First Lady Ignores Paris And Has New Long Hairdo

By HELEN THOMAS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy is bucking the Paris tide in wearing her hair down to the shoulders.

But the President's wife, who has a flair for creating her own styles, still prefers the long casual look for herself. Her long page boy caused a lot of comment when she made a public appearance at the welcoming ceremonies for Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia before her trip to Greece. Masculine opinion was highly in favor of it. To women observers, it was the "Jackie" individuality again, bound to gain many followers.

Ashland PTA Units Plan Visitations

ASHLAND—Parents of Junior High school students are making plans to visit classes Thursday evening after meeting at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium.

There is to be a home room period when the Parent-Teacher association will conduct its membership drive and a lunch hour when refreshments will be sold to help fill the unit treasury. In following their children's daily schedule parents will have an opportunity to meet their teachers and acquaint themselves with the courses.

Mrs. Jack Gunter is currently serving as president of the Junior High unit, having been recently elected.

Visitation and open house at Briscoe elementary school is to be presented on two nights. On Thursday, October 17, beginning at 7 o'clock parents of pupils in the first three grades are to meet with the teachers to discuss curriculum and general program. Room mothers will be hostesses for the social hour.

Red Cross Volunteers Given Orientation Class

Robert D. Heffernan Jr., chairman of the Jackson County chapter, American Red Cross, welcomed about 50 new volunteers and board members to the recent annual Red Cross orientation course. Mr. Heffernan expressed the belief that service is only as good as its volunteers and said Jackson county is extremely fortunate in having such a well organized and active group interested in the problems of the community.

Main speaker for the session was Mrs. Frank Fairweather, local volunteer field consultant. In presenting a brief history of the Red Cross she explained that the American National Red Cross is a volunteer organization chartered by Congress and supported entirely by gifts through the United Fund and individual contributions.

There are currently 3,700 local chapters throughout the United States with over 2,000,000 volunteers serving in various capacities. She explained that because full-time trained people are essential for a continuous program of technical services — doctors, nurses, social workers and administrators, a minimal staff is maintained; however, the ratio is about one paid worker for 156 volunteers — with an even greater span existing in Jackson county.

Moral Obligation
Red Cross has a moral as well as a legal obligation first, "to act in matters of voluntary relief during times of disaster," and secondly, "to act as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their Armed Forces," as stated by the American National Red Cross charter. The organization participates in over 300 disaster relief operations each year, providing food, shelter, clothing, medical aid and rehabilitation aid to thousands of families. A total of $20,150 was spent on local disaster relief last year following the October wind storm and the December flood in Jackson county, she said. About 55 per cent of total staff time and 40 per cent of the Red Cross budget goes for services to the Armed Forces.

Services Listed
Other services offered by Red Cross are not mandatory, but rather permissive and vary within chapters. Services offered in Jackson county include the blood program, nursing services, safety services, service to the blind, Gray Lady service to the V. A. domiciliary, motor service, production service, canteen service, staff aides, Junior Red Cross and Youth in Red Cross.

Three new services have been added to the local program within the past year and include V. A. Domiciliary counsel service, Red Cross community service, and the newly organized Friendly Visitors service.

Programs are developed according to the interests and needs of the community and the number of volunteers available to carry them out.

Mrs. Lillian Salade, chairman of volunteers, introduced the local chairmen who explained their particular services in detail and how they function within the county. Opportunities open to volunteers were explained fully and at the conclusion of the session new volunteers met informally with chairmen to discuss individual interests.
