

Plans Completed For Stamp Show at Community Club

Final plans have been formulated for the philatelic exhibition and stamp show, SOPEX '63, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 21 and 22, at Girls Community club, Dr. W. B. Giles, show chairman, reported today.

There will be 145 frames entered in competition for prize ribbons and special awards. The 26 exhibitors have entered collections in 15 categories.

Three out of state exhibitors and seven out of town exhibitors will participate in the show, Elmer Binker, Jr., president of the Southern Oregon Philatelic Society announced.

They include William Winterer, Detroit, Mich.; Donald Cobb, Springfield, Ill., and Lt. Col. C. Langley, Tacoma, Wash.

Out of town exhibits are being entered by Thomas Riley, Eagle Point; Leonard O'Neill and Daniel Keizer of the White City Stamp club. Bourse tables will be maintained by Clyde Smith and Floyd Crosslin, Ashland; Mrs. Ann Carley, Medford, and J.E.F. Robertson, Eugene.

Non-competitive exhibits will include the story of the Suez Canal from the Stamp News Bureau, directed by Ernest Kehr of New York City, and a philatelic exhibit furnished by the United Nations Postal Bureau.

The exhibit room will be open from noon until 9 p.m. Saturday. The Sunday hours will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Burglary Reported at Bristol Silica Plant

Thieves broke into the Bristol Silica plant between Gold Hill and Rogue River last week end for about the fourth time this year, Jackson sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Investigation of the incident revealed thieves pried open the front door and took a record player turntable, a small table radio and a few records, deputies said.

The Juniper Bush

Dick West Routed Early in Morning For Expedition With Bird Watchers

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The alarm clock begins clanging precisely at 6:30 a.m. For a moment, groping my way through the fog of slumber, I am under the impression that there has been a prison break somewhere.

Then I remember: I have set the alarm because I have to get up early. I have committed myself to go to Boonsboro, Md., with a party of bird watchers to see the hawks fly over Monument Knob. The invitation to witness this ornithological spectacle was extended by a friend of mine who is a member of the Audubon Society.

At the time, over a second round of squeezings from the fruit of the juniper bush, it seemed like a swell idea. But at 6:30 a.m., the environment has undergone an abrupt transformation. I resolve never to touch the fruit of the juniper bush again.

I make my way into the kitchen, pack a lunch consisting of a cold meat sandwich and head for the rendezvous point — a Howard Johnson's restaurant.

We meet in the parking lot, check directions with our leader, make certain our bird watchers' manuals are at the ready, and the safari's under way.

It is cold up there on Monument Knob. Along with about a dozen Audubon members, I am perched on top of the Washington Monument. Not the Washington Washington Monument. The Boonsboro Washington Monument.

The Boonsboro Washington Monument was erected in 1827, before the Washington Washington Monument was even started. It took almost an entire day to build it.

Moreover, it is 1,000 feet higher than the Washington Washington Monument. That is because the Boonsboro Washington Monument was

Travel-Talk Series at Domiciliary Under Way

The 1963-64 series of travel-talks sponsored by the American Red Cross as part of the library program at the Veterans Administration Domiciliary, White City, opened this week with a talk by Fred Pramann of Ashland.

Pramann, retired former chief of the corrective therapy department at the domiciliary, chose as his subject his recent trip to New Orleans.

The first color slides, of Salt Lake City, showed various monuments, buildings and parks commemorating events in the history of the Mormons. Also shown were pictures of the Bingham Copper Mine, the world's largest open-pit copper mine, the natural arches near Moab, Dead Horse Point and the cliff dwellings dating from the 10th Century A.D., all in Utah.

For the remainder of his talk, Pramann concentrated on Louisiana, showing slides of the bayou country with its ante-

Annual YMCA Sale Scheduled Sunday

The annual YMCA auction will be held Sunday, Sept. 22, at B and B auction on West Main st., Medford, according to Dick Hawkins, auction chairman.

O. J. Brenner, owner of B and B auction, will auction off a variety of donated items to the highest bidder as the auction gets under way at 1 p.m. All proceeds from the auction will be used by the YMCA to renovate the facilities at 522 West Sixth st.

Most businesses in the Medford area have been contacted by auction workers for items to donate to the event. Those who have not been contacted are invited to call the YMCA (772-6255) and their donation will be picked up.
