

Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Setzer

Newlyweds Now Living In Cave Junction Home

CAVE JUNCTION — Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Setzer have returned from their wedding trip to Seattle, Wash., and are living in Cave Junction. The bride is the former Miss Sally Elizabeth Reich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Reich.

Yreka Square Dance Club Events Planned

YREKA — Plans for several coming events for Circle-N-Square Dance Club members were made at a meeting of the board of directors November 19 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Grace.

Workshops will be held the first Friday evening of each month and basic round dance steps will be taught the first half hour. Dancing will begin at 8 p.m.

The club caller and two delegates planned to attend a meeting of the Shasta Cascade Square Dance Association scheduled for today in Redding.

Planned also are a Christmas party December 21; an annual jamboree, March 30 and 31 with Dick Houlton as guest caller, and beginners' square dance classes to open January 10. All interested persons are invited to attend the classes and further information may be obtained from the president, Larry Leach, or the secretary, Mrs. E. Marlowe. The instructor will be Mr. Gravelle and the classes will be held in the American Legion Hall, East Miner Street.

Don Carrey, vice president, conducted the meeting.

Economists To Hear Talk On Decorating

Rogue Valley Home Economists in Homemaking will hear a talk on interior decorating and painting by Henry Fields, Sherman Williams Paint representative, when they convene Monday, November 25 at 7:30 p. m., in Big Pines Lumber Company show rooms.

Later in the home of Mrs. Calvin Smith, 1209 Leland Street Mrs. Tom MacLeod, Mrs. Joyce Gooch and Mrs. James Ferrite will report on a conference they recently attended at Oregon State University. The conference concerned recent advances in nutrition.

Gold Hill Circle Women Make Plans

GOLD HILL — Mrs. Tom McInturf was hostess for the November business meeting of Golden Circle Women's group of the Gold Hill Christian Church.

The session was conducted by Mrs. Ted Petty in the absence of Mrs. Harvey Belmont. Plans were made to send a Christmas package to the Ken Davis family in New Guinea. The group is helping to support Mr. Davis as a missionary worker there.

Members will hold a work day and pre-Christmas clean up meeting at the church Tuesday, December 10. Mrs. Wallace Neece will be hostess. Those attending are to take sack lunches.

VFW District Officer, Wife Guests of Post

District senior vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Mel Gibson, and Mrs. Gibson, Shady Cove, were guests of honor at a recent dinner given by Crater Lake Post and auxiliary, in the VFW Hall, Medford.

Mr. Gibson showed colored slides of the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Home of Eaton Rapids, Mich. About 40 members of post and auxiliary attended.

A bazaar is planned for November 30 in the Home Appliance store, 115 East Main Street.

Teen Likes and Dislikes Topics of Special Report

By PRESTON MCGRAW DALLAS (UPI) — If the 50 entrants in the "Miss Teenage America" contest can be taken as typical of their generation, the hamburger has been dethroned. Steak and pizza are running neck and neck as the teen-agers' favorite food.

And, if they are typical, a trend toward "going steady" is declining. Only six of the 50 girls in the 1964 contest admitted having steady beaux.

One of the six was the winner of the 1964 contest, blue-eyed, brown-haired Judy Doll, Navarre, Ohio, representing Akron, Ohio. Her boy friend is George Wolfe, a student in Central Michigan University.

As winner, Judy got a $10,000 scholarship to any university she wants to attend, a convertible, a wardrobe, 50 shares of stock in a soft drink company and a trip around the country.

Big Business The contest started in 1961. Teen America Associates, Inc., a Texas corporation, now owns the contest and it is big business. The chairman of the board is Bedford S. Wynn, a multi-millionaire rancher, oil man, investor and co-owner of the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Entrants must be between 13 and 17. They are generally selected in local or city contests. The contest emphasizes talent and personality, rather than figure and beauty. The girls are not allowed to show in bathing suits.

The girls still managed to show a lot of teen-aged normalcy. Between preliminary events and during breaks in rehearsals they broke for the soft drink and candy vending machines.

Soft drinks and candy are poison to the figures of older entrants in beauty contests. But the teen-agers did not worry. UPI asked all the entrants in the contest to fill out questionnaires about themselves, their lives and their ambitions. Some of their answers sounded as if they put down what they thought they were expected to say.

But most sounded like the answers of typical teenagers. They wanted to win because winning would mean a free college education or they wanted to be entertainers and winning would be a leg up.

Also Work Some girls noted that they worked at jobs in addition to attending school.

Eileen Melody Speering, one of the three finalists, runs a dancing school in the basement of her home in New York.

Karen Valentine is a receptionist in a television shop. A handful of the 50 entrants said they liked mathematics. Several girls said they simply detested geometry, trigonometry and algebra. Some said they didn't like school, period.

Writing questionnaires in their own hands, more than half showed graceful penmanship. Not all were good spellers. One girl who was studying dancing had a hard time with "choreography." Another girl liked archery, but spelled it without the "h."

Last year's winner was Darla Jean Banks, 17, a pretty, brown-haired girl from Fresno, Calif. During the year of her reign she traveled throughout the country lecturing on the benefits of automobile seatbelts.

