By JOE ST. AMANT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — On the banquet circuit this winter they'll toast Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers as the man who contributed most to the misery of the proud Yankees in 1963.

Koufax started the Yankees on the skids to the most humiliating World Series defeat last Wednesday in New York. And he dealt the knockout blow Sunday with a superb six-hit, 2-1 victory that completed the Dodgers' four - game sweep before 55,912 fans in sunsoaked Dodger stadium.

He gave up six hits in each game, yielded a total of only three runs, and struck bout 23 Yankee hitters, including a record 15 in the opening game.

But while Koufax is the glamor - boy who won the sports car as the outstanding player in the series, there were several other Dodgers who turned in "clutch" performances in the final game of the sweep.

There was Jim Gilliam, the cagey "old pro" who took advantage of the lapse in the Yankee defense to scoot all the way to third base on an error by first baseman Joe Pepitone in the seventh inning.

There was Willie Davis, who promptly caught hold of one of Whitey Ford's pitches and drove it deep enough to center field for the sacrifice fly that brought home Gilliam with the winning run.

There was big Frank Howard, who in the fifth inning had delivered a mighty 450-foot homer off Ford for Los Angeles' first run.

And there were others who ignored the odds, refused to flinch before the favored Yankees and helped pull off this biggest World Series upset in several seasons.

In the end, it was a break which won for the Dodgers. Yet they had the alertness and the drive to capitalize on such advantages.

Mantle Homered

Howard's fifth - inning home run was offset in the top of the seventh by Mickey Mantle's homer into the left field stands which tied the score at 1-1. Mantle's homer was his 15th in series competition, tying a record set by Babe Ruth.

Ford, who gave up only two hits in the seven innings he worked, was sabotaged by his defense right at the start of the seventh.

Clete Boyer a third made a fine, leaping grab of Gilliam's bouncer and threw to first for what appeared an out. But Pepitone lost sight of the ball in the crowd background and it bounced off his wrist and chest and fled past him to the stands.

Gilliam took off for second base, took a look over his shoulder at Pepitone still pursuing the ball and headed for third. He made it easily. Willie Davis then delivered the winning run with a fly to Mantle and Gilliam crossed the plate without sliding.

Koufax yielded a one-out single in the eighth to pinch-hitter Phil Linz, who promptly was erased in a double play in which Dick Tracewski picked up Tony Kubek's grounder, tagged Linz and threw to first base for the second out.

WINNING RUN — Diagrammed photo of Los Angeles Dodgers' stadium shows Dodger Jim Gilliam en route to the plate to score the winning run in the seventh inning yesterday of the fourth World Series baseball game against the New York Yankees. Gilliam was on third as a result of error of Yanks first baseman Joe Pepitone in missing Clete Boyer's throw. Willie Davis hit a long fly to Mickey Mantle. Gililam, racing home after the catch, beat the throw to score. Dotted line marks the path of Mantle's throw to catcher Elston Howard. Baseball Miracle Wipes Out Haunting Choke Up Stigma

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was a baseball miracle, but the Los Angeles Dodgers pulled it off to erase the last remaining vestiges of a choke-up stigma that had haunted them for nearly a year. They swept the World Series from the one-proud-and-mighty New York Yankees in the face of odds that were 25-1 against them.

But the oddsmakers didn't figure on that gilt-edged Dodger pitching, timely hitting and a surprisingly porous Yankee defense which yielded a seventh-inning gift run that enabled the Dodgers to win the fourth game, 2-1 Sunday, with Sandy Koufax pitching another masterpiece.

Actually, the Yankees' Whitey Ford pitched better, yielding only two hits, but the highly-touted Yankee defense let him down.

It was a bitter defeat for the Yankees— the first time they ever had been swept in the 28 Series in which they have played.

Alston Was Surprised

To the Dodgers the victory was especially sweet for it wiped out the memory of their 1962 collapse when they lost the National league pennant after having it apparently wrapped up.

Manager Walter Alston of the Dodgers, whose job may have been in jeopardy had he not won the series, admitted he was as surprised as anyone by the Los Angeles sweep.

"I never figured we'd do it in four," said the happy Alston. "I never gave much thought about how many games it would take to win but if someone had asked me I'd have said six or seven."

Manager Ralph Houk was surprised, too.

Before the series he said he didn't look for either team to win it in four games "because we are so evenly matched."

"The Dodgers have a great club," added Houk, who suffered his first series defeat. "As soon as my players came into the dressing room after the game, I told them they have nothing to be ashamed of. They are going to be winning a lot more in the future."

He refused to single out any Yankee player for blame.

"The things which happened to us in the field could have happened to anyone," he reasoned.

