

General Fund Appropriation To Hatfield Urged by Hand

LA Pair Rescued By 'Copter After Being Stranded

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—A young couple from the Los Angeles area spent two nights stranded in sub-freezing weather on the slopes of Mt. San Jacinto before being rescued by helicopter Monday.

Gary Johnson, 21, La Habra, and Verna Neilson, 16, Whittier, apparently suffered no serious ill effects from their experience. They had wandered away from friends with whom they had started on a hike Saturday after taking an aerial tramway ride to the 8,000-foot level of the mountain.

Johnson had started to hike down the mountain, leaving the girl at a higher level, when a helicopter pilot found him in Tahquitz Canyon and took him to Desert Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises received walking through the brush.

Miss Neilson was located shortly after Johnson was picked up. She also was taken to the hospital.

The temperatures at night dropped to as low as 28 degrees on the mountain overlooking the Southern California desert while the couple was stranded.

SALEM (UPI)—Rep. Beulah Hand, D-Milwaukie, suggested Monday the legislature should just appropriate the whole general fund to the governor.

It was a dramatically simple solution to constitutional curbs on allowing Gov. Mark Hatfield to make selective cuts in state agency budgets.

Mrs. Hand proposed shifting the unexpended funds in all general fund budgets into a special fund, which would be allocated to Hatfield.

The governor then could release money to state agencies along the lines of the austerity program he outlined to the special session.

Absolute Control
In effect, this would give Hatfield absolute control over the rest of the 1963-65 biennium budget—subject only to suggested priorities outlined by the legislature.

The plan is in answer to roadblocks resulting from an opinion by Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton that the governor could not make selective cuts under the state's allotment control law.

Thornton said Hatfield would have to make uniform cuts.

The ruling bogged down the special session.

Legislative leaders had hoped to be able to adjourn today.

Another Crisis
The allotment control restriction, and another crisis in the state's plan to establish a space age industrial park at Boardman, dashed today's adjournment goal.

Nobody today was predicting when the special session might end.

Rep. John Mosser, R-Beaverton, also had answers to the allotment problem, but none of his three suggestions were as simple as Mrs. Hand's.

Mosser said the legislature could: (1) Set rigid guides on reductions to be made by Hatfield; (2) Make dollar amount cuts in major budgets and allow the governor to make uniform cuts in other allotments; (3) Or allow the emergency board to work with the governor on budget reductions.

Simplest
Rep. Hand insisted her plan was both the simplest and easiest.

But surprisingly, it appeared Republicans might spearhead opposition to allowing the Republican governor such complete budget control.

Democratic legislators weren't commenting on whether they would support the proposal.

The senate refused again Monday to vote on the House-approved bill to allow Hatfield to make cuts in basic school aid.

Senators wanted to know what affect Thornton's ruling might have on the measure.

Other Highlights
Expenses—Legislators Monday were mailed checks covering their $20 a day expense allotment for the first week of the special session. Meanwhile, bills to cut legislators' pay remained bottled up in committee.

Boardman—The possibility of having the veterans fund take over the Boardman Space Age Industrial Park was being investigated.

Rocky Encouraged After Support-Seeking Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller wound up a support-seeking visit to the nation's capital today on an optimistic note. He said he was "more encouraged" than ever that he would win the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

Rockefeller, the only announced Republican presidential candidate admitted, however, that he is running behind Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., but he expressed "no doubt" that he would overtake Goldwater in the months ahead.

Third Candidate
The New York governor met with a number of GOP senators during his visit. Sources said he attempted to discount reports that he was in the presidential race merely to stop Goldwater and make way for a third candidate. Rockefeller was said to have emphasized to party leaders that he is in the race for keeps.

Rockefeller was accompanied by his bride since May, Margaretta Happy Rockefeller, who described the capital visit as her "most exciting" since her last one—a wartime trip when she pedaled to the city on her bicycle from an aunt's home in nearby Arlington, Va. It was Rockefeller's first Washington visit since announcing his candidacy.

Subway Ride
Rockefeller, often holding hands with Happy, met groups of tourists and congressional employees during a three-hour, hand-shaking tour of the Senate Monday that included a subway ride, a view of the Senate in session, three short news conferences, lunch, thousands of photographs and hundreds of autographs.

Monday night he met with a small group of Republicans at dinner in his Washington mansion. He described the dinner session as strictly informal. He said that he asked for no commitments from anyone and that the meeting was for an exchange of views on the campaign.

Were Invited
The group included Republican Sens. Clifford Case, N. J., George D. Aiken, Vt., Thomas H. Kuchel, Calif., John Sherman Cooper, Ky., Leverett Saltonstall, Mass., J. Caleb Boggs, Del., Jack R. Miller, Iowa, and New Yorkers Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating. GOP national Chairman William Miller and Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., were invited but presumably could not make it.

A Rockefeller spokesman said national and international matters were the topics at the four-hour, round table discussion. All agreed that President Kennedy "should, can and will be beaten" in 1964 by any Republican candidate, including Goldwater, he said.

STRESSES RELATIONS
ROME (UPI)—Algerian Ambassador to Italy Taleb Boulhafouf said Monday night that predominantly Moslem Algeria will soon establish diplomatic relations with the Vatican.

HOW TO MAKE A MILLION $$

Q. I have tried to stop smoking but to no avail. Is there a drug that would dull my desire for tobacco?

A. We know of no drug that will safely and effectively dull the taste for tobacco. If such a drug is ever developed, the discoverer would be well on his way to making a million dollars.

Old Four-Master To Become Museum

HONOLULU (UPI)—The 85-year-old four-masted sailing ship, the Falls of Clyde, has come back home—not to die, but to begin a new life.

The 1,800-ton ship tied up Sunday at Honolulu Harbor's Pier 14, where she will be converted into a maritime museum.

As the Falls of Clyde rounded Diamond Head, she was met by a National Guard helicopter, several Air Force jets and the fireboat Abner T. Longley.

Unofficially, she was met by dozens of small craft which cruised around the mass of rotting timbers and rusted steel.

The helicopter showered the Falls of Clyde with masses of flowers, the fireboat shot five streams of water around her, and the jets tipped their wings in a homecoming salute.

Too feeble to travel by herself, the Falls of Clyde was towed on the 20-day, 2,300-mile trip from Seattle by the Navy tug Mactobi.

Just off Waikiki, the Mactobi cut the two-line and let two smaller Navy tugs complete the trip to Pier 14.

One of the VIPs at the welcoming program was Fred Klingot of San Diego, who was the ship's first mate 45 years ago.

FLAVOR WITHOUT FEAR

Q. I recently read in a medical book that the food additive, monosodium glutamate, produces stomach irritation and cancer. If this is true, why isn't its use prohibited?

A. Because the statement is not true. Monosodium glutamate is perfectly safe to use.

MALE MENOPAUSE?

Q. Do men go through a change of life as do women?

A. No. There is some adjustment in hormone secretion as men grow older, but it is not as abrupt as in women.
