Premier of Congo Expresses Concern Over Mercenaries

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Premier Cyrille Adoula of the Congo has voiced concern about the "menace" of mercenaries along the Congo's southern frontier. He told United Press International that Nationalist leader Kenneth Kaunda of Northern Rhodesia had confirmed that there were mercenaries along the border who were willing to support new actions of secession in the Congo. He said a

"similar situation" existed along The Congo's Angolan border. But Adoula said these mercenaries represented "the only cloud in sight" regarding reintegration of Katanga into The Congo.

Criticism Answered
Adoula also answered criticisms of The Congo here earlier this week by Sir Roy Welensky, outgoing Prime Minister of the dissolving Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. He asserted that Welensky's regime is one of "dictatorship and racial discrimination" and called it a "20th century disgrace."

Adoula made the remarks in written responses to questions submitted to him before he left for New York after a meeting with President Kennedy and talks at the World Bank and International Monetary Fund.

He said the talks were pursued in "a climate of great understanding."

"We have profited from these contacts by discussing the monetary problems of our country," he said.

U. S. officials said they considered the IMF to be the key to The Congo's economic recovery. If inflation can be checked by IMF-approved currency reform, then The Congo has a good future and will get economic aid from nations "poised" to assist, the officials said.

Discussion Declined
Adoula did not go into details about his economic talks and declined to discuss steps toward training and modernization of the Congolese army, saying the matter was a "military secret."

Multi-nation efforts to prepare the Congolese army for the day when UN forces leave were discussed during his visit. He indicated the army was striving to gain "all mastery and effectiveness" of a modern army.

Welensky, in his speech, said African governments were "one-party dictatorships" and cited The Congo as an example of Africans being incapable of effective self-government.

Adoula denied this. He said that "in The Congo there is a total liberty of expression and thought."

Fight on Hunger Gains in Spite Of Population

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Whatever other problems the population explosion may cause mankind, it shouldn't be the cause of hunger — at least not for a while.

In fact, man probably will gain some ground in his battle against hunger around the world between now and 1984, according to Emeritus Director Merrill K. Bennett of the Stanford university food research institute.

"(Continued) shrinkage rather than expansion of hunger situations in the world seems to me in reasonable prospect," he writes in the current issue of food research institute studies. "A billion mouths are accompanied by a billion pairs of hands and a billion brains."

Barring widespread warfare, there should be a continuation of the trends toward increased urbanization, better transportation and communication networks, and more widespread land cultivation, Bennett said.

Vast amounts of well-watered land are still unsettled in the tropics, he said, and much more existing acreage can be irrigated, even without desalted sea water. More swamps can be drained, and existing farmlands can be made to yield two crops.

And crops should get bigger with greater use of fertilizers, better pest control, improved soil management and better seeds.

But looking a few hundred years farther ahead, Bennett conceded the population growth rate has got to slow down sometime.

If the 1.6 per cent growth rate of the 1950's continues indefinitely, the population density of the entire planet will reach 15,000 per square mile by 2317 — leaving each individual a strip of land 27 by 70 feet.

This, said Bennett, is "rather small—even allowing for forthcoming miracles of science."

WAGE HIKES
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wage increases negotiated by unions in the United States during the first half of 1963 averaged 8 cents an hour, the Bureau of National Affairs, incorporated, estimates. The figure does not include fringe benefits.

AFL-CIO Division Leading Teacher Union Campaign

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The AFL-CIO's Factory Workers' Division is taking the lead in a campaign to unionize school teachers in more than a half dozen major U.S. cities.

Walter Reuther, president of the Industrial Union Department (IUD), which organizes workers in factories, has allocated "substantial" money and manpower for the drive spearheaded by the American Federation of Teachers (AFT).

Organizers are busy in Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Boston, Detroit, Chicago, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Denver and other cities in an effort to follow up the success of the teachers' Local 2 in New York City.

Teachers in New York went to the brink of a strike this fall before their negotiators signed a new contract with the Board of Education. The AFL-CIO department said it will bring $31 million worth of salary increases and other benefits to school employes.

Jack Conway, executive assistant to Reuther, confirmed that organizing teachers was one of the IUD's main targets at the present.

"Teachers are waking up to the fact that they need a union," Conway said in an interview. "The New York settlement shows that collective bargaining can deal with professional problems such as class size and workload as well as improve salaries."
