The young American violinist, Erick Friedman, will play the first concert of the current season for Jackson County Civic Music Association Wednesday, October 30. It will be played at Hedrick Junior High school beginning at 8 p.m.

Violinist To Play Wednesday

Erick Friedman, violinist, will give the first concert of the season for Jackson County Civic Music Association this week. The concert is set for 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 30, at Hedrick Junior High school.

The young man has toured the Orient, South Africa and Europe as well as playing in the United States, and has received many standing ovations.

A native of New Jersey, young Friedman studied first with Ivan Galamain and made his professional debut at 10. His New York Philharmonic debut came two years later, and at the age of 17 he gave a recital at Carnegie Hall. The New York Times wrote of his recital "Mr. Friedman played with confidence, instrumental security, good musicianship, secure intonation, an utterly dependable bow arm and a serious view toward the music. . . He is a very gifted violinist and should have a fine career before him."

European critics have called him one of the biggest talents of our time.

A protege of Jascha Heifetz, Erick Friedman recorded the Bach "Concert for Two Violins and Orchestra" with Heifetz and when it was released, won accolades as an outstanding new recording artist. He is still in his twenties.

The violinist, described as 6 feet 4 inches tall who looks like a jovial younger brother of Rock Hudson, likes to box, drives a car and engages in other activities sometimes shunned by violinists worried about injuring their hands.

The artist's heavy schedule for the year beginning in January calls for about 80 concerts in several countries.

Federation Officers Attend Garden Session

ASHLAND — Three officers of the Oregon Federation of Garden Clubs attended the recent meeting of the Siskiyou district held at the Bellview Grange Hall, Ashland. They were Mrs. J. W. Scheel, Corvallis, state president; Mrs. Allen B. Scott, Corvallis, recording secretary; and Mrs. Ben Andrews, Eugene, corresponding secretary.

In her message to the membership, Mrs. Scheel stressed that each club should strive to build up its membership, endeavor to form more junior clubs, or work with 4-H clubs that are interested in horticulture, flower arranging, or corsage making. She congratulated the Central Point Garden Club for sponsoring several junior clubs. She spoke about the recent news letter that the Oregon Federation is publishing every two months and asked that clubs having news of interest, especially flower show dates, send this information to her.

Ashland Host Club
Ashland Garden Club was host to the meeting and served coffee before the meeting began. Bellview Grange women served luncheon.

Mrs. Ira Fitzgerald, Medford, district director, conducted the meeting. It opened with group singing led by Mrs. Howard Bush, Medford, with Mrs. Gaston Floux, Central Point, at the piano. During the business meeting Mrs. Bush, accompanied by Mrs. Floux, sang a song about "Don't Be A Litter Bug."

Mrs. E. A. Bay, president of the Ashland Garden Club, welcomed the members. The invocation was given by the Rev. Gilbert Cays, pastor of the Bellview Church of Christ.

Members from 9 clubs represented.

Mrs. A. O. Floyd, Medford, state memorials chairman, reminded members that if they wished to make a donation, money should be sent to the state treasurer and that she in turn would notify Mrs. Floyd.

Chorus Sings
The Bellview Chorus, consisting of 60 children from the fifth and sixth grades of the Bellview School, sang several songs, led by Miss Bruno, teacher of Bellview School. Mrs. J. W. McCoy, organist at Ashland Presbyterian Church, was accompanist. The chorus is unusual because the children of their own accord go to school an hour early every day for practice. There are 80 in the Chorus.

Mrs. LeRoy Cline, assistant district director and district program chairman, introduced Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. R. D. Kay, both of Central Point, and Mrs. O. V. Poe, Phoenix, who judged arrangements entitled "Harvest Blessings," brought by the different garden clubs. The arrangements were judged orally so that the audience might better understand the judges' system.

Dr. Beatrice Willard, botanist instructor from Southern Oregon College, showed pictures on "World Gardening," taken in different countries of Europe and Japan. Dr. Willard won a scholarship from the Ford Foundation and spent 14 months in Europe and 16 months in Switzerland in 1954-1955 studying alpine plants.

Council Coverage Plan Passed by Scout Council

Results of the vote on the controversial "council coverage" plan at the annual National Girl Scout Council session in Miami Beach, Fla., last week were overwhelmingly in favor of the plan it was announced yesterday by Mrs. R. W. Grey, Medford, a member of the regional committee for Region XI.

Mrs. Grey stated that the vote was 2,439 for, and 359 against. National leaders interpret this as a vote of confidence for the national board of directors which framed the proposal to keep "the wheels turning on the project to put Girl Scouting administration in the hands of fewer and stronger councils."

The Medford woman pointed out that the national board is composed of 50 members, all experienced Girl Scout women who have served as Girl Scout leaders, troop committee members, neighborhood chairmen, local board members, officers and regional committee members. They come from several states and cities throughout the United States.

