

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, still wearing the same blood-stained suit and stockings, follows casket bearing her husband's body into the White House. She was accompanied by the slain President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. (UPI)

A military honor guard marches in front of the ambulance bearing the casket of the late Pres. John F. Kennedy as it was returned to the White House early Saturday. The casket was taken to the East Room of the Executive Mansion where it lay in repose Saturday. (UPI)

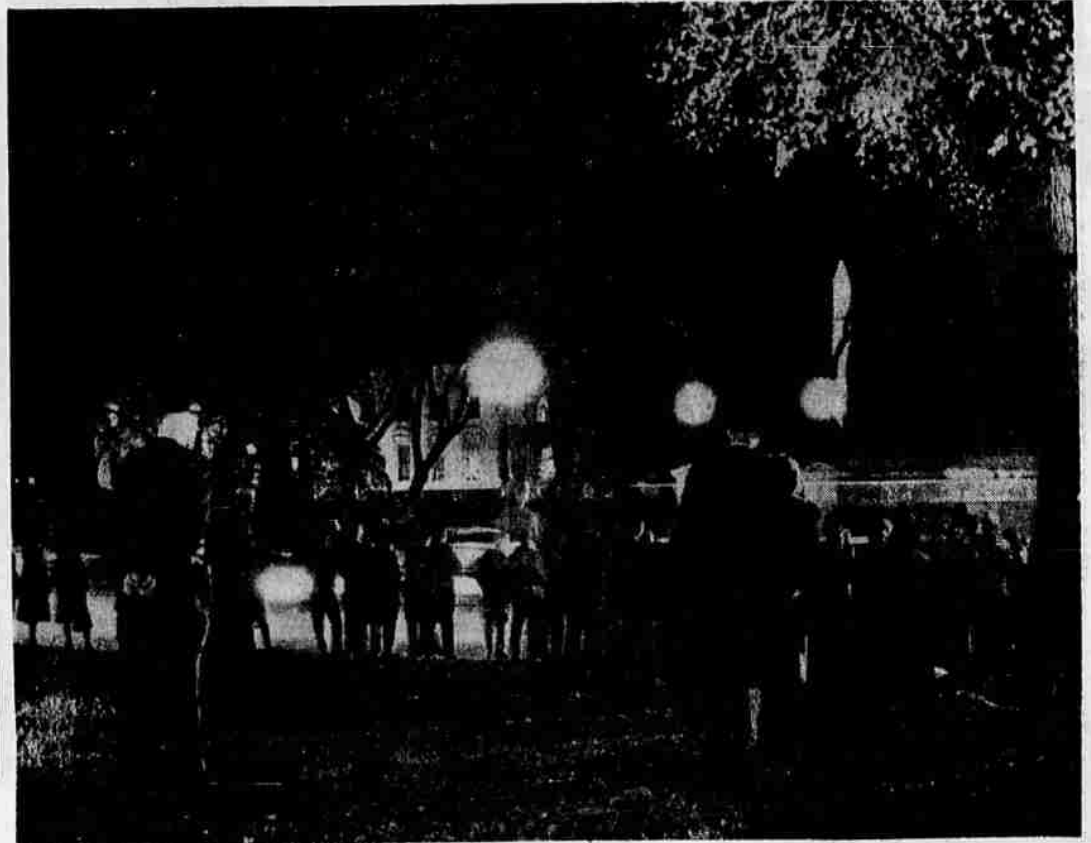

U.S. Navy ambulance carries the body of the late President past people lined up along the fence and through the White House gate early Saturday. Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of the slain President, accompanies him on his final return to the Executive Mansion. She's seated just behind the driver. (UPI)

Mrs. Rose Kennedy, mother of the slain President, is shown on her way to 7 o'clock Mass at St. Francis Xavier Church Saturday morning at Hyannis, Mass. She is escorted by two state troopers. (UPI)

A Roman Catholic priest, from St. Matthews Cathedral, carrying holy vestments, is followed by an altar boy as they arrive at the White House Friday night. Two priests stood vigil over President Kennedy's coffin through the night. (UPI)

