Secret Service Protection For Mrs. Kennedy in Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House was expected to move swiftly today to approve a bill that would provide temporary Secret Service protection and other benefits to President Kennedy's widow and children.

The bill was introduced only last Friday by Rep. Tom Murray, D-Tenn., chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Under an existing law, enacted in 1958, Mrs. Kennedy is entitled to a $10,000 annual pension for the rest of her life.

Murray's bill would authorize:

—Lifetime franking privileges for Mrs. Kennedy, enabling her to send mail postage free.

—The General Services Administration to provide her with office space for six months at a place to be selected by her, and up to $50,000 for employment of a staff.

—Secret Service protection for her and her two children for one year, with at least two agents assigned to the family.

—Government payment of expenses arising from the President's death, including undertaker fees and transportation.

Other congressional news:

Guns: The Senate Commerce Committee is reported ready to approve Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's bill to prevent criminals and juveniles from purchasing guns through the mail once it gets Justice Department approval. Dodd, a Connecticut Democrat, amended the measure after President Kennedy's assassination to extend the prohibition to rifles, similar to the $12.78 Italian-made weapon used to kill the Chief Executive in Dallas.

Taxes: The Senate Finance Committee begins its last week of hearings on the House-passed $11 billion tax cut measure. Closed-door consideration of the stalled bill by the committee will follow with pressure expected to be exerted on members to finish their work and have the measure ready for a Senate vote in January.

Fallout Shelters: Army Chief of Staff Gen. Earle G. Wheeler and Stuart L. Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for civil defense, were to testify as a Senate armed services subcommittee begins hearings on a house-passed bill to provide $19 million toward construction of fallout shelters in schools, hospitals and other non-profit institutions.

Communist Connection in Slaying Denied

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union, which has denied any connection with President Kennedy's accused assassin, Lee H. Oswald, hinted Sunday in two newspaper reports that Oswald spied for the United States during his two and one-half years in Russia.

Oswald, who was killed two days after the President's slaying, was reported to have described himself as a Marxist. Soviet statements have rejected this and denied that the Communists were connected in any way with the assassination, which they have blamed on a plot by American right - wing extremists.

Said Writing Book

Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, went a step further Sunday and quoted a report that Oswald had identified himself as an American spy.

It said a Ft. Worth stenographer named Pauline Bates was helping Oswald write an "anti-Soviet book" on his stay here from October, 1959, to May, 1962.

"This book, she said, dealt with his sojourn in the Soviet Union," Pravda said. "In it, he sharply criticized the Soviet Union.

"Besides, the stenographer added, Oswald hinted that he had worked as an American secret agent," the Pravda report added.

Trud, the Soviet trade union newspaper, carried a similar hint:

"Go - getting American correspondents will succeed in finding out to what extent his (Oswald's) hints of belonging to the secret service are authentic, although the authorities will surely deny this version."

Pravda also mentioned that Oswald "maintained contact with the U.S. Embassy and in 1962 decided to leave the Soviet Union, receiving the corresponding permission of the American Embassy and money for the trip."

In another development, it was learned here Sunday that shortly after his arrival in Moscow in 1959, Oswald slashed his wrists and was hospitalized for several days. Reliable sources said he acted after Soviet authorities rejected his application for Soviet citizenship.

It was not known whether the wrist slashing was a genuine suicide attempt or a gesture to evoke attention and sympathy.

Pope Paul To Promulgate Document Extending Powers of Bishops; Last Working Session Ends

VATICAN CITY (UPI)— The Ecumenical Council held its last 1963 working session today and was told that Pope Paul VI will promulgate a document Tuesday extending the powers of bishops.

The document is titled "Pastorale Munus," which means "Of Pastoral Office."

The document was seen as a move to give concrete meaning to the principle that bishops share authority with the Pope in governing the church.

The council wound up debate today on a document dealing with Christian unity.

Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the secretariat for promoting Christian unity, promised the council fathers that key statements on religious liberty and against anti-semitism would come up at the next session, scheduled to begin Sept. 14 and last through Nov. 20, 1964.

A number of council fathers were disappointed that the two subjects had not come up for vote and Bea's speech was an attempt to reassure them that parliamentary maneuvering would not result in their being shelved.

During its two meetings last fall and this year, the council has had 79 working sessions. Council fathers — cardinals, bishops and heads of religious orders from around the world—have heard millions of words of debate in Latin.

So far, only two of the 17 proposed documents have been completed. These two decrees, one dealing with the form of public worship and the other with modern communications media, will be promulgated by Pope Paul VI on Wednesday when he officially brings this council session to an end.

The liturgical reform document is designed to convert the Catholic laity from silent spectators into active participants in public worship. Among other things, it authorizes use of modern languages instead of Latin in large portions of the Mass and in the administration of such sacraments as baptism and marriage.

The communications document calls for higher moral standards in all news media — press, radio and television. It upholds the freedom of the press, but sets Catholic guidelines for the use of mass communications.

Roman Catholic sources said Sunday the council may go on until 1966, which would give it a five-year span. The late Pope John XXIII, who called the council and presided at its first session in October, 1962, had hoped it could finish by this Christmas. But the end is nowhere near in sight.
