

MANOR-ISMS

By ETHELYN EVANS

This is a continuation of a list of Manor members who are, at least in part, ignoring retirement. They are thus sustaining my contention that our members continue to paddle in the stream of life; they are not content to idle away remaining years. My list is probably not complete. New members doing new things surprise me often. Also, the activities mentioned in this list are entirely aside from absorbing avocations and hobbies that call for civic, religious and public service work. Many members function efficiently in several categories — remunerative, creative and volunteer. A

No doubt I should begin with our Glenn Taylor, the first member to sign a Manor contract for an apartment. Mr. Taylor has been director in the Jackson County Federal Savings and Loan company since 1929, attorney for the bank since 1934, and was made a vice president in 1947. He continues to retain an office in the bank and works at least a part of almost every day.

Stanley Jones operates his insurance business in Medford in partnership with his two sons and Mrs. Jones is among the first to arrive at our early breakfast each morning, since she drives to Ashland where she holds a responsible position with the Western Oil and Burner company.

Ralph Moore, formerly on the board of trustees for the Manor, still retains and active managerial interest in the Moore Lumber company in Grants Pass, and remains president of the Southern Oregon State bank in that city. Mr. Moore keeps busy driving to Grants Pass each week in behalf of both these interests.

Ted Coates keeps extremely active in his "Caveman Camper" manufacturing business and is a director of several other concerns. All of this keeps him on the highway between here and Grants Pass many times each week.

Sam Baker, also formerly a trustee for the Manor, is vice president and a member to the board of the First Federal Savings and Loan association in Grants Pass, of which he was president for many years. This is in addition to his active job as president of the Oregon Caves company. He, too, makes frequent trips to Grants Pass to attend board meetings, conferences and advisory councils.

I once described the beautiful portraits Mrs. A. J. Nufeld creates by hand-tinting photographs. She is still busy at this work for the same McMinnville studio and has added a contract with Landis Studio here in Medford.

Mrs. Edith Gifford has been active as a CPA in her own Medford office for many years. Mrs. Buford Clark works the year-around as a Public Welfare commission case worker (both are my fifth floor neighbors); Mrs. Mary McCullough never misses a day with the Timber Products company in Medford; Miss Annette Gray continues to teach many hours during the school term; Mrs. Jessie Mincar, another former member of the Manor board, remains active manager of her orchard interests; Mrs. Eloise Faulkner teaches knitting to evening classes in the High school; and Miss Mary Ireland works several days each week as receptionist in the Medford Christian Scientist reading room.

While Mark Goldy takes time off for interesting trips—both he and Mrs. Goldy are inveterate travelers—he continues to keep a firm thumb in his various development projects and maintains daily office hours; Wm. L. Powell is off again for several weeks to superintend his fruit and nut enterprises near Corvallis, Ore., and Shelby Tuttle continues to serve as Secretary of the Fruit Growers league. He is busy every day and, at the height of the fruit season, almost night and day. It is encouraging to note that while several of these busy members moved into the Manor after severe heart attacks, they have resolutely overcome their disability and continue active and happy.

Department officers of the Oregon Gold Star Mothers were in Medford Thursday to visit the Veterans' Administration domiciliary at White City and to pay an official visit to the Medford chapter. Pictured during luncheon are (left to right) Mrs. Clyde Sturgill, president of the Medford chapter; Mrs. Mildred Edner, Tillamook, department first vice-president; Mrs. Mary A. Champ, Salem, department president; Mrs. Celia C. Everett, Portland, hospital chairman for the department and Mrs. Bernice Robertson, Grants Pass, president of the Josephine county chapter.

Miss Mariann Raapke invited a group of friends to her home last week end for a "before school opens" party. The hostess and guests dressed as hobos; swimming and games provided diversion. Hamming a scene here for the photographer are (left to right) Bob Davis, Red Bluff, Calif., Terry Tibbutt, Mariann Raapke and Scott Taylor. Miss Raapke's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Raapke, 308 Windsor avenue.

Grand Lodge Officer Makes Official Visit

Mrs. Harold McIsaac, Parkdale, Ore., grand guardian of the International Order of Job's Daughters, recently made her official inspection visit to Bethel 14 in Medford. She was accompanied by Mr. McIsaac.

