Howard School

Ron Quackenbush's sixth grade class has made several maps in connection with a study of Latin American countries. Maps have been made to show the early Spanish colonies in the New World, the location of the present-day countries of Latin America, and a map to show the topography and location of important places in Mexico.

Delane Verschoor is a new member of the class. Danny Munyon moved to the Griffin Creek District.

Students had their school pictures taken recently.

In History, in Jack Bailey's room, we have completed a study of the acquisition of territory by the United States. We started with the colonial period, then moved to the Ohio Territory, Indiana Territory, East and West Florida, Mississippi Territory, the Louisiana Territory, the Mexican Territory, Oregon Country and the Gadsden Purchase.

At present we are studying the Civil War. After this we will learn how our country became a world power.

We will then start a regional study of the United States stressing Geography: rivers, capitals, cities, industries and agricultural products.

In our fifth grade reading program we have just learned two poems: "The Arrow and the Song" by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow and "Bravery" by Edmond Vance Cook.

The students in Mrs. Nita Birdseye's room are making a mural about the Spanish Southwest. When it is completed it will show desert rock formations, desert vegetation and the activities of Sam Houston, Santa Anna and their men.

Paul Ross has transferred out of Howard School to Lincoln School, having moved into the Lincoln School district.

The sixth grade art class is making table favors for Mrs. Worrell's party for the school cooks of District 849C.

Mrs. Jacqueline Rigg's fourth grade students have been making an Indian village, tepees and clay objects in connection with Social Studies.

Our parents viewed the Indian objects during "Back to School Night," Thursday, Nov. 14.

We plan to visit the Jacksonville Museum.

Mrs. Audrey Berry's and Mrs. Huldah Fisher's third grade rooms have seen some excellent films on mammals and birds.

Karen Comer is a new student in Mrs. Fisher's third grade. She had been attending school at Shady Cove.

Both rooms have been making Thanksgiving turkeys and learning Thanksgiving songs.

The children in Mrs. Joannie Wickman's room have been working on a large mural showing the first Thanksgiving.

We welcome back Kathy Comer who had moved to Shady Cove at the end of the first grade.

Sharon Bristlin is a new second grader in Mrs. Lois Beardley's room. She came from Wilson School.

We have a new boy in our first grade. He is Shannon Malone who came from Ashland. On Friday, Nov. 8, we had our school pictures taken in color. This is the first time we have had them in color. The composite pictures, however, will be black and white.

There was Open House in Mrs. Flossie Murray's Special Education Room recently.

We enjoyed getting ready for our parents. We each read our own story and it was recorded on the tape recorder. Mrs. Murray played the tape for the parents at Open House.

Tuesday we made two batches of cookies. We made "No Bake Fudgies" that do not have to be baked in an oven. We took the cookies home that were left over from the meeting.

Tax Relief Bill Given Approval

SALEM (UPI)—A bill taking kinks out of the new law giving tax relief to the elderly went to the governor Tuesday.

The Senate gave speedy approval to the bill, which earlier passed the House.

It corrects a law passed in the regular 1963 session giving persons over 65 with limited income tax exemptions, or deferrals, or both on their property.

The new bill was designed to remove some administrative difficulties.

145 Cars Per 100 Residents Noted In Service Data

The family car has had a bigger impact than usual, in the past few years, on Jackson County's economy.

Automobile buying has risen in the county, with local residents replacing their older-vintage cars with newer models. Also, in step with the current trend, many families have become two-car owners for the first time.

The number of autos around, as a result, is at a high level. There are enough of them available now for every man, woman and child in the local area to be car-borne at one time. In fact, the entire local population could be carried in just the front seats alone.

Ratio of Cars
According to a recent broad survey on the distribution of cars throughout the nation, it was found that the ratio, in Jackson County, reached 145 cars per 100 families as of the beginning of this year.

It was a bigger ratio than was reported for most parts of the United States, 118 cars per 100 families. It was 134 per 100 in the State of Oregon.

The figures are contained in a market study covering every part of the nation, conducted by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

Rise in Living Standard
The growth in car ownership reflects the rise in living standards. As families move upward on the income scale, as has been the case locally, their ability to buy cars improves in direct proportion.

The figures for the number of passenger cars in Jackson County as of January, 1963, represent the net amount in use after deducting those retired for old age.

Such activity is important to the local economy as a whole. When car sales are high, other businesses benefit as well. Employment, pay checks and profits in dozens of allied fields get a lift from it.

Credit for Boom
Much of the credit for the recent boom in automobiles in the United States is given to the trend toward multiple car ownership. At present, according to the market researchers, there are 11,300,000 families who own more than one car. That is nearly four times as many as there were 10 years ago.

How much traveling is being done in all these cars? The average driver goes about 9,500 miles a year, the figures show. Jackson County drivers, on that basis, cover more than 340 million miles annually.

Reading Is Best Vocational Tool

PORTLAND (UPI)—Thomas D. Bailey, Florida state superintendent of schools, said Tuesday that the best possible "vocational education" for today's youngsters was the ability to read.

He is attending the annual meeting of the Council of Chief State School Officers.

"We can talk all we want about vocational schools and technical institutes but if we don't do a better job of teaching our children how to read, some of them are never going to be able to get a job or hold one," Bailey said.

Bailey said that a program to teach reading through high school had been started in Florida's education system.

"This is the major reason we (the nation) have so many drop-outs—everything in school depends on the ability to read," Bailey said.