Excuses Pepitone's Error

Thus did he excuse the downcast Joe Pepitone's failure to hold a throw from third baseman Clete Boyer which would have retired Jim Gilliam in the seventh inning. As it was, Pepitone lost the ball in the crowd background of the left field stands, and Gilliam raced all the way to third on the error. A few seconds later, Gilliam scored the winning run after Willie Davis flied deep to Mickey Mantle.

As soon as he spoke to his players, Houk went into the Dodger clubhouse to congratulate Alston and the Dodgers.

"If we had to lose," said Houk, a champion in defeat, "I'm glad it was to a club like the Dodgers . . ."

Houk was nettled by whispers and even some opinions expressed right out that the Yankees did not belong in the same league as the Dodgers.

"I wouldn't mind if the Dodgers were in our league," he said. "I'd like to play them all year. Some people might say they'd run us into the ground but I don't think so."

Houk steadfastly refused to fault the Yankees in any way.

"We didn't hit and it's a question of whether we were in a slump or that fine Dodger pitching just overpowered us," he said.

No Panic Among Yanks; Likely Will Stand Pat

By MILTON RICHMAN

LOS ANGELES (UPI — General Manager Roy Hamey emphasized there is "no panic" among the beaten Yankees today and that they probably will stand pat this winter because he still thinks they are the finest club in baseball.

Hamey thus put a prompt stop to any thought the Yankees might make wholesale changes because the Dodgers bowled them over in four straight World Series games.

'Why should we look to make a lot of trades or changes simply because the Dodgers beat us?" he asked. 'That's no reason for any panic. We still think we have the best club. We're satisfied."

The Yankee General Maanger did add, however, that the club might be interested in obtaining another catcher to back up Elston Howard and possibly another outfielder 'if the right man is available."

Most of the Yankees' concern now centers around Mickey Mantle's unpredictable underpinning.

Examination Due

Withing the next few days, Mantle will undergo examination of his left knee to determine whether or not surgery is necessary. If it is, he will be operated on shortly; if it isn't, he will go home to Dallas, play golf and follow the fortunes of the Oklahoma football team.

"I think Ralph Houk did an outstanding job all year," Hamey said for the express benefit of those who might try to portray the Yankee manager as the scapegoat in his club's four straight defeats.

The Yankees, with a long-standing habit of never gloating when they win or alibiing if they lose, all sought to comfort forlorn Joe Pepitone, who shouldered the blame for Sunday's defeat in the finale.

Lost In Crowd

"I'm sure Joe feels badly now but when he thinks about it he certainly shouldn't," said second baseman Bobby Richardson. "You can't catch what you can't see."

Pepitone said he couldn't see third baseman Clete Boyer's seventh inning throw which he allowed to get by him for a three-base error that led to the winning run.

'I just lost it in the crowd," Pepitone confessed. "The throw was perfect. I should have had it but I didn't see it."

Regardless of that bobble, a rather costly one in that it could mean a difference of $4(000 to each Yankee player, they still think Pepitone is the best fielding first baseman in the American league and possibly in the majors.

Dick Dunn Will Have Hands Full

Dick Dunn, a flashy youngster from Nashville, Tenn., will have his work cut out for him when he meets Tough Tony Borne in the feature preliminary of Thursday night's wrestling card at Medford armory.

Dunn, a handsome youngster who relies on speed and fast-learning skill to keep in contention on the mat, will have his hands full with Borne, who is just about as tough as they come and doesn't hesitate to take advantage of an opponent. Dunn has been fast developing into a crowd pleaser since coming to the northwest and is anxious to look good in his first southern Oregon appearance.

Not at Stake

Borne's Pacific Coast junior heavyweight championship, which he won from Rocky Columbo here in June, will not be at stake

Other matches will send Nick Bockwinkle against Don Duffy and Art (Boom Boom) Mahalik in with Gil Ane.

The card will be topped by a battle royal in which all six men will compete for a $200 side purse.

The first match goes to the mat at 8:30 p.m. and ringside reserved seat tickets are available at Lamport's Sporting Goods store.

World Series Shares $12,000

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Each member of the victorious Los Angeles Dodgers who was voted a full share of the World Series pot should receive at least $12,000.

The full shares for the losing New York Yankees is expected to amount to about $8,000 apiece.

Both estimated figures would be all-time highs.

The players' pools for the 1963 series totaled $1,017,546.53 — the first time in history it cracked the million dollar mark.

The previous high of $893,301.40 was established in the 1959 series between the Dodgers and the Chicago White Sox. Each Dodger received $11,231.18 and the losing White Sox received $7,275.17 apiece.

70 Per Cent

The World Series participants are awarded 70 per cent of the players' pool — 60 per cent of that figure going to the winning team and 40 per cent to the loser. The second, third and fourth place finishers in each league carve up the reamining 30 per cent.

