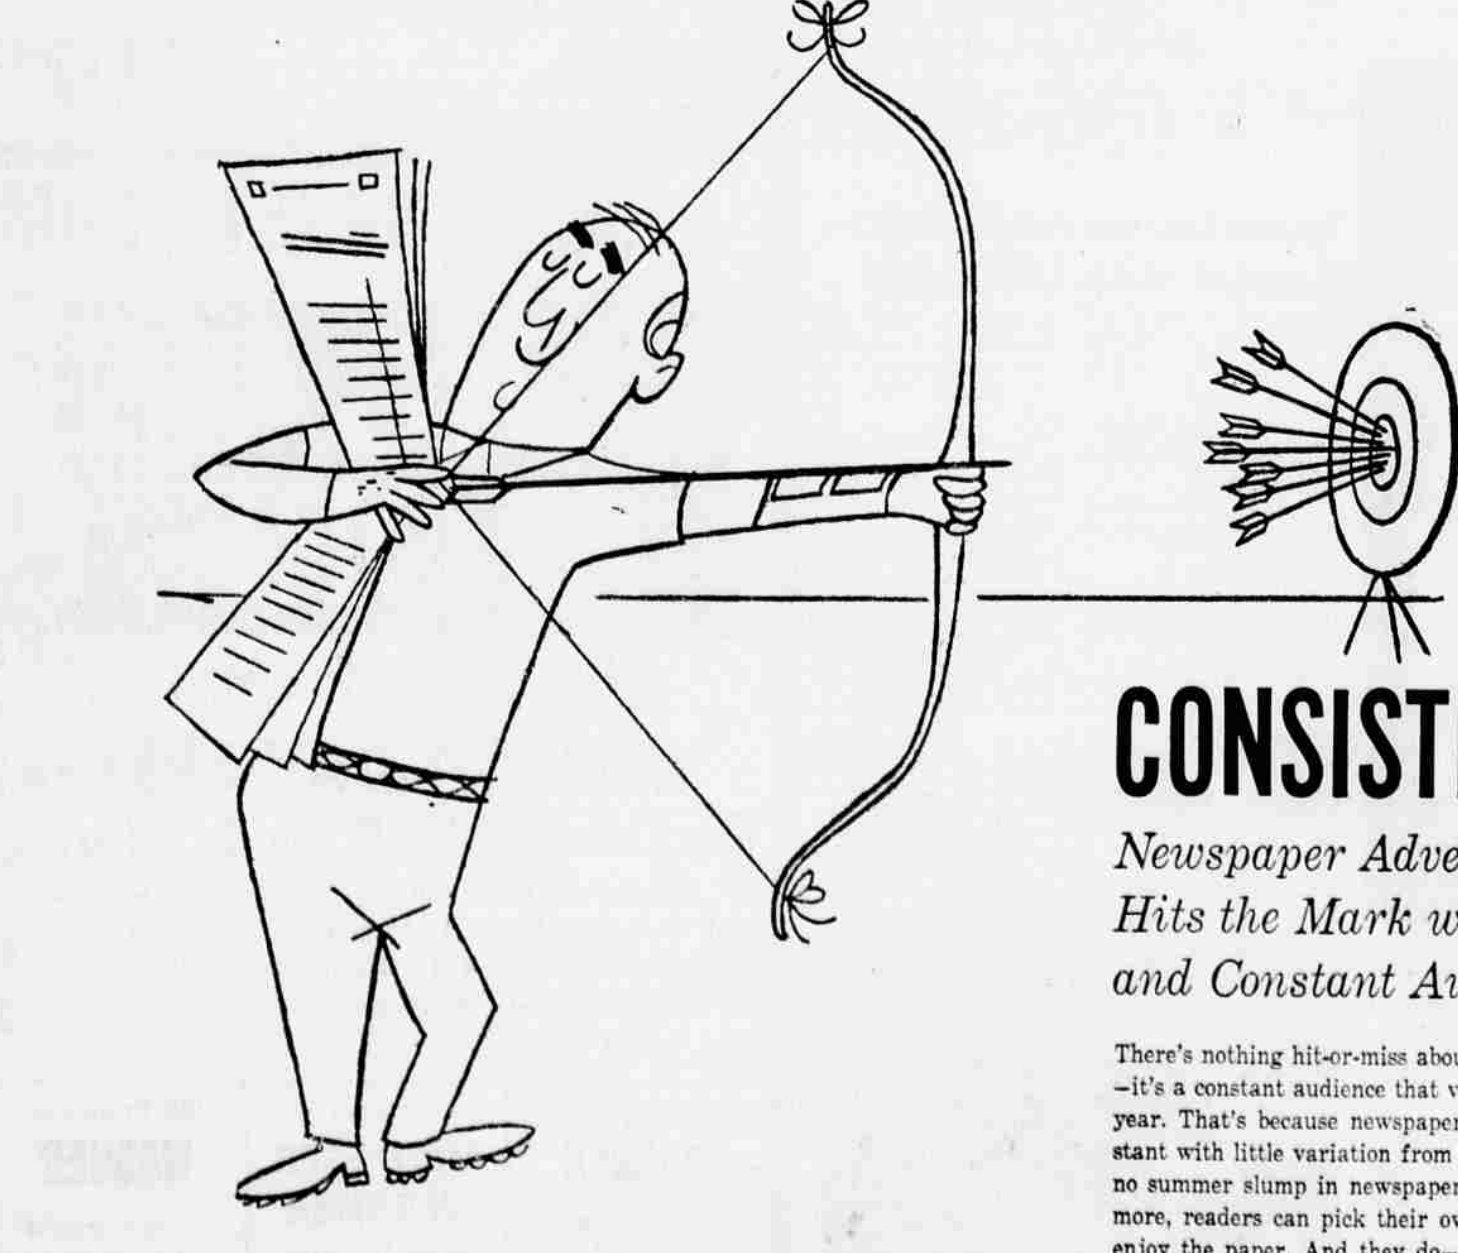

A total of 199 cowboys, headed by Dean Oliver of Boise, are seeking $28,000 in prize money in the four-day rodeo in six arena events.

ANDROS PLEASED

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—Coach Dee Andros ran his University of Idaho squad through two lengthy passing sessions Tuesday and then said he was pleased with the way the squad picked up his new passing formation.

JUMPERS TO VIE

ISSAQUAH (UPI)—Approximately 117 entries, including four who have made more than 1,000 jumps each, will compete in the 1963 National Parachute Championships which begin here Saturday. The 1,000-plus jumpers are Loy Brydon, Dick Fortenberry and Gerald F. Borquin, all of the U.S. Army Parachute Team, and Carlos Wallace, Pasadena, Tex. Brydon is formerly of Everett.

Newspaper Advertising Hits the Mark with a Large and Constant Audience

There's nothing hit-or-miss about the newspaper audience—it's a constant audience that varies little throughout the year. That's because newspaper circulation remains constant with little variation from month to month. There is no summer slump in newspaper reading habits. Furthermore, readers can pick their own time—day or night—to enjoy the paper. And they do—over 107,000,000 of them every day in the U. S. For sure-fire results, advertise consistently in the daily newspaper.
