Coin Shortage Said Reaching Critical Stage

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A shortage of coins that has haunted the nation for a year is now reaching the critical stage due to the current Christmas buying spree.

In years previous, during the Christmas season, the economy usually was pinched for certain denominations of coins—especially nickels, quarters and pennies.

However, this year, Treasury spokesmen said Wednesday, the demand for all coins is greater than the mint can turn them out.

The situation is said to be so serious in some cities that banks are urging persons with un-needed coins to exchange them for paper money. The Federal Reserve banks were rationing their allocations to all members.

In general, the coin shortage is one of the products of the vending machine era and the increased use of coins in the economy for other purposes.

Congress has authorized construction of a new mint at Philadelphia to produce more coins, but so far has appropriated money to get the project started.

In addition to Philadelphia, the Treasury also makes coins at a mint in Denver. Both installations are working around the clock.

The Bureau of the Mint reports that about 4.1 billion coins will be produced during the current fiscal year. Officials say that if they produced 6 billion this year, it would not be enough to fill the demand.

147 Fellowships Received by UO

Eugene — The University of Oregon leads the nation's colleges and universities in the number of National Defense Education Act fellowship awards received since Congress instituted the Act in 1958.

The University has received 147 fellowships in 16 approved programs in the past six years, Clyde Patton, acting dean of the Graduate School, said.

Twenty-three fellowships, effective for the 1964-65 school year, were announced recently. The maximum number of grants obtained by any single institution for the coming year was 25 with the University of Kansas and Michigan State tying as top recipients. The University of Wisconsin received 24.

The grants will give Oregon active "fellows" for the 1964-65 term. Currently, 69 educators are undertaking research projects on campus through the fellowship grants.

Awarding of the funds will allow research to be undertaken in anthropology, business administration, chemistry, comparative literature, economics, elementary education, English, German, mathematics and physics.

The National Defense Education Fellowships were established by Congress to raise the level of graduate work in the nation.

New York Attorney Awarded Medallion

NEW YORK (UPI) — Irving M. Engel, prominent New York attorney and civic leader, has been awarded the American Liberties Medallion of the American Jewish Committee for "exceptional advancement of the principles of human liberties."

He has been active in several human rights causes for several years.

Founded in 1906, the Committee is the oldest human relations agency in this country designed to combat bigotry and protect the civil and religious rights of Jews.

Patients Favor Others In Hospital Room

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Hospital patients queried in a survey here overwhelmingly picked two-bed rooms and four-bed rooms over single rooms.

Only 22 per cent of the patients questioned preferred single rooms.

YOUTH BOOM

NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of children under 18 boomed to a record total of nearly 69 million in the United States by mid-1963 and may grow an additional 18 million by 1969, reports the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

HAULING

NEW YORK (UPI) — Long distance over-the-road truck hauling may be a doomed industry, according to President Gerald Eskow of Yale Express Systems. The combination of railway piggy-back for long-haul and trucks for hauls up to 400 miles is much cheaper and faster, he said, and is growing in use steadily.
