Congregational Church Holds Groundbreaking

In a groundbreaking service Sunday afternoon, the members and friends of the Medford Congregational Church marked the beginning of construction for their new sanctuary and educational unit at the corner of East Jackson St. and Berkeley Way.

The service was conducted by the minister of the church, the Rev. Robert W. Tull. The Rev. Thomas McCamant, Hubbard, Ore., who founded the church in October, 1953, was the main speaker.

Mr. McCamant spoke on the same theme on which he preached ten years ago at the very first worship service of the church. His title was "Beginnings," and he emphasized that every new and worthwhile beginning is built upon many events that have led up to it.

"Just as the Gospel of Jesus Christ was prepared for by the words and work of the great Hebrew prophets who preceded his time," Mr. McCamant said, "so the beginning of this church and of this building has been prepared for by the long and faithful actions of many dedicated people who have committed their dreams, their skills and their gifts in laying the foundation for what we do today."

Mr. McCamant then led those present in reading the church's covenant, and the service was concluded with the singing of the Doxology and the benediction by Mr. Tull.

Following the service of groundbreaking, an open house was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gatewood G. Smith, 705 W. 10th St., in celebration of the event and in honor of Mr. and Mrs. McCamant.

Area's Traffic During September Shows Decline

Oregon's traffic volume showed a net increase for September as compared to September of 1962, but southern Oregon highways did not follow the trend except in a few cases.

Decreases are attributed to the unusual volume of 1962 traffic credited to the Seattle World's Fair.

Travel on Oregon 86, seven miles east of Ashland showed a 13.7 per cent decrease for the month and a 4.8 per cent drop for the first nine months over the comparable period last year.

Oregon 238, one mile west of Ruch, showed an increase in travel with 4.2 per cent rise for September and 1.5 rise for the year. Biggest gain was on Oregon 62, four miles south of Shady Cove, where September had a 16.6 per cent rise and 6.9 per cent increase in the nine months period.

County 1-5 in Josephine County, seven miles north of Grants Pass on Grave Creek, showed a decrease of 7.7 and 6.3 per cent in traffic, and the county road, nine miles north of Grants Pass at Jump Off Joe, dropped 18.1 per cent for the month and 1.9 per cent for the year.

Comparable statistics for U. S. 99 near Talent and U.S. 199 near O'Brien were not available due to construction in the areas.

In Medford on E. Main St. at Geneva St. traffic dropped 6.2 per cent and 3.7 per cent for the month and year, respectively.
