

Danish Rum Pudding Recipe Serves Groups

This recipe for Danish Rum Pudding will yield 16 servings and will make something different for use when entertaining groups.

Required are one-fourth cup cold water; one envelope gelatin; two tablespoons boiling water; five eggs, separated; one-fourth lemon, seeded; one cup sugar; six tablespoons rum.

If you use a blender put cold water into the container, add gelatin, soften for a minute, add boiling water and blend until gelatin is dissolved. Separate eggs and add yolks and lemon wedge blending until they are thick and lemon colored. While the unit is operating, gradually add the sugar and blend until smooth. Just before turning off unit, add rum. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry.

Remove egg yolk mixture from container by pouring over whites and gently fold together. (If you have no blender use whip or beat.)

Use a two to two and one-half quart mold which is cold. Pour mixture into it and chill until firm. Unmold and serve with whipped cream and fresh or frozen strawberries or raspberries.

Robin Zundel, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zundel, Coleman Creek Road, displayed her collection of dolls from foreign countries at the annual CARE tea given last week at Girls Community Club by members of Travel Study Club.

The dolls were brought to Robin by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Perl, Medford, when they returned from a tour of Europe.

Furs Used Inside Raincoats

By United Press International
The fur's inside new daytime and evening raincoats were created jointly by Lawrence of London and Ben Khan. The sporting collection includes Cambodian tiger, South American vicuña, timber wolf and Irish otter linings. Novelties: A snow leopard sweater, a white broadtail midy and a caviar mink waistcoat.

Jewelry slips to new lows to keep step with neckline plunges pace-setting designers are dictating for spring. Dorothy Adams designer for Richelieu, has created a collection of plunging pearls to accentuate the positive. One piece in the plunging pearl collection is a pear-shaped baroque pearl that dangles from a tiny gold chain. Another has the one large pearl suspended from a strand of smaller baroque pearls. The big pearl always focuses attention on the most strategic position at the base of the plunge.

Never let it be said that women have a priority on getting fashion ideas from the movies. A fictional hero of 18th century England — "Tom Jones" — has brought the gentlemen's ascot into fashion focus this season via emmaland. Witness the ratcheter by Countess Mara. This version of the ascot is similar to a neck wrapping worn originally by the London Cockneys, as well as the traditional neckwear of those who ride to the hounds.

Watch for bags, shoes, belts, wallets made from elephant's ears. "Harper's Bazaar" reports items made from elephant ears first were shown in Paris, soon will hit the American market.
