

Butte Falls Road Opening Scheduled

Butte Falls Road about three miles east of Crater Lake Highway is expected to be opened for traffic early in December, according to Robert Carstensen, Jackson County engineer.

The decking on a concrete box culvert has been poured, he said, and traffic in the area is currently using a detour.

Other county road projects include graveling of the Hyatt Lake Road in the vicinity of the lake. This project will continue until forced to stop due to the weather, Carstensen said. He noted that crews had worked there Wednesday.

Graveling of Galls Creek Road has been finished.

About one mile of Evans Creek Road is being graded.

Carstensen said that approximately 80 per cent of the centerline striping of county roads has been completed. Crews will continue this each dry day since the pavement must be dry, he explained.

Man Lodged After Fire at House

Clarence Lambert Wells, of a Medford hotel, was lodged in the Jackson County jail Thursday afternoon following a house fire on Jacksonville hill about 3 p.m.

According to Jackson County Sheriff's deputies, Mrs. Edith Madge Wells, Jacksonville, telephoned deputies at 3:03 p.m. saying that her estranged husband was at her residence and was disorderly.

Two deputies were sent to Jacksonville, but four minutes later the sheriff's office received another call from Mrs. Wells, saying that her house was on fire.

The two-story frame structure was engulfed in flames when deputies arrived, according to department reports. At first it was believed that Wells was in the house, but a search of the area found him unconscious in the weeds to the rear of the residence.

Wells was lodged in jail on a charge of drunk in a public place. The house was said to be owned by LaVern Wells, a son, who is in the U. S. Navy in Virginia.

The Wells' residence is outside of an organized fire district so the state department of forestry was called. The fire is still under investigation.

Plans for Parade Noted by Veterans

WHITE CLAY—The plans for participation by the Veterans Administration Domiciliary in the annual Veterans Day parade to be held in Medford Monday, Nov. 11, have been announced by James A. Hurson, director.

The domiciliary will be represented in the parade with a float depicting the theme of the parade, "There is No 'Ism' Like Americanism." The domiciliary orchestra will ride on this float and play as the parade proceeds through the city.

Officers of the Veterans organizations at the domiciliary, comprising American Legion Post 192, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 6912, and Veterans of World War I Barracks 14, will ride in a carry-all. A flatbed truck will carry six disabled, wheelchair members, with service organization volunteer workers standing behind each wheelchair. The station ambulance also will be in the parade.

Hurson will participate and ride in a car with the grand marshal, Medford Mayor James Dunlevy. Hurson emphasized the significance and importance of this day in an "Age of Challenge." He stated that "on this day each of us should reassert his pride in being an American and rededicate ourselves to the maintenance of this country's military, economic, and spiritual strength."

The Veterans Administration buses will transport members to the city to watch the parade.

Four Accidents Reported in City

Four vehicle accidents, including one in which a driver was slightly injured, were investigated by Medford police Wednesday. One citation was issued and another is pending, officers said.

Maureen Ann Hobbs, 35, of 15 Western Ave., was cited for disobeying a traffic signal after her car collided with a vehicle operated by Erle Monroe Gray, 72, of 832 Dakota Ave., about 5:40 p.m. at Stewart and Oakdale Aves.

Sandra Lee Hawkins, 18, of 1925 Grandview Ave., was the operator of a car which struck a vehicle registered to Joe H. and Catherine Gregory, 17 Kenwood Ave., while it was parked on West Eighth St. about 2 p.m. A citation is still pending following investigation of a two-car collision about 4:44 p.m. at Eighth and Bartlett Sts. Drivers involved were Kenneth Eugene Kennedy, 19, of 2971 Delta Waters Road, and John Alfreoce Reedy, 63, Happy Camp.

Two cars collided about 5 p.m. in the parking lot at the Medford Shopping Center. Drivers were Hilda Leisy Vargo, Eagle Point, and Chlois Bixler Lyter, 3101 Capital Ave. Miss Lyter reporter a slight injury to officers but did not require first aid.

Saffley Will Be Guest At Portland Dinner

Wayne H. Saffley, a representative of the Aetna Life Insurance Company at Medford, will be honored tonight at a dinner at the Hilton Hotel, Portland, for his outstanding record in the company's national life insurance sales campaign.

Saffley will receive special recognition for placing among national leaders of the more than 5,000 Aetna Life representatives. He wrote $681,000 in new life insurance protection under strict campaign requirements.

Official Sanction Not Given Group Seeking Center

A group of area youths led by Medford High School Student Terry Bowles, currently attempting to develop a teen-age recreation center in Medford, does not have the official sanction of the city park and recreation department.

The statement was made by Park and Recreation Director Robert L. Haworth, who said he had received a number of inquiries recently about the activities of the student group.

Bowles and members of his student committee appeared before the park and recreation commission at its October meeting to seek "the blessing" of the commission on their efforts.

The commission lauded the students for their efforts, but withheld official endorsement of the group pending further developments.

At that meeting it was arranged for Haworth and Bowles to get together on Oct. 26 so that they might discuss the youngsters' plans, and so that Haworth might apprise Bowles of the operations of successful teen-age centers in other parts of the country.

That meeting was cancelled by Bowles, and no further contact with Haworth has been made by the students.

"We're not in a position to sanction or support the activities of this group," Haworth said, Thursday "for the simple reason that we're not aware of their activities."

According to Jackson County Sheriff's deputies, Mrs. Edith Madge Wells, Jacksonville, telephoned deputies at 3:03 p.m. saying that her estranged husband was at her residence and was disorderly.

Two deputies were sent to Jacksonville, but four minutes later the sheriff's office received another call from Mrs. Wells, saying that her house was on fire.

The two-story frame structure was engulfed in flames when deputies arrived, according to department reports. At first it was believed that Wells was in the house, but a search of the area found him unconscious in the weeds to the rear of the residence.

Wells was lodged in jail on a charge of drunk in a public place. The house was said to be owned by LaVern Wells, a son, who is in the U. S. Navy in Virginia.

The Wells' residence is outside of an organized fire district so the state department of forestry was called. The fire is still under investigation.

Official Sanction Not Given Group Seeking Center

A group of area youths led by Medford High School Student Terry Bowles, currently attempting to develop a teen-age recreation center in Medford, does not have the official sanction of the city park and recreation department.

The statement was made by Park and Recreation Director Robert L. Haworth, who said he had received a number of inquiries recently about the activities of the student group.

Bowles and members of his student committee appeared before the park and recreation commission at its October meeting to seek "the blessing" of the commission on their efforts.

The commission lauded the students for their efforts, but withheld official endorsement of the group pending further developments.

At that meeting it was arranged for Haworth and Bowles to get together on Oct. 26 so that they might discuss the youngsters' plans, and so that Haworth might apprise Bowles of the operations of successful teen-age centers in other parts of the country.

That meeting was cancelled by Bowles, and no further contact with Haworth has been made by the students.

"We're not in a position to sanction or support the activities of this group," Haworth said, Thursday "for the simple reason that we're not aware of their activities."

Four Accidents Reported in City

Four vehicle accidents, including one in which a driver was slightly injured, were investigated by Medford police Wednesday. One citation was issued and another is pending, officers said.

Maureen Ann Hobbs, 35, of 15 Western Ave., was cited for disobeying a traffic signal after her car collided with a vehicle operated by Erle Monroe Gray, 72, of 832 Dakota Ave., about 5:40 p.m. at Stewart and Oakdale Aves.

Sandra Lee Hawkins, 18, of 1925 Grandview Ave., was the operator of a car which struck
