

McDowell Convicted

Of Carrying Pistol
 OXFORD, Miss. (UPI) — Negro Cleve McDowell was convicted Saturday of carrying a pistol to class at the University of Mississippi despite his plea that he did so because he was unprotected and thought his life was in danger.
 The 21-year-old youth contended he was in a "vulnerable" position as the only Negro at the school because all federal guards had been removed and Gov. Ross Barnett had said publicly the state would not protect him.
