Medford Thespians Need Clothing of Mid-1920's

"Inherit the Wind", three-act drama by Jerome Lawrence and Robert E. Lee, in rehearsal by the Thespian Troupe of Medford High School, presents some production problems which the student crew is working to overcome before the November 21 opening in the high school auditorium.

The two-level setting which represents the town square of Hillsboro is designed to keep always before the audience the involvement of the town in trying to prevent an honest search for truth. Stan Zapell is in charge of construction.

Men's and women's clothing of the mid 1920's is being sought by costume chairman, Marjory North. The most urgent problems, however, are those of Christy Elmore, property manager, who is searching for a hurdy - gurdy street organ and live monkey. Anyone who can help the high school group locate these unusual items is asked to call Mrs. Zapell, Thespian director, at the high school.

Crews Named

Crews responsible for assisting in production of the play include, costumes, Joyce Funk, Marlene Hall, Sue Davis, Linda Keplinger, Diana Buckles, Dana Bryant, Cathy Hearrell, and Bonnie Holgen; properties, Linda Epps, Sharon Huggdahl, Karen Corneel, Ann Heysell, Greg Hogue, Carole Pesenti, Michele Niehaus, Dave Doolen, and Olivia Jonason.

Prompters are Margaret Goodwin, Madelyn Buonocore, and Jan Morehead.

Working with Mrs. Lenore Zapell, is Rhonda Farfan as student director and Jim Ker-

Bride Carries Family Bible

SHADY COVE — When Miss Marcia Marlane Ackerman became the bride of William Claude Chase, October 26 in Medford First Methodist church, she carried a white Bible which had been carried by her mother and her aunt at their weddings.

The Rev. George Roseberry officiated for the 8 o'clock evening rites.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stanley Ackerman Sr., Route 1, Box 20, Eagle Point and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Claude Chase, 5293 Table Rock Road, Central Point.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown designed with Chantilly lace bodice and silk crystalline skirt and chapel train of matching lace. A headpiece of lilies of the valley held her fingertip length veil and with the Bible she carried a cascade of red carnations.

Aunt Is Sotoist
Mrs. Albert Keith Krambeal, her aunt who also carried the Bible, was soloist for the wedding.

Miss Lola Ackerman was honor attendant for her sister, and Mrs. James Witt, Talent, a sister of the bridegroom was bridesmatron. Miss Paulette Anderson was bridesmaid.

Larrie Witt, Talent, a niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl and Roy Herndon Jr., Central Point, carried the rings. The bride's attendants wore scarlet velvet frocks with long fitted sleeves and full skirts. White velvet crowns held their scarlet veils and they carried white carnation nosegay bouquets.

The flower girl's dress of white cotton with red polka dots was trimmed with red velvet, and she wore matching red velvet slippers. Her basket was filled with white chrysanthemums.

William Oldham, Sacramento, was best man and ushers were Mr. Witt, Dan Matteson, and Daniel Chase, Central Point, a cousin of the bridegroom.

Candles were lighted by Dale Ackerman Jr., brother of the bride, and Leslie Krambeal, her cousin.

The altar was decorated with white pompon chrysanthemums. Mrs. Charles Adamson was organist.

Grandparents Attend

The bride's mother wore a cranberry colored satin brocade sheath frock with jacket and the bridegroom's mother was dressed in an ivory knit sheath dress. Both had orchid corsages.

Guests at the wedding, and reception given by the bride's parents in the church reception rooms, included the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Dunn, and her paternal grandmother, Mrs. R. E. Ackerman, Everett, Wash.
