

Nicklaus Sensation At Paris

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

PARIS (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus not only proved himself the greatest golfer in the world today but he also could give the U.S. mail a lesson.

The Post Office brags about going through sleet, snow and dark of night, but the big kid from Ohio went through icy breezes, soggy mud and pea soup fog to beat the best from 33 nations, win the individual International Trophy and sweep Uncle Sam to its fourth straight Canada Cup team victory.

It was Nicklaus' first appearance in this international tournament and Arnold Palmer gave his Yankee teammate all the credit.

"Jack did it, no question about it," said Palmer.

Cliches Tournament

Where he did it, and Palmer put the icing on the cake, was on the sixth hole on the St. Nom la Breche course which was so shrouded in fog that the final round had to be cut to nine holes, making it a 63-hole tournament instead of the scheduled 72.

The U.S. had started out the day tied with Spain for the team lead and the Spaniards, playing ahead of the Americans were three shots back after five holes. It looked like it was going to be a real race when both Nicklaus and Palmer trapped their approaches. But Nicklaus, who had four birdies in the first five holes, made it five birdies in six holes when he blasted out of the trap into the cup—75 yards away. Palmer came out on the green and sank his putt for a par and the U.S. was in.

Now the men of the British Isles are on their way to join the biggest gold rush since '49. Competing in the Canada Cup at the moment such as Bernard Hunt and Neil Coles of England, Ave Thomas of Wales, George Willis of Scotland and Christy O'Connor of Ireland all have signified their intention of starting right in with the Los Angeles open in early January.

None of them are overly optimistic that they can rush right in and replace Arnold Palmer as the year's leading money winner. But, considering that Palmer has won some $130,000 in 1962 with probably another $30,000 in "unofficial" winnings, they just can't resist the lure.

Bernard Hunt, the six foot, two inch 200-pounder from London summed it up quite succinctly.

MH Swim Team Plans NB Jaunt

Medford High School swimming team, victor in three of four meets this season, will go to North Bend this weekend for a district warmup meet.

Other participants, along with North Bend and Medford, will be Reedsport, Marshfield, Toledo and Klamath Falls.

District meet will be held on Nov. 15 and 16 at North Bend with the state meet the following weekend at Eugene.

Medford has won twice from Klamath Falls and once from Toledo in meets this season. In a four-way meet here and Reedsport, North Bend and Marshfield, Medford girls were second and boys third.

Coach Bob Gross has about 29 swimmers out with the squad divided about equally between boys and girls. The team is headed by Bruce Hess. First diving competition is slated this week and Jim Brinson will join the squad.

Gross is a graduate of University of North Dakota. He is teaching senior English at Medford High.

Drake, Young Fire Perfect 25 Scores

Mike Drake and Floyd Young each had perfect 25 scores Sunday in 16-yard trapshooting at Medford Gun Club.

Drake also broke 24 of 25 as did Harry Cawker, Keith Rowland and Bill Bryant.

Ray Coleman shattered 23 birds in handicap shooting. Gene Hunt and Cawker each broke 21.

Shooting is scheduled again on Sunday, Nov. 3.

PARIS (UPI)—Beaten off in 1976 and again in 1912, the British once more today are getting ready to invade the United States.

Don't start rummaging in the attic for grandpa's squirrel rifle or try to cram all those excess desk pounds into your old Army uniform. Tell the lads in Lexington to stay behind the plow and the pirates of Bourbon Street can continue their freebooting against New Orleans tourists.

This invasion is aimed strictly at those big fat Yankee dollars being put up on the U. S. pro golf tour.

The gold will be dug with a wedge as attracted a number of tee tourists over the past few years, of course. England's Henry Cotton gave it a go followed by such as Bobby Locke of South Africa, Peter Thomson and Australia and, of late, such as Gary Player and Retief Waltman of South Africa, Bob Charles of New Zealand and Bruce Crampton of Australia.

