Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A YOUNG SALESMAN, who had wed what he described as "the most beautiful girl in the history of Milwaukee," returned from his honeymoon in a state of utter disillusionment. "The trouble began," he admitted sadly, "when she came to me crying the morning after the wedding and told me she had swallowed her glass eye. I told her I never realized she had a glass eye, then asked her, 'How come you swallowed it, anyhow?' She answered, 'I guess I never should have put it in the same glass with my teeth.'"

Five or six decades ago, the Crookes residing in the country between Memphis and Houston, introduced a new form of musical show in which a principal character was always named "Mr. Jasbo." This was a corruption of the French "chasse-beau," which meant a beau, or dandy, who took the wind out of the sails of other beaux. "Jasbo" in time was shortened further, to the word Jazz, and thus the era of Jazz was ushered in.

The famous old comedian, David Warfield, used to tell how his immigrant father made three important discoveries when he arrived in America: one: The streets were not paved with gold; two: The streets weren't even paved at all; three: He was expected to pave them!

Consultant Will Study Washington Freight Rates

OLYMPIA (UPI)—A special committee will be named next week to select a consultant who will make a study of freight rates affecting shippers in Seattle, Portland and Eastern Washington.

Francis Pearson, chairman of the State Utilities and Transportation Commission, said the selection committee would represent the commission, the Department of Commerce and Economic Development, and the transportation industry.

In some cases, Pearson said, it is cheaper to ship goods to Eastern Washington or Puget Sound areas from Portland than from Seattle.

"It is a complicated and complex situation," he said, "but apparently the lower rate is in rail tariffs for some goods. If it had been used much it would have known about it before."

Consultant Necessary
Pearson said a special consultant was necessary because commission officials "just don't have the time to make a study of the magnitude that this one will have to take."

Pearson said the decision to make the study was made at a commission meeting several weeks ago. He announced it Thursday.

The study was prompted by a series of mergers between out of state companies and firms in the "short line" business as well as the growth of industrial parks outside of metropolitan areas.

"They have made a completely new transportation picture," he said, "there are certain rates in Eastern Washington we have to look at too, but the Puget Sound area is more important at the moment."

Credit Managers Plan Conference

Credit managers and business operators from Oregon and the Columbia river region of Washington will join credit bureau managers and operators for their annual conference in Eugene Oct. 26 and 27, Hugh Rogers, manager of the Credit Bureau of Medford has announced.

"Changing Times" is the theme announced for the conference. Speakers will present information on Oregon's economy, new commercial laws and Oregon's families.

The Credit Women's Breakfast club, an organization of women who are employed in the field of credit and who meet regularly for educational purposes, also will meet at the Eugene conference, which will be held in the Eugene hotel.

Discussion groups will be conducted along business and industry lines. Anyone wishing more information regarding the conference is asked to contact the local credit bureau at 223 West Sixth st., Medford, or telephone 772-8006.

Bids to Construct Forest Road Called

KLAMATH FALLS—Bids for 7.1 of forest service road on the Chiloquin district were advertised recently by the regional forester, Winema National Forest Supervisor Alex Smith has announced.

The project, known as the Meadow Creek road, is being financed as part of the Accelerated Public Works program and will provide needed access to national forest timber sale areas.

The project may be reached by going east from Highway 97 approximately 15 miles on the Silver Lake County road, and southeast another 4½ miles on the Skellock Draw road No. 31049.

Bids will be opened in the office of the regional forester in Portland at 2 p.m. Nov. 7. Those interested in reviewing plans or specifications may review copies at the office of the forest supervisor, 411 Main street, Klamath Falls, Ore.

Plans To Mine Onyx In Area Announced

Plans to start mining operations northwest of Diamond lake for travertine onyx have been announced by Troy Cardine, Azalea, Ore.

Cardine, who has claims on 40 acres of the property near Clearwater camp and Tokete Falls, said that he plans to start operations in the spring. Prior to that time, he said, he hopes to dispose of some carving quality onyx on the property and rockhounds are welcome in the area. He noted that the travertine onyx is available on top of the ground.

The onyx ranges in color from white to green and brown. The property is south of the Umpqua river and signs will be installed for directions, Cardine said.

Soldier's Neck Broken in Fall

KLAMATH FALLS (UPI)—The body of a young Army private was found early Thursday on railroad tracks near here.

A medical examiner's report said the soldier, Leonard J. Tate, 19, Los Angeles, apparently died of a broken neck in a fall from a train.

Army authorities at Fort Lewis, Wash., said Tate was AWOL from Co. D of the 41st Signal Battalion at Fort Lewis, and was being returned there by two guards after being picked up by Military Police from Fort Ord. Calif.

The Army said the guards missed Tate when the train left Klamath Falls and a search of the train failed to locate him. His body was found about 5:20 a.m. in the center of the tracks north of Klamath Falls.
