Higher Education Asked To Outline Cuts in Budget

SALEM (UPI) — A demand that the Board of Higher Education outline in detail where it plans to make $6.1 million in budget cuts was voiced today in the Ways and Means Committee by Rep. Stafford Hansell, R-Hermiston.

The demand triggered a scathing attack on higher education's policies.

Chancellor Roy E. Lieualten appeared before the pre-session meeting of Ways and Means last week and outlined where higher education might make cuts, and explained plans to increase entrance requirements, and boost tuition fees.

But it was brought out that the Board of Higher Education had not yet taken any positive action, and did not plan to do so until the special session of the legislature ended.

Hansell said: "I'm afraid we'll adjourn without getting any idea what higher education will do. They will stall if they can, but we can press them to act now if we put the pressure on."

Co-chairman Sen. Ward Cook, D-Portland, warned: "The time is coming when a closer tie between the Board of Higher Education and the legislature is going to result."

"I don't question the dedication of board members, but they are getting a long way from the people they serve."

"These are public schools," he said as he blasted proposals to increase tuition and entrance requirements.

"We are not getting the cooperation we should have under the procedures and policies set by the board so far," Cook added.

Hansell said he wanted to know what higher education planned to do before he went home from the special session.

"I don't want the decisions made after it is too late for us to do anything about them," he snapped.

Police Supervise Search of Garbage

WINSTON - SALEM, N. C. (UPI) — Donald Tison Davis resumed the tedious task today of sifting through tons of garbage in search of the $420 he allegedly stole from a cafeteria.

Police said Tuesday the 18-year-old busboy admitted taking the money last Wednesday and hiding it in a garbage can at the Reynolds Manor Cafeteria where he worked.

When he returned to pick up the cash Thursday, he found the can had been emptied. He was arrested Monday.

Police have agreed to let Davis search for the loot. He started Wednesday morning under police supervision at a garbage dump where 300,000 pounds of garbage are dumped daily.
