

Large Number of Juvenile Cases Handled in County During Month

The Jackson County Juvenile Court has heard a large number of cases so far this month. Juvenile Director Lawrence L. Tweedy noted that on Friday, Nov. 8, seven cases involving juveniles were presented to Juvenile Court Judge Edward C. Kelly.

Result of Hearings

The hearings resulted in one 14-year-old girl being committed to Hillcrest School for Girls for violation of probation, two 13-year-old boys released to parents on probation, two 13-year-old boys released on probation, a 16-year-old girl's case being held over for further investigation into a home situation, and one 17-year-old girl continued as a ward of the court until her 18th birthday in February.

Five other cases were presented and dismissed on basis of good adjustment on probation. One 16-year-old runaway boy was released to his parents to return to the Portland area, and one 16-year-old runaway girl is being held for further investigation of the family situation. On Nov. 15, Juvenile Court Judge James M. Main committed a 14-year-old boy to MacLaren School for Boys for being obnoxious in school and violating his rules of probation. Two boys, one 14 and one 15, were placed on probation. Four cases were dismissed for good adjustment on probation.

Judge Kelly released a 16-year-old girl to Iowa relatives after he heard the case Nov. 20. He also heard seven cases involving 11 juveniles Nov. 22. One 15-year-old girl was committed to Hillcrest School for Girls for behavior that endangered her own welfare and the welfare of others. A 14-year-old girl was committed to Villa St. Rose, Portland. One custody case resulted in a 11-year-old boy being released to his mother.

Six children were placed in custody of the Jackson County Public Welfare Commission at Rose, Portland. One custody case resulted in a 11-year-old boy being released to his mother. Six children were placed in custody of the Jackson County Public Welfare Commission at Rose, Portland. One custody case resulted in a 11-year-old boy being released to his mother.

Two 14-year-old boys were released to their parents after being heard on theft charges. Further violations would send them to MacLaren, the judge warned. Seven other boys' and girls' cases were dismissed for good adjustment on probation.

A wave of girls' cases resulted in six girls being detained. Two girls were released on a trial basis for the Thanksgiving week end. The other girls were held for security reasons. Two other rooms are being held for two runaway girls who have not yet been found by law enforcement officials. Three boys were held in detention Nov. 27, one for failure to make adjustment to foster homes, one had been suspended from school and refused to re-enter, and a third was beyond parental control. Juveniles detained over Thanksgiving received the standard Thanksgiving dinner. County Commissioner Edwin Taylor arranged with the state fish and game commission to send 20 large striper salmon to the detention home. They were processed for freezing by juveniles. Produce from the county farm was consigned to two grocery stores in Medford. The credit of $50 received was used to purchase other food supplies for the home. Eleven ducks, three pheasants and one deer, all illegally killed, were donated to the detention home by Oregon State Police.
