

"Why don't they make a cold tablet Donald can take?"

Donald John Eckles, age 6, Midwest City, Okla. His mother found a new way to help.

"Then a friend told me that Fletcher's did," says Mrs. Donald Eckles of Midwest City, Oklahoma.

"And since I knew Fletcher's as the oldest, most dependable name in children's medicines, I felt sure that they would be effective and right for a child.

"And they were. With Cold-tabs, Donald got relief from sneezing and stuffed nose very quickly.

"Now, at the first sign of a cold I give him new Fletcher's Children's Cold-tabs."

Fletcher's Cold-tabs help relieve a stuffed nose with famous Neo-Synephrine*. They even contain Vitamin "C" recommended by many doctors to help maintain resistance. Fletcher's Cold-tabs are easy to give, easy to take . . . with such a pleasant fruit flavor your child can just chew them. Now at drug counters everywhere.

A Tiny Tent House

By Bea Kiles

(A Game for Younger Boys and Girls)

Here's something to do when one or two playmates come over on a rainy day. Ask your mother for an old deck of cards or other stiff cards that are not too slippery. Give each player 15 or 16 cards and see who can use the most cards in building a tent house before it falls.

Feather Blow Game

By Georgia Martin

Provide a feather or a piece of fluff for as many groups of three or four as there are in your party. Each group holds hands, facing inwards. One tosses the feather upward. The aim is to keep the feather in the air by blowing it, but it must not be touched with the hands. The group that keeps its feather in the air the longest wins.