New chairmen of the regional committee is Mrs. Elliott DeForest, Seattle, Wash., who has been active in Girl Scouting since 1941, and on the national board since 1960. Region XI is composed of Alaska, Washington, Idaho and Montana. About 51,000 girls and 21,000 adults are represented in the region.

Local Council Opposed
Rogue Valley council had voted against the plan in sessions here and had instructed its two delegates, Mrs. B. E. Culy, council president, and Mrs. H. E. Nulton, vice-president, to vote against the proposal during the national meeting.

Under the new plan, councils will be consolidated. It was stated at the national meeting that the new plan will mean a trimming and tightening of policies and procedures, and an extension of Girl Scout activities for more girls. Locally it has been feared that with fewer paid executives, the task of finding and

Attend Opera In Bay City
Among Medford opera fans who have been in San Francisco recently for performances of the San Francisco Opera company are Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Werner and Mrs. R. W. Grey.

The Werners attended performances of "La Traviata" starring Mary Costa and "Aida" with Leontyne Price in the leading role. The Werners, both musicians, were impressed with the staging and production of the company and were particularly impressed with "Aida."

Mrs. Grey attended "Aida" and a performance of "Cosi fan tutte" with Elizabeth Schwarzkopf and Vanni. Mrs. Grey also termed the "Aida" performance a magnificent one.

Aims, Accomplishments Of League Discussed

Aims and accomplishments of the League of Women Voters were discussed by Mrs. K. E. Montgomery, Eugene, at a recent meeting of the Medford League. Approximately 60 local members and guests of the non-partisan group met with Mrs. Montgomery, past president of the League in Oregon, at a dessert luncheon at the Red Cross Building.

A former president of the Eugene League, Mrs. Montgomery described work of the voters group throughout the United States. She stressed the League's interest in citizen participation in government and its work as a vanguard in vital local, state and national issues.

For the benefit of new and prospective members, she explained the League's procedure in the study of carefully selected items, on which members gather "full facts, pro and con," before taking a position.

Approximately 135,000 members in the 30 states and District of Columbia take part in local study units and large meetings, in action on issues and with voters service. Mrs. Montgomery praised the group's varied membership, which she described as "united only in the interest of good government."

"There is no built-in opinion or approach in the League of Women Voters," she declared. Women of all parties and shades of opinion join in the group's aim "to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government."

As examples, she cited LWV accomplishments throughout the United States, from the Dalles, Ore., where members have long supported an adequate water supply, to southern cities where members have worked to keep public schools open.

Within one year 244 League made detailed studies of their local government and 1,893 local city councils, boards and commissions were regularly attended by LWV observers.

Mrs. Ogden Kellogg, president of the Medford group, stressed that all women of voting age are invited to participate in all of the league's activities. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Kellogg, 855-1406, or Mrs. Robert L. Bulger, membership chairman, 773-3763.

Officer Visits Yreka Auxiliary
YREKA — Mrs. Wanda Barger, district president of the American Legion Auxiliary, made an official visit to the auxiliary of Ross Neilon Post at a recent meeting in Yreka Veterans Hall. She was accompanied by Mrs. Rose Taylor, district secretary.

Gifts made by members were on display at the meeting and later will be sent to Veterans Administration hospitals for veterans to give to their families at Christmas time. A letter was read from the unit's "adopted" nurse who lives in a veteran's home.

keeping volunteer leaders will be harder.

In recent years there has been a lack of trained women for executive positions, and the Rogue Valley Council has often been without a paid executive, a. it is now. Under the new plan, the present Rogue council will become a part of an enlarged council with headquarters in Eugene. In some parts of the nation, entire councils have withdrawn from the Girl Scout movement and have become a part of other youth organizations, or operated as independent groups.

Zontians Win Award
Medford Zonta club won an award for its service program during the annual conference of District VIII held in Walla Walla, Wash., last week. The local club was represented by Eloise Winklebleck, a former president of the club, and Mrs. Jane Hundley. They returned home Sunday night.

The Medford club carries on a five-point service program for education, health, safety, geriatrics and youth. In the field of education the club has given financial aid and supplies for the School of Hope, in the field of health has worked for the rehabilitation of the mentally retarded and has supported Mercy Flights. Service in safety has been through support of local safety councils, and the youth program has been carried on through scholarships for Southern Oregon College girls and to send outstanding Medford High School girl to a science and engineering institute in the summer.

They report that the Anchorage, Alaska, club won an award for "personal service to the needy and strangers to the area." The award was based on operation of a center which aids newcomers and travelers.

One of the conference speakers was Mrs. P. J. Pierce, Pasadena, Calif., president of Zonta International who had just returned to the United States after being in Istanbul, Turkey, to organize a new club there.

Ceremony Planned By Chapter

EAGLE POINT — A jewel pin and pledge ceremony will be conducted by Beta Nu chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha sorority Wednesday, October 30 in Mon Desir dining inn, Central Point.

