

Foreman-Gonzalez Battle in Congress Now Just Memory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The great Foreman-Gonzalez battle — long on sound and short on fury like most congressional clashes — was only a memory today in the corridors of the capitol.

The two Texas congressmen, poles apart in politics, mixed it up briefly just off the House floor late Tuesday, then spent most of the rest of the day telling newsmen, photographers and television cameramen what it was all about.

Rep. Ed. F. Foreman, a Republican from Odessa and at 29 the youngest member of the House, said that Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, a 47-year-old Democrat from San Antonio, slugged him in a fit of anger triggered by Foreman's criticism of his voting record.

Gonzalez denied it. "I didn't hit the guy," he said. "If I had hit him he would have stayed hit." He said he only "shoved Foreman a little" when Foreman refused to remove his glasses.

Not so said Foreman. "Gonzalez doubled up in his right fist and hit me in the shoulder."

But the two did give similar versions of what started the fight, if fight it was. Gonzalez buttonholed Foreman on the House floor and said he understood that Foreman, who describes himself as "a concerned Conservative American," had called him a Communist.

Foreman said he had discussed Gonzalez's voting record last week in a Houston speech before the Texas Federation of Republican Women.

Gonzalez said there was more to it than that. He said he had heard that Foreman called him a Communist, and "those are fighting words."

Mother of Chinese Prisoner Returns After Vain Attempt

HONG KONG (UPI) — Mrs. Ruth Redmond of Yonkers, N. Y., returned from Communist China today after visiting her son in Shanghai prison. But she had no luck in winning his freedom.

Mrs. Redmond's son, Hugh, is one of four Americans imprisoned in Red China as alleged American spies. Redmond is serving a life sentence.

The grey-haired Mrs. Redmond told a news conference that she was disappointed that she was not able to stay long enough to help celebrate her son's 43rd birthday today. She said the Communists would not extend her visa.

"They extended it for one day but that wasn't enough," she said. She explained earlier that she was able, however, to have an "advance birthday party" with her son Monday in his bleak prison cell.

Mrs. Redmond said she found her son in excellent spirits—considering his position—but said he seemed to "have lost a little weight."

She said she made a new appeal to Chinese authorities for the release of her son on humanitarian grounds.

Unheeded
But like an earlier appeal, it went unheeded. She declined to disclose details of the appeal, including to whom it was made.

Mrs. Redmond said she visited her son on four different occasions. Their conversation was restricted by Communist order.

To make certain that their conversation followed these lines, and did not get into political matters, prison authorities sat in the cell during the meetings between mother and son.

"We were never alone," she said.

Always present were prison guards, interpreters and the prison superintendent.

Mrs. Redmond said she has "never given up hope" of seeing her son released from the prison sentence that began on Sept. 12, 1954.

He was arrested in April 1951 on espionage charges while engaged in an import-export business in Shanghai.

Honor Day Dance Here Is Cancelled

The annual Youth Honor Day dance, which was designed to reduce vandalism on Halloween, has been cancelled. Medford Park and Recreation Director Robert L. Haworth announced today.

The cancellation became necessary, Haworth said, when attempts to schedule a site for the dance proved unsuccessful.

In past years, the dance has been held at the Armory, but it became unavailable Thursday because wrestling matches are scheduled.

Haworth said he attempted to schedule the dance at Hedrick Junior High school, but school officials declined permission to use the building.

Haworth said he was told that Hedrick could not be used Thursday because "it's a school night."

SALEM (UPI) — At the close of September, the State Tax Commission had issued 305,475 refunds, totaling more than $14 million on income withheld from salaries and wages, it was announced today.