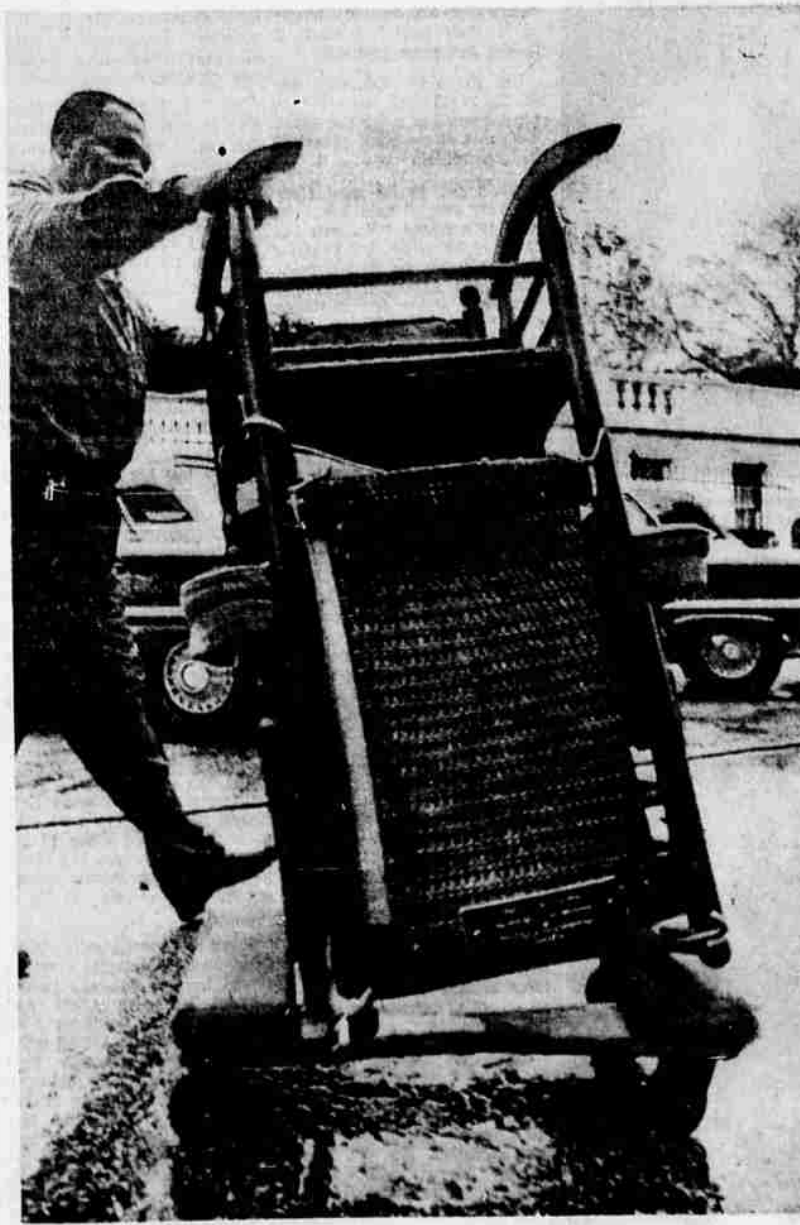

Small crowd remains in Lafayette Square opposite the White House (left of center) long after President Johnson left Friday night for his private residence. (UPI)

People brave heavy rain Saturday to stand outside the White House. The President's body lay inside in a casket draped with an American flag as the United States and the world mourned. (UPI)

Speaker of the House John McCormack (L), who is now first in line of succession to the Presidency, accompanies President Lyndon B. Johnson and Mrs. Johnson to the White House Saturday to pay respects to the late President Kennedy. (UPI)

President Kennedy's rocking chair and other personal effects are moved from the White House Saturday as the Executive Mansion is readied for the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson. (UPI)

Sen. Edward M. 'Ted' Kennedy and his sister, Eunice Shriver, as they left St. Francis Xavier Church in Hyannis, Mass., Saturday, following Mass for the late President. (UPI)