Although the Yankees and the Dodgers took clubhouse votes on how they will divide their shares before the series, the actual announcement will not be made until later this week by Commissioner Ford Frick.

The gate receipts for the 1963 series amounted to $1,995,189.09 —a record for a four - game series. However, the total attendance of 247,279 was not a record. The series between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Giants in 1954 attracted 251,507 fans.

ERLANDSON ACTIVATED

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos have activated Tom Erlandson, a 23-year-old linebacker from Washington State. Erlandson, 6 foot 3 and 235 pounds, has had two years of professional football experience.

Speed, Passing Duck Factors

EUGENE —(UPI)— Oregon owned a 2-1 record for the football season today — thanks to its "speed" and "passing."

"Our speed and passing attack were the key factors," Coach Len Casanova said after his Ducks raced past West Virginia 35-0 on the latter's field Morgantown Saturday.

"They were pretty slow," he continued. "We figured we could pass on them and it worked. It was easier than we expected, though."

West Virginia Coach Gene Corum said: "Oregon was too fast, too quick, too tough and there were too many of them."

Alston Feels All Square With Fates

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers felt he was all square with the baseball fates today—and manager Ralph Houk of the Yankees was glad for him.

In the tight little union of baseball managers they all know how tough it can get for each other. Alston was just getting even and Houk still was far in front.

"This makes up for everything," Alston said with quiet satisfaction, recalling last year's playoff defeat by the San Francisco Giants.

The Dodgers clubhouse was a wild scene as players poured champagne on each other, yelled and embraced while hundreds of reporters milled around them.

More Consistent

And the center of attention was pitcher Sandy Koufax, winner of the first and fourth games and hero of the series.

The handsome southpaw disagreed with Alston who thought he pitched better in New York. Koufax said he threw a more consistent game in the clincher.

"Over all, I thought I pitched a better ball game today," he said. "Strikeouts by themselves don't mean much. I felt my fast ball was better than my curve in the game here."

And Koufax paid tribute to his mound rival, Whitey Ford, by declaring the Yankee star pitched a great game but the Dodgers were fortunate in getting just enough runs to win.

And Houk was in agreement with Koufax that Ford's pitching performance couldn't be faulted much. He declared, "somebody's got to win, though, and somebody's got to lose."

The men who scored the two Dodger runs also came in for their share of attention although the modest Frank Howard quietly answered the questions thrown at him and disappeared to join his family as soon as he was dressed.

Howard indirectly admitted he guessed right on Ford's pitch when he lashed his 450-foot homer into the second deck of the stands in the fifth inning.

"I hit a very good pitch," he said. "It was a curve outside but I just caught it. I was looking for a pitch like that and was ready for it."

And Ford shook his head and said, "I don't know how you can figure Howard. Maybe he was guessing on the pitch."

New Coach Has Rough Welcome

DETROIT (UPI) — Jack Christiansen returned "home" to Detroit Sunday as a new head coach in the National Football league — but the young mentor of the San Francisco Forty Niners got a rough welcome.

The Detroit team not only walloped the Forty Niners, as expected, but two of the marks which Christiansen posted in the record book as a member of the Lions were blotted out.

The makeshift San Fransisco offense picked up only 61 net yards to 231 for the Lions, who scored quickly and breezed to a 26-3 vicory. The Forty Niners got 71 yards net on the ground and ended up with a minus 10 in passing.

Weak At Quarterback

With regular quarterback John Brodie sidelined with a fractured arm, Christiansen had to go with substitute Bobby Waters and Lamar McHan, who joined the team last week. They made only 63 yards in the air — and lost 73 trying to pass.

The Lions, who had lost two of their first three games didn't delight the 44,088 Detroit fans with their ragged play, but it was strong enough to take care of the inept Forty Niners.

BOXER KILLED

BELGRADE (UPI) — Ganija Muharedzija, a 25-year-old Yugoslav featherweight became boxing's seventh fatality this year when he was killed in a bout at Sarahevo Sunday.

Rams Thumped By Green Bay

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams returned home today after taking a 42-10 shellacking at the hands of the Green Bay Packers Sunday.

The Rams, who sent into the game with the Packers 20-point underdogs, scored on a 76-yard drive early in the first quarter. However, the touchdown only tied the score.

On the opening kickoff, Green Bay's Herb Arderly took the kick on this own 3 and returned it 97 yards for a touchdown.

At the half, the Rams were behind 15-7, but the Packers came back to score three touchdowns in the third quarter and add the final tally in the final period.

UMPS CHARTERED

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — The National Baseball Congress announced Sunday it has reissued a charter to the Northwest Baseball Umpires association in Washington for its 1964 National Association of Umpires.
