

Rites Held at Baptist Church

One of the fall's larger weddings was an event of October 6 when Miss Patricia Sue Goltz and Douglas Gordon Fisher were married in 3 o'clock afternoon rites read in First Baptist church. The Rev. B. E. Andrews officiated.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin B. Goltz, 1532 Stratford avenue and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fisher, Eagle Point.

Baskets of white chrysanthemums and stock decorated the altar and yellow and white carnations with white bows marked the pews ends.

Among the some 275 guests who attended the rites and reception that followed the ceremony were a number who came from California, Washington and Oregon cities.

Wears Organza

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of silk organza over bridal satin, styled with fitted bodice trimmed with lace appliques. The skirt, accented with rows of appliqued lace, was made with chapel train. Her bouffant elbow length veil of nylon tulle was held by a single rose with sequins and she carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis centered with a white Pearl Harbor orchid.

Miss Fredia Goltz, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Loretta Turman; Miss Beth Wilcox, Central Point, and Miss Ellen Montgomery, University of Oregon student. Junior bridesmaid was Darlene Fisher, a sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore identical street length dresses of lace over royal blue satin with short sleeves, slim front panels and a back fullness. Bands of satin formed the empire waistlines and back panels. Their circular veils were held by small crowns and they carried cascades of yellow carnations, the honor attendant's bouquet being accented with white carnations. Their crystal necklaces were gifts from the bride.

Timothy Fisher, cousin of the bridegroom, and Dennis Olson, lighted the candles. Four Are Ushers

Glen L. Goddard, Seattle, served as best man and seating the guests were Richard Bell, Seattle; Gary Francis, Ashland; Dale Gray, Portland, and Dan Goltz, a brother of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Goltz chose a pink lace sheath dress over satin with matching accessories. Mrs. Fisher, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in an emerald green brocade sheath frock with black accessories, and both had white orchid corsages.

The Rev. John Byron Evans, and Maynard Hadley were soloists, and they also sang a duet. Mrs. Andrews furnished the wedding music.

The reception given by the bride's parents was in the church fireplace room. The bride's table covered with blue tulle over white satin, was decorated with white carnation nosegays. The wedding cake centered the table and crystal appointments were used.
