

Voting Sought on Changes To Kennedy Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic leaders today hoped to begin the long task of voting on some of the 40 pending amendments to President Kennedy's beleaguered $4.2 billion foreign aid bill.

The measure, authorizing economic and military aid to friendly nations for another year, is $700 million more than the House approved, but $300 million less than the President asked. Critics seek to cut the Senate bill as much as $1.5 billion below its present level.

Opponents called an early morning strategy meeting to determine their next moves. At issue was whether to press early for a vote on a motion to send the entire bill back to committee for rewriting, or to start calling up various amendments.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., put members on notice to stand up for votes on amendments at any time. He said that senators planning to attend the NATO parliamentarians conference in Paris Monday, or any other meetings abroad, had better cancel their plans.

Musa Asks Program For Veterans Day

PORTLAND (UPI)—Senate President Ben Musa, D-Ore., today asked Sen. Thomas Mahoney, D-Portland, to attempt to provide a Veterans Day observance program at the opening of the legislature's special session Nov. 11.

Some veterans groups have protested the Veterans Day call for the special session to meet, and there have been reports there might be picketing.

Mahoney, a World War I veteran, said Musa asked him to try to arrange a program in the hope of averting any trouble, and in the belief that veterans have just cause for the session to start on that date.

Mahoney said he would seek House agreement for a brief joint session and a ceremony.

Other congressional news: Stockpile: Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., today planned to introduce reform legislation aimed at halting profiteering in the nation's multi-billion-dollar stockpile program. The bill would also bar accumulation of costly surpluses by permitting expedient disposal of excess materials, and would give the government power to make stockpile contracts subject to future adjustment or renegotiation. Symington's bill was the 10-month investigation.

Conversion: Sen. George McGovern, D-S. D., today was to propose creation of a "national economic conversion commission" to study ways to minimize the economic disturbances expected in the wake of reduction or shifts in defense expenditures. McGovern said such machinery was needed regardless of whether an overall reduction in arms spending is enacted because of the "leveling off" of some projects and "significant shifts in the character" of defense spending.

CHINESE RESUME KHURUSHCHEV ATTACKS

TOKYO—(UPI)—Communist China today resumed its attacks on Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, ignoring the call for an ideological cease-fire he issued last week.

Red China's latest blasts were contained in two lengthy articles broadcast by the Communist New China news agency and monitored in Tokyo. One summarized an article in the Albanian Communist party newspaper and the other came in the form of a 1,000 word "Editor's Note" in China's Peoples Daily Newspaper.

Goldwater Admits JFK Will Be Tough to Beat in 1964

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., admitted Wednesday night that peace and a good business climate in 1964 would make President Kennedy a tough man to beat.

But so far, he said, "nearly a thousand days of wasted spending, wishful thinking, unwarranted interventions and waning confidence (by business and labor)" have marked the Kennedy administration.

The Arizona Conservative, still a leading but unannounced presidential contender, was here for an address to about 1,500 persons at the annual awards dinner of Financial World, an investment and business weekly.

Tread On Toes
 He indicated that should he become an active candidate for the presidency he might tread on the political toes of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller—seeking New York's important GOP convention support.

"If I am a candidate I will try for delegates wherever I can get them, and probably in some places where I can't get them," he said.

"If I were a candidate," he said, "I would certainly expect to campaign in New York City."

The Kennedy administration had produced a "crisis of confidence" for labor and business, Goldwater said at the awards dinner.

He admitted the economy was moving but said it was "sluggish compared to what it could be."

He cited "continual talk" in business circles of impending dollar devaluation and said "if there was the confidence that this great economy deserves, there would be no such talk."

Transfusion Given Despite Objection

SEATTLE—(UPI)—A seven-year old boy was given two units of blood and was in fair condition in a hospital here today after a Superior Court judge ordered the transfusion when the boy's parents objected for religious reasons.

Judge William C. Long ordered the transfusion after a hearing at University Hospital. Doctors said the transfusion was necessary to save the life of the youngster, Thomas Allen Burnett, Juneau, who had arrived at the hospital three hours earlier.

His mother, Mrs. Clifford T. Burnett, member along with her husband of Jehovah's Witnesses, refused permission for the transfusion on grounds it violated a religious belief.
