Recreation Report Indicates Hunting Good in Forests

Hunting is reported good on the Applegate Ranger district of the Rogue River National forest, "better than earlier in the season" on the Prospect district, but only fair on the Union Creek and Butte Falls districts in the recreation report released today by the forest service office in Medford. There still was no snow on the high elevations of the Applegate district for this last week end of the general deer hunting season. "All trails and roads are open 'until closed by snow.' Storms are reported moving the deer down into the lower elevations. Campgrounds are open but water has been disconnected at Wrangle and Beaver Sulphur.

Washington Fires Burn 1,391 Acres

OLYMPIA (UPI)—Forest fires attacked 1,391.9 acres of timber and brush land in Washington so far this year compared with 1,612.9 acres during the first nine and a half months of 1962, the State Department of Natural Resources announced Thursday. The agency said there have been more fires this year, 951 compared with 721, but they did less damage. The report covered blazes through Oct. 15 on land protected from fires by the state. Blazes in national parks, national forests and on Indian reservations were not included.