To Join Rush

Now the men of the British Isles are on their way to join the biggest gold rush since '49. Competing in the Canada Cup at the moment such as Bernard Hunt and Neil Coles of England, Ave Thomas of Wales, George Willis of Scotland and Christy O'Connor of Ireland all have signified their intention of starting right in with the Los Angeles open in early January.

None of them are overly optimistic that they can rush right in and replace Arnold Palmer as the year's leading money winner. But, considering that Palmer has won some $130,000 in 1962 with probably another $30,000 in "unofficial" winnings, they just can't resist the lure.

Bernard Hunt, the six foot, two inch 200-pounder from London summed it up quite succinctly.

"Naturally, I hope to do well," he said. "But at least by taking a crack at the U.S. tour I hope to improve my game to the extent that I may do better when I return to England thus cash in at home."

The irresistibility of the U.S. jackpots, with $25,000 and $50,000 top prizes in some events, can be appreciated when you consider that Hunt was Britain's leading money winner this year with earnings of $19,000.

Have Two Weaknesses

If they want to make a success of their invasion, however, they have two major weaknesses to overcome according to Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the International Golf Association.

"Their greatest weakness is their short game," analyzed Corcoran. "They just don't chip and putt with the U.S. players. Take Thomas, if he could learn to chip he'd win a lot of money. But that leads to their second weakness. They simply won't practice enough. They figure they're practicing when they're in a round. They won't hit balls hour after hour on the practice tee."

They also must learn to "charge" a la Palmer, he asserted.

"They aren't aggressive enough," added Corcoran. "It isn't enough to feel you're a winner. You've got to go out and run at the field with your chin stuck out."

Player, the little South African who proved his aggressiveness by taking the PGA crown and becoming one of the top money winners, tipped the whole hand when he said:

"At those box car figures I'm going to play in the U.S. as long as I can swing a club."

So the British figure to cut a piece of the pie, too.

Chico Stars In Comedy For Clowns

EAGLE POINT — The Court Jester!

This is the sobriquet that has been bestowed upon "Chico" Burrell, veteran comedy star of the famed, fabulous and frolicking Harlem Clowns.

The Court Jester will lead the famous casba cut-ups when they play John Wheeler Logging at the high school gym here at 8 p. m. on Wednesday, Oct. 30.

He was christened Stanley but somewhere along the line during his 15-year career he picked up his nickname and that's how he's been known ever since.

Chico stands six feet, two inches and weighs a trim 190 pounds. He is from Long Island City, New York.

Burrell began his career back in the late 1940s and as a rookie he was taught how to clown by Al (Runt) Pullins, owner-manager of the Harlem Clowns.

Natural

Chico then joined the Harlem Globetrotters and for years was the top comic and pivot man for their western unit.

Burrell is a natural comic. He loves the horse play and tom foolery which goes along with the Clowns' routines during a basketball game.

He's the ringleader for most of the pranks but his is a subtle, sophisticated type of humor which starts on a slow take then comes on like Gang Busters. Chico wears a perpetual grin from opening tip-off to the final buzzer.

Along with his natural clowning, Chico is a great ball handler and a tremendous rebounder. He has outstanding defensive skills and a fine assortment of scoring shots.

But he is no doubt most known for his spectacularly long hook shot which he makes with equal ease from the sideline on either side of the floor.

Schwab Named Player Of Week

PORTLAND (UPI)—Oregon end Rich Schwab Monday was elected as the state's college football player of the week by the Portland Linebackers.

Schwab caught four passes for 82 yards and a touchdown in the Ducks' 26-19 loss to Washington here Saturday.

Also receiving votes were end Dick Inwalle and tackle Ray Johnson of Oregon and end Jim Hollingsworth and quarterback Mike Schrank of Portland State.

Shag Thomas To Referee Thursday Mat Card Here

Shag Thomas, 250-pound wrestler from Ohio State University, will referee Thursday night's all-star card at Medford armory, it was announced today.

