Hatfield Defends Choice of Nov. 11 To Open Session

PORTLAND (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield, returning from speaking engagements in Arizona and California, said Friday he was surprised at criticism of opening Oregon's special legislative session on Veteran's Day, Nov. 11.

"There wasn't any vacation taken on the battlefield," he remarked at Portland International Airport after arriving from San Francisco.

Hatfield said he expects a 5 to 10 day legislative session, based on discussions with the presiding officers of the two legislative bodies.

"If the legislators restrict themselves to the single issue of carrying out the people's will as expressed in the tax referendum, there is no reason why they can't complete the session in that time," he remarked.

In San Francisco Friday the governor told the Commonwealth Club he believes former vice president Richard A. Nixon is an "active" candidate for the presidential nomination in 1964.

"Nixon is on the track and running fast," Hatfield said.

He said he believes the 1960 Republican standard bearer's name will be entered in the New Hampshire primary next spring. He also said he thought that primary would be a wide-open race with each potential GOP candidate drawing support.

Anti-Bias Law Put On Ballot

SEATTLE (UPI) — An anti-segregation open-housing ordinance was referred by the Seattle City Council Friday to a vote of the people next March 10.

The measure would make it a crime, punishable by a $500 fine, to refuse to rent, lease or sell housing because of race, religion, color, ancestry or national origin.

The proposal, written for the council by a Human Rights Commission established last July, was shorn of its emergency clause, which would have made it effective as soon as the council adopted it, and then, on a motion by council president Floyd Miller, it was referred to the voters "without petition."

The 7-2 vote came after a day-long hearing on the bill. The action disappointed proponents of the ordinance, but the opponents, represented at the council meeting mostly by realty men and apartment house owners, were elated.

STUDY RESCUE CAPSULE — Relatives of trapped iron ore miners look over a one-man rescue capsule at the Lengede-Broisted mine, 10 miles south of Peine, Germany, as rescuers tried Friday to reach men imprisoned in the flooded mine. Later hope for 39 of the men was abandoned, but rescue teams still were trying to reach four others that might still be alive. (Story on Page 1A). (UPI)

Consumers Urged To Destroy Fish From That Area

Canned Goods Not Affected By Move

By ROBERT F. BUCKHORN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's housewives were urged today to destroy all smoked fish known to have been caught or processed in the Great Lakes area.

Commissioner George P. Larrick of the Food & Drug Administration (FDA) ordered the emergency measures into effect Friday night in a move to stem new outbreaks of the deadly type-E botulism poisoning.

Larrick said the "destroy" order was aimed at smoked fish products that are "packaged in sealed plastic wrappers and those that are sold in bulk without any package." Canned fish products are not involved, he said.

Study Recent Deaths
Larrick issued the order after receiving a report from FDA scientists and from an advisory panel of experts who made an independent study of seven recent deaths traced to botulism-E and stemming from smoked whitefish processed by the H. J. Hornbos & Bros. Co. at Grand Haven, Mich.

In the course of the investigation, the FDA said, traces of botulism-E were found in at least three other fish processing plants in the Great Lakes area.

In a notice to wholesalers, retailers and processors, the FDA urged that all supplies of smoked fish products made from Great Lakes fish or processed in the area also should be destroyed.

Larrick said that some of the fish could be retained if it could be established with certainty that:

—The fish was heated immediately after it was packaged in a manner that would assure a temperature of at least 180 degrees for at least 30 minutes in the coldest part of the fish.
—The fish was frozen immediately after packaging and has since been maintained continuously in a frozen condition.

Constitution Gets Bi-Partisan Support

PORTLAND (UPI) — The Young Democratic Clubs of Oregon and the Young Republican Federation of Oregon have promised bi-partisan backing for an initiative campaign to amend the Oregon Constitution to require single-seat legislative districts.

The announcement was made in a joint statement by the presidents of the two organizations.

The proposal would divide all multi-seat legislative districts into single-seat districts.

The initiative campaign, announced by the Oregon Junior Chamber of Commerce at a recent annual meeting, received endorsement by Janen McLennan, Portland, president of the Young Democrats, and Robert Bell, Milwaukie, president of the Young Republicans.

The two explained that the present Oregon system has one senatorial district with eight senators while a dozen other districts have only one senator apiece.

A ballot title is being prepared by the attorney general's office, they said.

Douglas-Home Opens Fighting Campaign for Commons Seat

PERTH, Scotland (UPI) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home Saturday opened a fighting campaign for a House of Commons seat with the statement he had helped bring the world back from the brink of war three times during his career as Foreign Secretary.

"The occasions," he told newsmen later at a press conference, "were Laos, Berlin 18 months ago, and the other one was Cuba. Our role in Cuba was to sustain the United States in the position they had taken." But now, he said, there is a chance "we have crossed the watershed of danger."

Douglas-Home, who must win the seat in Commons if he is to serve effectively as Prime Minister, outlined a seven-point domestic program he pledged would put Britain in the "van of progress" in contrast to the Labor party's pie-in-the-sky approach.

Sir Alec, speaking at a rally in the building of the Perth auction market, gave a sweeping review of the "peace and prosperity" policies he hopes will win the next general election for his Conservative government.

Summing up his domestic program, he pledged modernization of industry, an expanded science program, expanded higher education programs, stepped up home building and slum clearance and increased health and old age benefits. His seventh point was "we shall see that no part of the kingdom is left out of the general prosperity."

The 60-year-old Scottish aristocrat put the main emphasis in his speech on domestic policy.

the area in which the opposition Laborites have attacked the hardest.

But he emphasized the nation's future depends "on our ability to maintain peace in the world." He said the partial nuclear test ban treaty was a step forward towards better East-West relations and said "there is a chance that we may have crossed the watershed of danger in our relations with the Soviet Union."

Governor Opens State Olympic Week

SALEM (UPI) — Gov. Mark Hatfield opened Oregon's Winter Olympic Week at 6 a.m. Saturday when he lit an Olympic torch in front of his home here.

Then he handed the torch to the first of 10 University of Portland cross-country runners who were to carry it to Portland.

A 12-foot high Olympic bowl has been built on Portland's northwest side to hold the torch.

The activities are being held to call attention to the city's Olympic fund-raising drive, which has a goal of $15,000. About half of the total already has been raised, according to the chairman, Mrs. Donald Renwick.

Layoff Of Employees Would Be Expensive

PORTLAND (UPI) — The legislative Interim Tax Committee was told today that layoff of 1,000 state employees as a result of the state's fiscal crisis will cost the state $1,040,000.

The statement was made by Ralph Miner of the State Department of Finance and Administration. The state does not participate in the unemployment compensation fund and unemployment payments must come out of department budgets.

Miner also told lawmakers at a meeting here that expected school enrollment will require an $8.5 million increase in the basic school support fund if the present law remains unchanged.

He estimated that higher education enrollment would increase from 33,000 now to about 45,000 by the 1966-67 school year if present tuition and admission requirements are retained.

Former U2 Pilot Weds in Virginia

CATLETT, Va. (UPI) — Francis Gary Powers, the American pilot whose high-flying U2 plane was shot down over Russia in 1960, was married Saturday to Mrs. Claudia Edwards Downey.

Mrs. Downey, like Powers, is a former employee of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA). Powers was divorced in January from his first wife, Barbara, who once said her life with the CIA pilot was "like being married to a disappearing Houdini."
