Senior Center Schedule Announced for Week

Gerald Z. Wollam, of the Rogue Valley Manor, will show a movie of the Pendleton Round-Up to the Arm Chair Travelers at the Senior Activity center Monday, October 21, at 1:30 p.m. The pictures will show the parade, scenes at the cowboy breakfast, roping and riding contests, and the Indian dances put on by different tribes which meet annually at this colorful Oregon festival. Later in the year, Mr. Wollam plans to give several programs at the center covering recent trips he has taken into Indian villages in the interior of northern Alaska and in the Aleutian Islands. Last week the colored slides shown by Mrs. Edith Brandenburg were of Swiss villages, Holland canals and Norwegian fjords with special emphasis on architecture of the farm and village homes, churches and the flower festivals. Mrs. Herman Ekerson projected the slides while Mrs. Brandenburg narrated her experiences and the history of each place. Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Haugen, Sheridan, Oregon, were guests during the show. They stayed at the center afterward to discuss with members of the center committee their plans for enlarging and improving the center developed in their community. They were especially interested in the new craft outlet, for Evergreen Crafts, made by seniors of southern Oregon and how the Council on Aging was developed. The knitting class follows the travel group at 3 p.m. and is open to any man or woman who wants to learn to knit, according to Mrs. Edward Barnett, teacher.
