'Fun Festival' Is Theme For Ashland Garden Show

ASHLAND — The fall flower show presented annually by the Ashland Garden Club is to have for its title, "Fun Festival" and will depart from the customary judged show. Mrs. Lawrence Messal, Medford, spoke on her hobby of orchid growing, illustrating her talk with a display of plants.

Local Entrants In Wool Sewing Contest Named

Two Southern Oregon entrants in Oregon's seventeenth annual "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest have been named as state finalists.

Miss Irene Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Budd Mitchell, 720 West Thirteenth Street, Medford, is listed with the junior division state finalists. She was given honorable mention. Miss Mitchell is a sophomore at Medford High school. She is studying home economics and is historian of the school's Future Homemakers of America unit. Miss Mitchell also is vice president of the Knit'n' Kittens 4-H Club, and vice president of a 4-H Sewing Club.

Under the senior division Miss Maryeda Frost, Grants Pass, received honorable mention.

grown in her greenhouse. "This exciting hobby all began when I bought an orchid plant in Los Angeles," said Mrs. Messal, and discovered how easily orchids can be grown. They need not be too costly and take no more care than chrysanthemums.

The wide variety of orchids makes this hobby a fascinating one, the speaker explained as she described the differences in cultivation. She declared that although it takes seven years from seed to flower, the same could be said of a rose bush, which one does not start from seed.

Mrs. Messal described the native habitat of orchids which is high in the tree tops where they seek light and air circulation, a condition the orchid grower should simulate as nearly as possible. Humidity and temperature control, sufficient watering and ventilation are the chief requirements for success. Mrs. Messal recommends the use of fir bark for potting, together with a weak fertilizer solution. Even without a greenhouse it is possible to grow orchids, as they flourish under conditions similar to those in the ordinary home.

"Only Disease" "The only disease connected with orchid growing," warned Mrs. Messal "is the bug that bites you after you have had your first bloom. For that there is no known cure."

At the conclusion of her talk Mrs. Messal presented the club with a small orchid plant from the greenhouse collection of D. J. Bolton, Medford orchidist. In turn the club president, Mrs. E. A. Bay, gave the speaker a billbergia plant.

During the business meeting Mrs. William Davis reported on the float entered by the club in the Homecoming parade and thanked all those who had assisted in its decoration. Mrs. Bay also expressed appreciation for the successful handling of the district convention for which the Ashland club was host. Plans for a booth at the December 7 Flea Market were discussed and members were asked to bring articles to the next meeting December 2.

Mrs. O. V. Poe conducted an informal flower arrangement contest in which four members took part.

Eggs, Tuna, Tomato Sauce Join for Versatile Dish

Two pantry pals, tuna and tomato sauce, join forces in Tuna Scramble, based upon scrambled eggs, a fine eye-opener on one of these cooler fall mornings. Plan it for Sunday breakfast or reserve it for one of your imaginative dinners.

In this interesting dish, the cook borrows from Chinese cuisine in the use of water chestnuts and bean sprouts. The tuna, delicate in color, turns rosy at the arrival of smooth tomato sauce in the skillet. Green Pepper and onion smartly set up the overall flavor.

Topped with soy and canned tomato sauce, the dish makes a dramatic presentation.

TUNA SCRAMBLE

One medium green pepper, finely chopped; one medium onion, finely chopped; two tablespoons pure vegetable oil; one (6½ or 7-ounce) can tuna, drained and finely flaked; one (5-ounce) can chopped water chestnuts, drained; one (No. 2) can bean sprouts, drained; three tablespoons soy sauce; one (8-ounce) can tomato sauce; five eggs; two tablespoons pure vegetable oil; one tablespoon cornstarch; one-fourth cup water; two tablespoons soy sauce.

Saute green pepper and onion in oil. Stir in drained tuna, water chestnuts, bean sprouts, three tablespoons soy sauce, and one-half can tomato sauce. Heat mixture. Remove from heat and blend into eggs which have been beaten until thick.

Add two tablespoons pure vegetable oil to skillet and pour mixture into skillet. Stir gently until cooked. Simmer remaining tomato sauce, cornstarch, water, and soy sauce until thickened. Serve over egg mixture.
