Defeat Seen for Tax Cut Strings

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the South's most conservative Democrats predicted today that that Republicans would lose their House fight to tie budgetary strings to an $11 billion tax cut. This forecast from Rep. A. S. Helwig Jr. (D-Fla.) jibed with private appraisals of Kennedy aides who have been sounding out southern Democrats in preparation for the impending battle.

These aides were confident that the GOP amendment would fail to gain enough support from southern Democrats to win House approval, even if all Republicans vote for it. The administration-backed bill, scheduled for House action the week after next, would provide two reductions in individual and corporation income taxes. It would cut taxes by $7 billion on 1964 incomes. The full $11 billion in relief would take effect in 1965.

TURTLE RETURNS — Nine years ago Karen Perry of Phoenix, Ariz., wood-burned her name and address on a land turtle and let it go in the desert. Last week end it paid a return visit. While exploring in the desert Dave Gaufer of Phoenix discovered the nearly-dehydrated turtle and noticed some faint lettering on its shell. He traced it with a crayon and came up with Karen's initials and address. He promptly returned the turtle to the surprised 16-year-old girl. (UPI)