A dinner in the state officer's honor at Sambo's restaurant preceded the session.

The honored queen, Miss Ada Harris, presided.

Majority degrees were conferred upon the Misses Barbara Morton and Mrs. Noel Dunlap, the former Miss Diane Rupert. A silver merit award was presented to Miss Beverly Jacobson.

Escorted to the east were Miss Charlotte Martin, honored queen of Bethel 69; Miss Patricia Harris, Miss Barbara Morton and Mrs. Dunlap, past honored queens of Bethel 14; Miss Pamela Nelson, senior princess,

Faculty Member Returns Home

ASHLAND—Dr. Irene Hollenbeck, 584 Allison street, returned last week from a two-months vacation spent in the Hawaiian islands. Another member of the Southern Oregon college faculty who summered in Hawaii was Dr. Dorothy Stolp, 1069 Henry street.

Royal Neighbors Announce Meeting

Royal Neighbors of America lodge will convene for a regular session Thursday, September 19 at 7:30 p.m., in the Pythian building on North Grape street. Refreshments will be served.

Mother Here

Mrs. Francis Pasmore, Los Angeles, is visiting her daughter, Miss Vivian Pasmore, 611 North Bartlett street. She plans to remain in the valley for about two weeks.

Rutledge Family On Motor Trip
HORN BROOK—Just before the opening of the school term, Mrs. W. A. Rutledge took her children Ann, David, and John on a trip down the Redwood highway as far as Eureka, and returned via Weaverville where they made a stop at the historical Chinese Joss house. At the old town of Shasta they made a tour of the museum.

Friendship Club To Hold Session
GOLD HILL — The first fall meeting of Amethyst Rebekah Friendship club will be held at the home of Mrs. Paul Molloy, September 16 at 8 p.m.

Introduced were Miss Sharon Huggdahl, grand representative to British Columbia; Mrs. Glenn Kelley, past guardian, Bethel 38 and Robert Harris, past associate guardian, Bethel 14.

Mrs. McIsaac presented Miss Harris a gift with emblems of the order, and in turn received a gift from the Bethel. Robert Harris received a past associate guardian pin from his daughters, the Misses Patricia and Ada Harris.

Refreshments were served by the Misses Barbara and Beverly Jacobson and Sonja and Carla Wray, and their mothers.

Senior Activity Center Schedule Is Announced

A repeat showing of translucent slides of rock will be made Monday, September 16 at 1:30 p.m., by Chester Fitch, for Arm Chair Travelers at the Senior Activity center, 601 East Jackson street.

Mr. Fitch had shown the slides during mid-summer when many of the member could not view them so the program has been rescheduled.

Members of the art class also are invited to view the slides which are said to magnify hidden beauty of color and form.

Attention is called by directors in charge of time for the group from 1 to 1:30 p.m.

"Spanish Made Easy," will be the text book used for the Spanish class which meets Mondays from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in the center. Mrs. Alicia Carter, instructor. The first class was held last Monday. Members who are registered for the class but could not attend the first session are expected to attend tomorrow's lesson. Directors have pointed out. Nearly 25 persons have indicated their intention of attending the classes.

Mrs. Nettie Williams, for the present, will instruct the painting classes held on Tuesdays. Mrs. Victoria Staley, who had planned to return as the instructor, has found it impossible to do so.

The center will be open from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, Wednesday, September 18 for senior craftsmen to pick up craft articles not accepted for the open house September 14 in Evergreen Crafts shop, 315 East Main street. Mrs. E. H. Lovness, chairman, will be at the center at that time and new craftsmen wishing information may call her at the center during those hours.

Because of warm weather, a full schedule of classes will not be held until October. The knitting class will start weekly meetings, however, on Monday, September 23, under the leadership of Mrs. Edward Barnett. Hours will be from 3 to 5 p.m.

The orchestra will resume practice periods September 19. William Pickell, director, has announced that the group invites new members as two of the players have moved from the area.

The orchestra is available for entertainment of organizations and schedules can be arranged through Mrs. Pearl Spackman, 307 South Fourth street, Jacksonville, telephone 899-1637, secretary, or the director, Mr. Pickell, 405 1/2 J street, Medford.

telephone 772-6587. The bridge group which meets on Saturdays has added new members.
