The Family Council

Editor's note: The Family Council consists of a judge, psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counselors and social workers. Edited by Mrs. Alma Denay. (Copyright by General Features Corp.)

MRS. C.M. — We're frightened by her talk and her plans. Mrs. N.A. — It's a passing phase. Our son talked that way.

Mrs. C.M. — Yesterday our 24-year-old daughter, Edna, was particularly depressed, but when I tried to cheer her up she told me to save my breath. Then she informed us she's going to New York City in a few days and, if she doesn't get into a show by Oct. 1, she'll kill herself. I feel I must do something but my neighbor says ignore it.

Mrs. N.A. — Last night Mrs. M. rang my bell in a state of great worry. I tried to quiet her; I told her to let Edna go; the girl has too much sense to carry out such wild talk. She's an actress and that's probably a line from some play. When my son was 20 he made the same threat: I gave him a kiss, told him not to dare, and all was well.

The Council: We disagree with Mrs. A. Aberrant talk must never be ignored. Like aberrant behavior, it's a cry for help. Such help may come in a quick simple form, like Mrs. A.'s kiss. Her son may have been merely seeking attention and reassurance. For Mrs. M.'s Edna, a stronger answer is required. There are the anti-suicide forces to muster: Religious faith. Suicides are people who feel no one loves them. Convinced that God loves them, they plod further. . . . Reduced