To receive their pins are Mrs. A. E. Mitchell, Mrs. Gordon Moxley, Mrs. Steven Wisely, Mrs. Dale Bates and Mrs. Keith Krambeal.

Plans for the event were made at the chapter's recent meeting. Mrs. Steven Wisely, social chairman, announced that Mrs. Ronald Vetkos had won the costume award at a hobo party given by the chapter. The recent party was held in the home of Mrs. Robert Kimmel in honor of prospective members. Guests included Mrs. Larry Root, Mrs. George Allen, Mrs. Vetkos, Mrs. Eldon Francis and Mrs. Robert West.

The group will be the host chapter for a New Year party in a Mardi Gras theme. Alpha Lambda and Delta Omega chapters in Medford and Ashland and Grants Pass chapter will be guests for the semi-formal ball.

Mrs. Richard L. Chamberlain, president, appointed Mrs. Dale Bates recording secretary to assist Mrs. Douglas Harshbarger, who will remain as corresponding secretary.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mrs. Vern Steward gave an educational program entitled, "Ideals of ESA."

Other October activities include a spaghetti dinner in the home of Mrs. Thomas Mast.

The chapter will conduct a rummage sale in conjunction with the Eagle Point Grange Bazaar, Mrs. Leif Ostmo announced. The hall will be open from 12 noon to 9 p.m., Saturday, November 2 with booths from various organizations of the community.

Sorority Head Lists Events For Alpha Betas

Mrs. Charles Tucker, city council representative for Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, listed events of the year for Alpha Beta Chapter women when they met recently in the home of Mrs. Dennis Garcelon, 113 Leland street.

Included will be the all-chapter Valentine Ball to be held February 15 in Rogue Valley Country Club for which each chapter will select a member to represent the chapter as a princess. A queen will be chosen during the evening of the ball. Alpha Beta Chapter will be in charge of furnishing music.

Another annual event will be the Founders Day program scheduled for April 30 when the thirty-third anniversary of the International Sorority will be observed.

A rummage sale is planned for November 8 in Eagles hall on West Main Street.

A guest for the evening was Mrs. Billie Madden.

Members are to take "odds and ends" from home to each meeting for children of the local School of Hope to aid them in their projects. Such items include jewelry, scraps of material, yarn and other materials which can be used by the school in making useful gifts.

Cohostesses were Mrs. Kenn Knackstedt and Mrs. Jack Goodman. The next meeting will be held November 12 in the home of Mrs. Norman Lankford, 1440 Jasper Street.

Meeting Planned For Alpha Chis

Rogue Valley Alumnae Club of Alpha Chi Omega will meet at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, October 30, at the home of Mrs. William T. Clark, 545 Pierce Road. All members of the sorority are invited to attend.

New York—That straight coiffure the nation's First Lady has been wearing puts her "completely out of fashion" so far as hairdresser Buddy Walton, style director of the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association is concerned. First Lady's Hair Style Said Unfashionable

NEW YORK (UPI)—That long straight coiffure the nation's first lady has been wearing puts her "completely out of fashion" so far as one influential hairdresser is concerned.

"If she were 20 or 21, she could get by with it," said Buddy Walton, styles director of the official hair fashion committee, the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. "But she's not," he continued. "And that long bob isn't becoming to her. Mrs. Kennedy is completely out of fashion so far as I'm concerned."

Walton, 40, is a St. Louis hairdresser who has coiffed a lot of famous heads including those of Margaret Truman, Pat Nixon, the late Eleanor Roosevelt, Bob Hope's wife, the comedienne Phyllis Diller, actress Linda Darnell, and Rise Stevens, the opera star.

He praised Mrs. John F. Kennedy for the elaborate evening hair styles she usually wears—Kenneth of New York, Jean Louis of Washington and Alexandre of Paris all have had a hand in these.

But he called on her to return to "a semi-short, casual cut for daytime."

"She's usually a great influence on what other women wear," said Walton. "But this shoulder length bob won't catch on."

Walton suggested that Mrs. Kennedy could wear most becomingly the "dandy," which is the association's choice of hair styles for fall and winter.

The Garbo Style
He described it as "a little bit reminiscent of the hairdo Garbo wore"—close to the head, instead of tapered. In many close to the nape of the neck, a slight rise through the crown. The hair falls three to four inches from the temple, and the line at the ends is horizontal versions the ends are curled a bit and swept forward over the cheeks.

"We're getting away from that stiff, lacquered look," said Walton. "And we always go back in styles, you know. But we give them an updating."

"I wouldn't be surprised to see little girls in Shirley Temple curls," he continued. "and the Jean Harlow platinum blonde definitely is coming in."

The association, which has just concluded its national beauty fashion show in New York, represents some 70,000 U.S. beauticians and cosmetologists, he said.
