Oregon Delegates Give Reaction to President's Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here is the reaction of Oregon's congressional delegation to the death of President Kennedy Friday:

Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse:
"In this dark and tragic hour, a great president has fallen. The immorality of the assassination is beyond understanding. All the world has lost a great leader and a wonderful human being. Let us all pray for his loved ones, for our country and for God's help to our new President."

Democratic Sen. Maurine Neuberger:
"This is a sad and tragic day. My heartfelt sympathy goes out to members of the President's family. It is indeed a day of sorrow for all the world."

Democratic Rep. Edith Green:
"It's not for us to blame the man who pulled the trigger but rather the breed of political outlaws that we have not taken seriously to date."

Democratic Rep. Al Ullman:
"We have never had a President who was more fair-minded, more Democratically oriented or more deeply concerned about the best interest of America and the American people, whether they agreed with him or not. He stood for the very best we have to offer."

Republican Rep. Walter Norblad:
"Simply horrible and unbelievable that such a thing could happen in a civilized nation. Mrs. Norblad and I express our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Kennedy and the family."

Rep. Robert Duncan, a Democrat, was unavailable for comment.

Help for Control of Cattle Grubs Seen by Oregon State Research

CORVALLIS—A change in the present cut-off date for use of Ruelene to control cattle grubs may result from research trials being conducted by Dr. R. L. Goulding, Oregon State University Agricultural Experiment Station entomologist.

Present label instructions restrict use of Ruelene sprays or "pour-on" applications after Nov. 1. This limits use in Oregon, since many cattle are still on range in November.

Use of the chemical was restricted after some cattle reportedly developed toxic side effects when the insecticide was applied after Nov. 1. None of the reports originated from Oregon. Toxicity was possibly due to large numbers of grubs in the animal's gut, it was said.

Goulding tested Ruelene pour-on at recommended rates on 200 animals from six herds in different sections of Oregon, between Nov. 1 and Dec. 15, 1962. No toxic side effects were observed, according to Dr. Goulding, and grub control was excellent.

Lower Profits

Goulding points out that grubs often mean lower profits for the cattlemen. Buyers may dock grubby cattle because of the

There was no immediate report on whether Ahilene Christian and Fresno State would play their postponed contest.

Washington's star guards — Rick Redmond and Rick Sortun — were expected to be able to play after using an extra week to recover from torn ligaments.

The same went for Pete Beathard, Southern Cal's ace quarterback, who has a back injury. But end Bill Tiedemann and fullback Al Geverink of UCLA remained injured and did not figure in Saturday's plans.

John Ralston said that his Stanford team had "gone flat" as a result of the assassination and postponement.

Homemade Cider Recipe Outlined

CORVALLIS — Families looking for ways to use apples from a bumper Northwest crop may want to try making some homemade apple cider. This year's Oregon apple crop is about 9 per cent larger than last year.

Washington, the leading producer, also has a larger than average harvest.

Dr. H. Y. Yang, OSU food scientist, gives this advice on making apple cider at home: Select good quality, ripe, but firm, clean apples. Mix sweet and tart varieties together for best flavor. Red and Golden Delicious, Winesaps, Jonathans, Gravenstein, and other seasonal varieties combined make tasty juice.