Thomas, a burly Negro whose head-butting tactics have won him quite a reputation in mat circles across the country, has been doing a considerable amount of refereeing during the past year and is fast becoming one of the best ring bosses in the state. Matchmaker Elton Owen decided to bring Thomas in to referee because he feels this is the best card he has ever presented in Medford.

The ring will be enclosed in chicken wire during the main event when Nick Backwinkle goes against Tough Tony Borne's coast junior heavyweight championship. They will go for two out of three falls to a finish with no time limit.

Maurice (Mad Dog) Vachon faces Dandy Dick Dunn in the semi-windup and Nick Kovak goes against Wild Bill Szagek in the opener, starting at 8:30 p.m.

Reserved seat tickets are available at Lampert's Sporting Goods Store.

Women's Golf

Two teams tied for first place in 18 hole best-ball play held at Rogue Valley Country Club last Thursday. Winners on one team were Mesdames Robert Palmer, Galen Sanner, and Earl Ticheor while the other team was comprised of Mesdames S. A. Peters, William Cowling, and Max Larson. Nine hole team winners were Mesdames Willis Williams, Harrison Leer, and Victor Moore.

Play for Thursday, October 31, will be "Never-was-er" in which only those WGA members who have won no awards or prizes during the year are eligible to win for the day. All players will be paired, and a list of "never-was-ers" has been posted in the locker room. There will also be "I've Got a Secret" play for the day for all golfers, and prizes will be awarded at the annual dinner.

Play on the Fall Handicap Tournament is now in the final round, with matches to be completed through October 31. Final match pairings are: Championship Flight: Mrs. Edward Waynes vs. Mrs. Ken McHugh; First Flight: Mrs. Rayne Sailey vs. Mrs. Gordon Reeves; Second Flight: Mrs. Dean Lambert vs. Mrs. Leonard Schildt; Third Flight: Mrs. Lloyd Brooks vs. Mrs. Andrew Foley; Fourth Flight: Mrs. Art Wood vs. Mrs. John Flynn; Fifth Flight: Mrs. Charles Williamson vs. Mrs. Jack Six; Sixth flight: Mrs. Dick Knight vs. Mrs. William Williams; Seventh Flight: Mrs. Robert Delorme vs. Mrs. Warren Bayliss.

Pairings for October 31:

Mesdames Thos. Schoop, Ray Wise, Dick Watson, Bud Parson, Joseph Clark, Mrs. Pearson, Melvin McGrew, Mark Taylor, Royal Bebb, Ernest Flakus, F. H. Holmes, Victor Moore, D. B. Lower, Ralph Marjals, Paul Haviland, J. S. Cummins, Dorothy Downson, Saml M. Smith, Douglas Knobel, L. Lawrence, William E. Ellis, Charter, Vera Collins, H. F. Walters, George Barnum, Al Scherer, E. L. Lagerson, Jim Golden, R. D. Baumback, Ora Binegar, Jack Rowbotham, Frank Bush, W. C. Tyeet.

These wishing information regarding pairings should call Mrs. Robert Hart 773-9247 or Mrs. Sam Prough 772-5062.

TO APPEAR AT EAGLE POINT — Stanley (Chico) Burrell, veteran comic star of the eastern unit of the Harlem Clowns will be seen in action on Wednesday, Oct. 30, at the Eagle Point High School gymnasium. Burrell has earned the name of "The Court Jester" through years of playing clown basketball. He has been with the Harlem Clowns the past two years after 12 seasons with the Globetrotters. The Clowns will oppose John Wheeler Logging of Medford, strong independent team of college athletes. Game time will be 8 p. m. after a 6:30 p. m. preliminary. Eagle Point High lettermen are sponsors with their share of proceeds to go to a scholarship fund.

STILL ROLLIN'—Local bowlers are still rolling those high games and series as they tallied up some big ones last week.