She also found a steady boy friend and evidently learned how to answer personal questions without making anybody unhappy.

Sample: Question — Miss Banks, do you think you have accomplished anything in the past year? Answer — If I have taught one person to wear a seatbelt it has all been worthwhile.

Twelve Days Of Christmas Project Topic WILDERVILLE—The Twelve Days of Christmas was the project lesson for the Wilderville Home Economics unit when the members met recently in the home of Mrs. George Smith, Fish Hatchery Road. Thirty women attended.

Mrs. Dale Rogers and Mrs. Edwin Robinson demonstrated the lesson, which concerned plans for the holiday season in the way of preparation, work schedules, gifts and cooking.

Mrs. R. W. Williams, Mrs. Walter Crouse, Leonard Road; and Mrs. Richard Carroll, Murphy, were guests.

Some 1,000 persons attended a recent Christmas Gift Fair given by the unit in Fruitdale Grange, Mrs. Ollie Ahlstrom announced.

Holiday pastel shades were featured at the Reames Social Club fashion show November 16 in Medford Masonic Temple and Mrs. Glenn Jerden, marshal for Reames Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, modeled a two-piece pastel pink suit with lei of natural white mink. She carried a pink opalized patent purse and the pin which highlighted the lei collar and her earrings were of soft pink and red crystal. Apparel, accessories and shoes modeled in the show were from Mann's Department store.

Senior Activity Center Classes Are Cancelled Scheduled classes at the Senior Activity Center, 601 East Jackson Street, have been cancelled for today and Monday, center officials announced this weekend.

They noted that the center will be open for use by seniors who wish to listen to the radio or read.

Some 3,258 seniors have used the facilities of the Center during the first 10 months this year. The highest attendance was during January when 462 persons attended activities there.

Tuesday the oil painting class will meet. The Spanish class meets Wednesday morning. The Council on Aging explained that the Center is in need of cardtables. Persons wishing to donate tables may contact Mrs. Enid Rankin, 772-8448.

The Senior Orchestra, which rehearses on Thursdays at 1 p.m., recently played for the CAIRE tea given by the Talent Federated Women's Club. The group now plans to give programs in the nursing homes before the Christmas season. Director is William Pickell.

The contract bridge group meets Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m. with Mrs. Fred Middlebush as hostess.

BOOT SWAP AUBURN, Wash. (UPI)—What do you do with children's rain boots that are outgrown but not outworn?

The Auburn PTA solved the problem with a boot exchange. Those who exchanged paid 25 cents. Those who came sans boots paid 50 cents for their "new" boots.

Mrs. Wayne Saffer was soloist and Mrs. Brenda Deaton played the organ.

The reception given by the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. William Howland was held in the church reception room. Miss Betty Sue Reich, Mrs. Gene Damon and Mrs. Grant Crothers served the wedding cake and beverages.

Mrs. Robert Hines assisted at the gift table.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue suit with matching accessories and her corsage was of white rosebuds. The bridegroom's mother could not attend and his sister, Mrs. Thomas, Seattle, represented his family. She wore a pink linen suit with black accessories.

The bride attended Illinois Valley High School and is employed as a bookkeeper by Weld-on and Stelling Company. The bridegroom, who attended Roseburg High School, is employed in the offices of U. S. Forest Service in Cave Junction.

The bride wore a brown and beige sheath dress with jacket for the wedding trip.

WORK SMARTER — NOT HARDER

By BERNICE STRAWN Oregon State University

The less you have to do, the less time you find to do it in, so we've been told. There's a lot of truth in this too.

When you need some one to sit up with a sick friend, it's the widow with six children who takes in washings that finds the time. She probably has a time plan but she doesn't call it that. It's in her head and she expects to get her work done each day.

To keep up with a busy holiday season, start now to make a list of extra jobs to be done. Portion them out for the days ahead on a large calendar. Work will get done and you'll save that last minute hectic confusion.

To get more for your money when shopping for meat, consider cost per serving. Mrs. Velma Seat, OSU Extension Food Marketing Specialist, passes on these tips.

What appears to be a bargain may not be one. That's why it's as important to be familiar with the number of servings per pound as to follow retail prices. Cuts vary in the amount of bone, fat and other waste.

For instance, you'll get twice as many servings from a pound of boned, fully-cooked ham as from a pound of cook-before-eating ham with bone. These cuts cost the same per serving when boned cooked ham retails for twice the price of cook-before-eating ham, says Mrs. Seat.

If your asphalt, vinyl or linoleum tile floor doesn't shine, the trouble may be with the rinsing. You must rinse thoroughly after sudsing, before applying wax. Floor should also be completely dry before waxing. Detergent or water mixed with wax causes streaks and a dull finish.

Most molded plastics are electro-static, which in plain English means that they act like a magnet and attract dust.

You'll not pick up much dust with a dry cloth. Wipe plastics such as the telephone and light fixtures with a damp cloth.

Stop Washday Tedium Don't waste time looking for socks, hankies and other small items likely to get lost in the laundry. Home economists with the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association recommend the use of a mesh bag for small items. It prevents tangling in the washer, makes small items easier to transfer from washer to dryer and keeps them from getting lost.
