Couple Returns From Japan

Dr. and Mrs. Fred C. Lorish, 830 Minnesota Avenue, returned last week after spending nearly a month in Japan.

In Tokyo they met their son, Fred Lorish, Stanford University junior, an exchange student studying in Keio, who accompanied his parents on their travels.

After traveling north to Nikko, the three returned to Tokyo and from there they toured the Shin Shu Valley, some 250 miles long, where the bulk of the finest rice is grown. During their trip they viewed harvest operations.

In Kobe the trio spent several days with the Kondo family. Kondo, a Southern Oregon College student, and Don Kondo, an American Field Service student at Medford High School, had lived at the Lorish home while studying here.

On an inland sea trip the group stopped at Kure to visit a Japanese doctor, a friend of Fred Lorish.

From there the three traveled to Okayama, center of folk art. It is in this area that handmade articles used in Japanese homes are made.

After making a trip on the Sea of Japan to Mt. Matsue, they visited an uncle of Mrs. Richard T. Doi, whose husband is an art instructor at Southern Oregon College.

After spending three days in Kioto, the Medford couple left for Tokyo from where they departed for home.

Slides of Early Medford To Be Shown at Center

Seth Bullis, 15, Florence Avenue, Medford, will give a travel show Monday, November 4, starting at 1:30 p.m. in the Senior Activity Center, 601 East Jackson Boulevard.

On request, the show is a repeat performance with slides made from early pictures of Medford since 1910. They were collected by Mr. Bullis for the centennial celebration of Oregon at the request of John Snider, then mayor of Medford.

Pioneers of this area flocked to the center when the pictures were shown more than a year ago and since the center only accommodates 35, many could not get in. For this reason, the committee were asked to have the program repeated.

Last week the picture of Europe shown by Mrs. Anna Carley were quite different. The pictures, taken in 1950, showed much of the damage caused by World War II.

The center has 200 new members according to the guest register.

Following the travel show part of the group remains for the knitting class which starts at 3 p.m.

Paintings Are Hung New paintings by members of the oil painting class of Mrs. Nellie Williams are hung at the center each week.

Loveness, chairman of this activity called Evergreen Crafts, is continually looking for new craftsmen to enter their handcrafted articles in the shop opened in the Colorama Paint Center, 315 East Main Street, in September.

Wednesday will be the only day for receiving crafts until the first Wednesday in December. Craftsmen already accepted are encouraged to take additional articles Wednesday to replace those which have been sold or add to the number of a variety of gift articles still on the shelves.

From 10 a.m. to noon Miss Voda Brower and Miss Grace

Stuhr, receiving committee members, and Mrs. Clayton Walker and Mrs. W. L. Tucker from noon to 2 p.m. will be on hand to receive and register craftsmen and crafts.

Eugene Bennett will give craft counseling from 2 to 4 p.m. on appointment. The Jury and Committee will judge articles received for their workmanship, originality and salability from 4 to 5 p.m.

On this committee are Mrs. Everett Lasher, Mrs. Edwin Gebhard, Mr. Bennett and Mrs. Paul Devers, co-owner of Colorama.

Mrs. Loveness will be at the center all day to give information and may be reached before Wednesday at her home, 772-5090.

County Agent To Speak At Eagle Point Meeting

EAGLE POINT—Dale Hoecker, Jackson County Extension and 4-H Agent, will present a program Tuesday, November 5 at 8 p.m., in the Eagle Point Grange. All persons interested in extension services or 4-H work are invited to attend the meeting and participate in the social hour when refreshments will be served.

Mr. Hoecker, who arrived only recently in the county to assume his present post, came here from Brazil where he served from 1956 until this past September. His program will consist of slides and a talk on his experiences as an extension adviser for the United States Technical Assistance Program helping the Brazilian government establish agricultural extension services.

When he arrived there in 1956 Mr. Hoecker was first stationed at Sao Paulo and later at Recife and Fortaleza, covering a four-state area. At that time there were 29 counties and only five extension agents. After three years as the program developed, his area was divided by the state and he was responsible for only two states and another American extension agent had the remainder. When Mr. Hoecker left in September of this year there were 70 extension and home agents.

In addition to learning customs of the area, he also learned the Portuguese language and instead of being 4-H agent he was "4-S" agent. This is explained by the fact that the Portuguese translation of the 4-H symbol meaning head, hands, heart and health, is saber, (to know); sentir, (to feel); saude, (health); and servir, (to serve).