DON COSTON—With a 244-268-226 racked up the men at Medford Lanes. Fred Anderson followed with a 206-221-201 for 628. Then came Ollie DuBois 212-215-189 for 626. Ken Krois 223-177-222 for 622. Don Hunter 237-187-191 for 611. Claude Patis 159-242-186 for 601 and Bill Hall 199-242-190 for 591. Charles McWhorter, Carl Landis and Dick Reynolds tied with 586. Chuck Kenzold had 183-166-236 for 585 and Ray Wise 189-200-193 for 582. The only high score reported for the women was a 213-153-172 for a 538 by Annadale Bohannan.

We would appreciate a little more cooperation from the league secretaries at Medford lanes in turning in their weekly information sheets.

WANDA BOOTH—Led the women at Roxly Ann with a 214-220-202 for a big 636 series. She was followed by Joyce Thornton with 212-200-169 for 581, Gertrude Blind 173-225-180 for 578, Marge Lusk 203-169-170 for 572, Carol Dazan 184-168-213 for 565, Del Christianson 194-202-159 for 555 and Mary Parker 168-193-190 for 551. Wanda Booth was eighth high with a 516 series. Violet Moore rolled a 211 game, quite an accomplishment since she bowls in a fairly low average league.

OSU Staff Gets Ready To Take Ticket Orders

OREGON STATE UNIVERSITY, Corvallis — Oregon State's basketball Beavers, which played before nearly 260,000 fans in 31 games last season, are busily preparing for Coach Slat's 36th season.

Also getting ready for what may be Oregon State's toughest schedule in history is the OSU ticket office staff, who will accept basketball ticket orders Monday, November 4. Ticket applications to the thousands of fans on the Beaver mailing list will be in the mails Saturday, Nov. 2, says Comm G. Henness, ticket manager. Fans wishing to be added to the mailing list may send in their names and addresses to Coliseum 103 at Oregon State.

Two season ticket plans will be in effect. The Corvallis home schedule of 12 games will sell for $21 each with individual games priced at $2. The Far West Classic season ticket, for games played in Portland's Memorial Coliseum, will again sell for $10 which covers six collegiate doubleheaders between the dates of December 26-30.

Probably the best pair of inter-sectional games in Oregon State hoop history will be seen when Indiana and Cincinnati appear at both Corvallis and Portland. The Hoosiers appear at Corvallis on December 20th and at Portland the 21st. Cincinnati is at Portland January 3 and at Corvallis January 4.

Far West Classic teams include Iowa, Colorado State, Louisiana State, Brigham Young, Seattle, Washington State and the host schools, OSU and Oregon.

Corvallis games include, other than the two inter-sectional games, British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, Stanford, Portland, Seattle and Idaho. Away opponents include WSU, California, Portland, Oregon, Washington, Seattle, and a week's tour to Hawaii for two games with Hawaii and one with the Service All-Stars between January 5-12.

St. Mary's Nips Eagle Point 6-0 In Frosh Game

EAGLE POINT — St. Mary's defeated Eagle Point in a freshman football tussle here Monday. The score was 6 to 0.

The teams fought a scoreless tie until midway through the fourth quarter, when Chuck Darling of St. Mary's scored on an 18-yard pass play.

GRIPPING TO WED

VICKSBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Glynn Griffing, former University of Mississippi star who is quarterback V. A. Tittle's understudy with the New York football Giants, will marry Nikki Roth of Cleveland, Ohio, on Dec. 29. The site of the wedding will be Oxford, Miss., where the University of Mississippi is located.

Hergert Becomes Power For Lewis & Clark Team

PORTLAND (UPI)—Football followers across the nation know the names of 1962 Heisman Trophy winner Terry Baker of Oregon State and All-American halfback Mel Renfro of Oregon. But little Lewis and Clark College has taken a third member of that 1968 Portland Jefferson High School backfield and built a small college power around him.

He is Mickey Hergert, a 5-10, 175-pounder who has become the greatest ground-gainer in Northwest Conference history and perhaps could be the greatest in the small-school National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics if it weren't for a schedule quirk.
